SMEAR TACTICS AGAIN UNDER FIRE

Stevenson Accuses GOP Of Hypocrisy

Attacks Republican Communism Stand

EN ROUTE WITH STEVENSON, Oct. 30 (AP) — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson accused the Republicans today of "effrontery" and "shameless hyprocrisy" for declaring the Truman administration had been soft toward communism.

The Democratic presidential nominee whistle-stopping from Philadelphia to the steel center of Pittsburgh, reeled off a list of anti-Communist actions taken by the Democrats and said "Old Guard Republicans" had opposed them all.

Demos Fought Commies

Stevenson said the record showed it was the Democrats who recognized the Communist menace and took steps to meet it.

He blasted the Republican argument as "an insult to the people's intelligence."

The Illinois governor delivered his attack on the Communist issue in York, a manufacturing city which the Democrats carried in 1948. Police estimated the crowd at 5,000.

Stevenson credited President Truman and the Democratic administration with these measures:

The Marshall Plan to save Western Europe from going Communist.

The North Atlantic Treaty to band together the free peoples of Europe.

GOP Fought Measures

Adoption of the mutual security program to arm free countries against communism.

His voice rising, Stevenson asked where the "Old Guard" had been.

"They fought against every one of these measures," he shouted.

Stevenson declared further it was under the Democratic administration that Amreican Communist leaders and spies for Russia were jailed.

Earlier, in Reading, Stevenson pledged a "better break" for business as well as for labor and farmers.

He conceded his friendly words for business might be regarded by some as "strange talk" from a Democratic candidate, but he said he intended to "end this noisy and largely unnecessary war" between some segments of government and business.

The governor held that the aim of most businessmen no longer was monopolism, but genuine service.

"I don't believe that these changes in the nature of business have been adequately recognized by everybody in government," he said.

"I think we must sweep out of the corridors of government, at all levels, national and state, these lingering suspicions which are a holdover from an earlier and very different time"

But he insisted that business had prospered under the Democratic administration.

Stevenson said a propaganda campaign had portrayed the Democratic party as anti-business, when the fact was that"today American business has bigger profits than ever before in history—not just before taxes, but after taxes as well."

Rollins Named State Atty.-Gen.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 30 (AP)—The State House announced today that Edward D. E. Rollins, former state's attorney for Cecil County, has been appointed as Maryland's new attorney general by Gov. McKeldin.

The 52-year-old Elkton resident will fill the office vacated by Atty. Gen. Hall Hammond when he was appointed to the Maryland Court of Appeals last month.

Ever since Hammond was elevated to his new post, Rollins has been considered his likely successor. The long-awaited appointment of the Republican Rollins puts GOP men in two of the three top elective offices in the state, Hammond is a Democrat.

The native Baltimorean, who moved to Elkton in 1927, said today he was willing to "campaign with the governor in 1954," indicating McKeldin has definite plans to run for re-election then.

As a delegate to the Republican National Convention in Chicago last July, Rollins stuck close to the governor when he maneuvered todeliver most of Maryland's votes to Gen. Eisenhower.

Rollins served three consecutive terms as state's attorney for Cecil County from 1931 to 1943. He since has worked at his private law practice.

Seven Hostage Guards Refused Food By Felons

CHESTER, Ill., Oct. 30 (AP) — Mutinous convicts and officials reached a stalemate today in negotiations to end a rebellion at Menard State Prison as seven starved and haggard hostages began their fourth day without food.

A series of parleys with the 331 unruly convicts blasted hopes expressed by acting Gov. Sherwood Dixon for an early end to the unrising, perhaps today.

The rebel convicts sent word to Dixon they would release the six guards and a prison lieutenant seized in the original outbreak Monday only if he met 12 demands without question.

Modify Demands

Later they modified this by agreeing to withdraw demands, such as one calling for relaxation of state parole regulations, that would require legislative action.

Robert Rees, information director of the State Department of Public Safety, said "it is quite obvious the acting governor will not dignify this message with a reply."

"It is impossible even to consider it," Rees said. "Acceptance would be tantamount to complete surrender."

Three officials were permitted to see the seven hostages, who were brought to the entrance to the beseiged east cell block one or two at a time, escorted by convicts armed with clubs.

"They looked as good as could be expected, considering they had not eaten since Monday noon," said Leonard Wood, the prison's chief guard.

Hostages Not Mistreated

With their captors standing nearby, the hostages told the three officials they had not been mistreated and had been given water but no food.

Loren Stewart, the lieutenant in charge of the cell house and one of the hostages, asked that his family ben otified hew as a ll right. Then said:

The others who were permitted to see the hostages were Michael Farrin, administrative assistant to Gov. Adlai Stevenson, and Frank Trapp, superintendent of Illinois prisons.

"It was obvious that the inmates told them what to say,' Farrin said.

May Starve Prisoners

Farrin indicated that in view of the stalled negotiations, authorities may resort to starving the inmates into submission.

Three hostages who were held for 22 hours by convicts in the psychiatric division of the prison in a separate uprising were released yesterday after Dixon agreed to hear their grienvances, a promise he fulfilled. Order was restored to that section of thep rison.

Truman Says Tide Turning Against Reds

Fears Republicans May Lose Peace

DETROIT, Oct. 30 (AP)—President Truman said tonight the nation is reaching a turning point in the world-wide struggle against communism and "the balances are moving in our favor."

But the President campaigning to put Adlai Stevenson in the White House as his successor, added a quick warning that progress toward peace would be imperiled by "Republican isolationist policies of withdrawal, of feeble half-measures, of appeasement and surrender."

Hits At Eisenhower

Then, in a speech prepared for a big crowd at the Michigan State Fair Grounds, Truman resumed his running offensive against GOP presidential nominee, Dwight D. Eisenhower, declaring:

"He has put fear in the hearts of free people all over the world by his loose talk about the fighting in Korea."

"His campaign tactics are injuring the unity with which this country is supporting the brave and necessary effort of its fighting men there."

"He has talked his country's policies in such a way that Soviet delegate Vishinsky has been able to use his statements while attacking this country in the United Nations."

Truman blasted Eisenhower's foreign policy views while assailing the Republicans in scathing terms on two aspects of home front policy:

1. He said the GOP has adopted, with Eisenhower's consent, the "big lie" tactics of the Nazis and Communists. "You cannot trust your human rights to a party that is running on the coat-tails of Wisconsin senator Joe McCarthy," the President declared.

2. He accused Republicans in Congress of delaying civil rights legislation because ot a "sordid bargain" with the Dixiecrats. A deal, Truman said, which the Republicans counted on to split the South and elect a Republican president this year.

Whistle-Stops Michigan

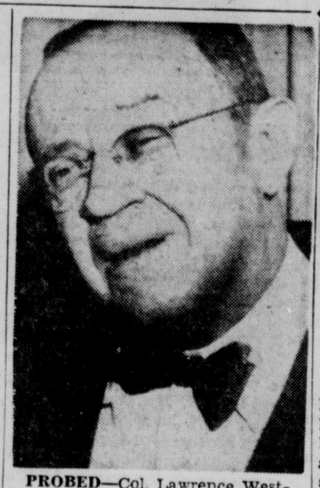
That, Truman said, "lies behind the hullabaloo you have heard this year about Republican candidate for president in Texas and Louisiana and South Carolina. That's one of the things behind his great crusade."

There was scarcely a pause today, as Truman whistle-stopped across Michigan with its 20 electoral votes, in the verbal artillery he unleashed against Eisenhower.

The President said the general's "casual pledge, over a cup of coffee," at his breakfast conference with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, "could mean the difference between peace and a third world war."

And he accused Eisenhower of making a series of deals—despite his description of himself as a "No Deal" candidate — which would put reactionary Republicans in the saddle and lead down the road to depression.

Truman referred to the Eisenhower-Taft breakfast meeting in New York at which the general agreed, among other things, that federal spending could be cut by billions of dollars. Eisenhower later said much of this cut would be made in the defense budget, mainly by eliminating waste.



PROBED—Col. Lawrence Westbrook denies he used or attempted to use his Democratic National Committee position to influence awarding of tungsten contract, deal which is now being ordered probed by government. Westbrook was dismissed from his committee position yesterday by Democratic Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell.

Probe Ordered Into Westbrook Tungsten Deal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP) — Jess Larson, chief buyer of critical materials for the government, today ordered an inquiry into the nine million dollar tungsten contract signed by Col. Lawrence Westbrook, fired last night as a Democratic National Committee official.

Westbrook was dismissed by Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic chairman, shortly after the New York Herald Tribune published a copyrighted story terming the case "the biggest 5 per center deal ever exposed in Washington."

The newspaper said Westbrook and two other men stood to share a $450,000 commission.

Larson signed the contract, since cancelled, as head of the Defense Materials Procurement Agency. He said Westbrook signed on behalf of a Portuguese company which was to furnish the government with tungsten, a metal vital in the production of steel.

Larson told newsmen he had ordered a "complete investigation," both in North America and Europe.

Westbrook could not be reached after a telephone conversation with the Herald Tribune, in which he said he had done nothing wrong. In his statement last night, Mitchell said "there is no information before me that Col. Westbrook sought to bring improper influence to bear on any agency or to make improper use of his position with the Democratic National Committee."

But Mitchell said he dismissed Westbrook because "I do not think any exception can be made to the policy that an employe of the committee must not engage in business with the government."

Westbrook, a former Army man who is a research and development engineer, has been acting since last Jan. 5 as a liaison man between the Democratic committee and members of Congress. More recently he has been working on the Texas state campaign for the Democratic national ticket.

Ike Decries Slander Used By Democrats

Sees Long, Hard Pull In Korea War

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight accused President Truman and Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of "unrestrained slander" and said the Democrats are waging a "dirty" campaign — "The most scurrilous in American political history."

Eisenhower did not call the President and Stevenson by name, but he left no doubt he was talking about them in an address prepared for delivery at a Madison Square Garden rally and for nation-wide television and radio.

In angry language, Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, declared that in his life time he has been worked over by "poison pen" experts in Nazi Germany and Russia.

Made Charge Against Ike

"But until our success in this campaign drove our opponents to desperation, no one had ever engaged in such unrestrained slander as to charge I would trim my principles to run for office," he added.

Both Truman and Stevenson, along with some other Democrats, have made precisely that charge against the general.

Earlier, in a day long tour of New York City, Eisenhower called attention to the firing last night of an official of the Democratic National Committee, who stood to profit from a government purchase of tungsten ore.

Eisenhower called him "the biggest five percenter of all" and said:

"They had to fire him last night because someone else caught up with him. It keeps going on and on . . . Is that the kind of government you put your trust in?"

250,000 See Eisenhower

Speaking during the day in Staten Island, Manhattan and Brooklyn, the general had rapped back hard at Stevenson, declaring there is no easy way out of the Korean War — only a long, hard, way.

The GOP nominee told a police estimated crowd of 250,000 persons in Manhattan's garment district:

"No man has ever heard me say there is an easy way out of the Korean War. It's a long, hard, weary way."

His Democratic opponent has contended that Eisenhower and other Republicans have implied there is an easy way.

In his speech tonight, the general said the Democrats have been trying to put across the idea that he has changed since winning the GOP nomination last July.

"It is they who have changed," the general declared. "Because they could not exploit me, they are determined to destroy me; to destroy my lifelong friendships my reputation, my spirit.

Ike "Unscathed"

"But, ladies and gentlemen, I have been through real bombardments and I am unscathed by their fusillade of blanks and blankety-blanks."

Eisenhower repeated that four years ago some Democrats tried to get him to run for president on their ticket.

"Do you for one moment doubt that if I had accepted their offer, they would be today singing my praises with as much fervor as they now attack me?" he asked.

Allies Lose, Win Back Crest Of Triangle Hill

SEOUL, Friday, Oct. 30. (AP) — Allied troops today won back the crest of Triangle Hill in Central Korea less than nine hours after overwhelming numbers of Chinese Reds had seized it.

The re-occupation, a recovery from the Allies' worst setback in 18 days of battle, was reported at 11 a. m. by a U. S. Eighth Army officer.

The earlier Red attack had broken through Allied lines so swiftly that an Allied company was trapped on the height.

Bitter hand-to-hand fighting not only rewon the crest but also carried reinforcements to the once trapped company which then opened a counterattack.

The onslaught by 2,000 Ghinese was pressed relentlessly through an Allied artillery barrage so withering that one of three attacking Red battalions was cut to pieces and withdrew.

AP Correspondent John Randolph at the front said the loss of Triangle posed a major threat to the western flank of the Allies on nearby Sniper Ridge, which it overlooks. The Reds hit Sniper with a light attack.

The Chinese seized the summit of Triangle Hill at 2 a. m., then pressed on south. Confused fighting was in progress at the base of the Triangle in the pre-dawn darkness.

Allied artillery fired in maximum concentration with everything up to eight-inch guns, Randolph reported.

It was the heaviest loss of territory the Allies have suffered in the 18-day-old battle on the front north of Kumhwa.

The U. S. Seventh Division had seized Triangle Hill Oct. 15.

The Allies had held Triangle since, despite all the fury of Red counterattacks and violent artillery barrages.

About 150 Chinese simultaneously attacked Sniper Ridge, about a mile east of Triangle Hill, early today. There was no sign that this was a major effort to take the ridge, however.

Destructive Fires Cover United States With Loss Estimated Into Millions

By The Associated Press

Outdoor America's autumn enemy—fire—is on the broadest, most destructive and potentially most dangerous rampage in many years, a survey showed Thursday.

Reports from tinder dry states in much of the eastern half of the nation showed that nearly a million acres of rich timberlands, brush and grasslands have gone up in flame and smoke this month.

Damage runs into uncounted millions of dollars and the situation is more explosive now than it was at the start of the month.

An Associated Press survey showed Louisiana alone has lost over two million dollars worth of forests and that at least three other states report more than a million dollars damage each—Mississippi, Illinois and Indiana.

Officials have been unable to hazard even a guess of the damage in hard-hit Tennessee, where the worst fires in the state's history are raging uncontrolled.

Some 100,000 acres of timberland in Tennessee's Cumberland plateau were ablaze today in 48 separate fires and Evan M. Pitt, assistant state forester, said nothing but heavy rain was likely to bring them under control.

But the U. S. Weather Bureau said no general rain is in sight to break the drought that dates back to mid-August in many states.

New fires sprang up and ran out of control in Missouri, south of St. Louis. Stiff winds and a heavy smoke pall hampered fire fighting efforts in Missouri, which is experiencing its biggest rash of fall fires on record.

Another Missouri field fire roared out of control near Clinton, spread to nearby timber and consumed several farm houses Friday. Highway workers were sent to the scene with bulldozers.

A smoke pall also lay over much of the Southeast.

Iowa farmers were plowing fire breaks around their corn fields to prepare for the worst fire hazard in memory in that state.

The survey showed thousands of weary professional and volunteer fire fighters were working around the clock at times to bring fires under control.

West Virginia alone has 4,000-5,000 persons fighting fires and many other states had more than 1,000 fire fighters each engaged at this task.

UN Allocates Palestine Relief

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—With Iraq angrily abstaining, the U. N. Special Political Committee voted to allocate today 23 million dollars for relief of some 900,000 Palestine refugees in the Middle East.

The money is for the 1952-53 year, and the committee's action must be approved by the General Assembly.

Fifty nations voted to support the program, sponsored by the United States, Britain, France and Turkey. There were no votes against it, but the Soviet Bloc, Iraq and Chile abstained.

Dr. Fadil Jamali of Iraq said he abstained because of the "discriminatory policy of a certain power." He declined to name the power for reporters. Other sources said Jamali apparently regarded testimony by State Department officials in recent congressional hearings as discriminatory toward Arabs.

The money for the program is raised by voluntary contributions, with the United States, Britain and France giving more than 90 per cent. Chile had announced that, as it was making no contribution, it would not vote.

The resolution set, subject to review next year, a figure of 18 million dollars for relief of the refugees in 1953-54.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 30 (AP) — Publisher Herman (Hank) Greenspun, who said his paper was the first in Nevada to support Gen. Eisenhower for president, today switched his allegiance to Gov. Stevenson.

Army Buddies Plead For U. S. Not To Deport Yugoslavian

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (INS)—A Yugoslavian-born GI, armed with an appeal signed by 110 of his army buddies in Iceland, was overjoyed today at news that deportation proceedings against him may be halted by a special act of Congress.

Cpl. Silvano Giuricin, 23, who sought refuge in the U. S. by jumping ship after fleeing his communist homeland, had been ordered returned to Camp Kilmer, N. J., for separation from the army prior to being turned over to immigration officials.

A letter to the New York Daily Mirror signed by the officers and men of the corporal's outfit brought his story to light. The letter described Giuricin as a fine American.

Referring to his buddies, the young soldier declared:

"They were wonderful to me. They were like big brothers to me. If there is anything I have done for them, I hope it is impressing on them how wonderful is the liberty in this country."

Rep. Dollinger (D) N. Y., told the Mirror he is asking immigration authorities to delay deportation proceedings against the corporal until a bill can be introduced into the next session of Congress making Giuricin a quota immigrant.

Meanwhile, the army announced that Giuricin will be stationed at Camp Kilmer until the question of his status can be resolved.

Doctor Treats Dog, Ill Aboard Ship, By Telephone Call

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP) — Dr. E. Irvin Seserke, a veterinarian, used radio telephone today to prescribe treatment for a fox terrier aboard the S. S. Mae, a freighter 200 miles off the South Carolina coast.

Dr. Meserke had t reated the mascot before when the Mae was in port here.

Dr. Merserke had treated the mascot before when the Mae was in port here.

The crew called him today when the dog became seriously ill. She bore a litter of pups about three weeks ago and Meserke could tell by the telephone description she is suffering from a calcium deficiency. The medicine he prescribed was among the ship's supplies.

Dunlap Fails ToHeedSubpoena

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP) — House investigators said today that Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap had ignored a congressional subpoena to produce certain tax information. They indicated they would make an issue of his action.

Top members of a House judiciary subcommittee which is investigating tax irregularities said Dunlap also had refused to appear at a subcommittee meeting when the subpoena deadline expired at 2 p.m., yesterday.

Chairman King (D-Calif) and Rep. Kean of New Jersey, ranking Republican member, said in a joint statement "we wish to make it clear we are not going to be denied information vital to our work in improving revenue administration and we will not permit anyone, no matter his position, to impede our investigation."

In a letter Tuesday to John E. Tobin, subcommittee counsel, Dunlap said the issuance of the subpoena "would appear to be a departure from the arrangements for utilization of the basic documents worked out between me and the subcommittee staff."

He said he would be glad to agree upon some future date for him to appear before the full membership of the committee and discuss compliance with the subpoena, but indicated that it could not be before Dec. 1. He said he was very busy carrying out a reorganization of his bureau.

Van Fleet's Korea Proposal Turned Down

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Defense Department said tonight it has long planned to turn over defense of Korea to the South Koreans when possible. But it confirmed that a plan by Gen. James A. Van Fleet to double the number of South Korean divisions had been vetoed by higher authorities as impracticable.

Polio Cases Drop

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A 13 per cent drop in the number of polio cases was reported today by the Public Health Service.

1,200,000 Veterans Face Lapse Of GI Insurance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Some1,200,000 veterans have no more —and in some cases much less— than 14 months to reinstate 10 billion dollars worth of term life insurance policies which have lapsed.

The Veterans Administration said today that unless reinstatements are made in that time the policies "will be lost forever."

The policies involved are lapsed term National Service Life Insurance NSLI that were issued to two groups of World War II and post-World War II veterans.

The two groups are:

1. The 1,100,000 World War II veterans who took out term NSLI policies while they were in service during the last two months of 1944 and all of 1945.

2. The 100,000 World War II and post-World War II veterans who took out term NSLI policies while they were in service during the last two months of 1947 and all of 1948.

The first group have eight-year term policies and the second group have five-year term policies. Both terms expire during the last two months of this year or during next year, depending upon the anniversary date of each policy.

The Veterans Administration said that if veterans in either group do not wish to lose this coverage altogether they must reinstate their policies before the terms expire.

The agency said applications for reinstatements should be sent to it.

French Raiders Hit Red Flank

A raiding column struck from the French-held Red River delta across the lower Black River 40 miles northwest of Hanoi and knifed six miles or more into the rugged country beyond.

The troops were under orders to destroy supply depots, cut communications and test positions of the Communist-led rebels fanning out westward between the upper Red River and the Black, a big tributary, in a bid for control of a mountainous region the size of Vermont.

The French called their action a "reconnaissance offensive" and declined to say just how many troops were involved. But the raiders moved easily into the war-scarred village of Hung Hoa, in a rice-growing area six miles west of the Black River.

Westbrook could not be reached after a telephone conversation with the Herald Tribune, in which he said he had done nothing wrong. In his statement last night, Mitchell said "there is no information before me that Col. Westbrook sought to bring improper influence to bear on any agency or to make improper use of his position with the Democratic National Committee."

But Mitchell said he dismissed Westbrook because "I do not think any exception can be made to the policy that an employe of the committee must not engage in business with the government."

Westbrook, a former Army man who is a research and development engineer, has been acting since last Jan. 5 as a liaison man between the Democratic committee and members of Congress. More recently he has been working on the Texas state campaign for the Democratic national ticket.

Ike Decries Slander Used By Democrats

Sees Long, Hard Pull In Korea War

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight accused President Truman and Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of "unrestrained slander" and said the Democrats are waging a "dirty" campaign — "The most scurrilous in American political history."

Eisenhower did not call the President and Stevenson by name, but he left no doubt he was talking about them in an address prepared for delivery at a Madison Square Garden rally and for nation-wide television and radio.

In angry language, Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, declared that in his life time he has been worked over by "poison pen" experts in Nazi Germany and Russia.

Made Charge Against Ike

"But until our success in this campaign drove our opponents to desperation, no one had ever engaged in such unrestrained slander as to charge I would trim my principles to run for office," he added.

Both Truman and Stevenson, along with some other Democrats, have made precisely that charge against the general.

Earlier, in a day long tour of New York City, Eisenhower called attention to the firing last night of an official of the Democratic National Committee, who stood to profit from a government purchase of tungsten ore.

Eisenhower called him "the biggest five percenter of all" and said:

"They had to fire him last night because someone else caught up with him. It keeps going on and on . . . Is that the kind of government you put your trust in?"

Eisenhower's Madison Square Garden address climaxed three days of campaigning by the general in the New York area in a bid for the state's important bloc of 45 electoral votes.

250,000 See Eisenhower

Speaking during the day in Staten Island, Manhattan and Brooklyn, the general had rapped back hard at Stevenson, declaring there is no easy way out of the Korean War — only a long, hard, way.

The GOP nominee told a police estimated crowd of 250,000 persons in Manhattan's garment district:

"No man has ever heard me say there is an easy way out of the Korean War. It's a long, hard, weary way."

His Democratic opponent has contended that Eisenhower and other Republicans have implied there is an easy way.

In his speech tonight, the general said the Democrats have been trying to put across the idea that he has changed since winning the GOP nomination last July.

"It is they who have changed," the general declared. "Because they could not exploit me, they are determined to destroy me; to destroy my lifelong friendships my reputation, my spirit.

Ike "Unscathed"

"But, ladies and gentlemen, I have been through real bombardments and I am unscathed by their fusillade of blanks and blankety-blanks."

Eisenhower repeated that four years ago some Democrats tried to get him to run for president on their ticket.

"Do you for one moment doubt that if I had accepted their offer, they would be today singing my praises with as much fervor as they now attack me?" he asked.

Allies Lose, Win Back Crest Of Triangle Hill

SEOUL, Friday, Oct. 30. (AP) — Allied troops today won back the crest of Triangle Hill in Central Korea less than nine hours after overwhelming numbers of Chinese Reds had seized it.

The re-occupation, a recovery from the Allies' worst setback in 18 days of battle, was reported at 11 a. m. by a U. S. Eighth Army officer.

The earlier Red attack had broken through Allied lines so swiftly that an Allied company was trapped on the height.

Bitter hand-to-hand fighting not only rewon the crest but also carried reinforcements to the once trapped company which then opened a counterattack.

The onslaught by 2,000 Chinese was pressed relentlessly through an Allied artillery barrage so withering that one of three attacking Red battalions was cut to pieces and withdrew.

AP Correspondent John Randolph at the front said the loss of Triangle posed a major threat to the western flank of the Allies on nearby Sniper Ridge, which it overlooks. The Reds hit Sniper with a light attack.

The Chinese seized the summit of Triangle Hill at 2 a. m., then pressed on south. Confused fighting was in progress at the base of the Triangle in the pre-dawn darkness.

Allied artillery fired in maximum concentration with everything up to eight-inch guns, Randolph reported.

It was the heaviest loss of territory the Allies have suffered in the 18-day-old battle on the front north of Kumhwa.

The U. S. Seventh Division had seized Triangle Hill Oct. 15.

The Allies had held Triangle since, despite all the fury of Red counterattacks and violent artillery barrages.

About 150 Chinese simultaneously attacked Sniper Ridge, about a mile east of Triangle Hill, early today. There was no sign that this was a major effort to take the ridge, however.

Destructive Fires Cover United States With Loss Estimated Into Millions

By The Associated Press

Outdoor America's autumn enemy—fire—is on the broadest, most destructive and potentially most dangerous rampage in many years, a survey showed Thursday.

Reports from tinder dry states in much of the eastern half of the nation showed that nearly a million acres of rich timberlands, brush and grasslands have gone up in flame and smoke this month.

Damage runs into uncounted millions of dollars and the situation is more explosive now than it was at the start of the month.

An Associated Press survey showed Louisiana alone has lost over two million dollars worth of forests and that at least three other states report more than a million dollars damage each—Mississippi, Illinois and Indiana.

Officials have been unable to hazard even a guess of the damage in hard-hit Tennessee, where the worst fires in the state's history are raging uncontrolled.

Some 100,000 acres of timberland in Tennessee's Cumberland plateau were ablaze today in 48 separate fires and Evan M. Pitt, assistant state forester, said nothing but heavy rain was likely to bring them under control.

But the U. S. Weather Bureau said no general rain is in sight to break the drought that dates back to mid-August in many states.

New fires sprang up and ran out of control in Missouri, south of St. Louis. Stiff winds and a heavy smoke pall hampered fire fighting efforts in Missouri, which is experiencing its biggest rash of fall fires on record.

Another Missouri field fire roared out of control near Clinton, spread to nearby timber and consumed several farm houses Friday. Highway workers were sent to the scene with bulldozers.

A smoke pall also lay over much of the Southeast.

Iowa farmers were plowing fire breaks around their corn fields to prepare for the worst fire hazard in memory in that state.

The survey showed thousands of weary professional and volunteer fire fighters were working around the clock at times to bring fires under control.

West Virginia alone has 4,000-5,000 persons fighting fires and many other states had more than 1,000 fire fighters each engaged at this task.

UN Allocates Palestine Relief

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—With Iraq angrily abstaining, the U. N. Special Political Committee voted to allocate today 23 million dollars for relief of some 900,000 Palestine refugees in the Middle East.

The money is for the 1952-53 year, and the committee's action must be approved by the General Assembly.

Fifty nations voted to support the program, sponsored by the United States, Britain, France and Turkey. There were no votes against it, but the Soviet Bloc, Iraq and Chile abstained.

Dr. Fadil Jamali of Iraq said he abstained because of the "discriminatory policy of a certain power." He declined to name the power for reporters. Other sources said Jamali apparently regarded testimony by State Department officials in recent congressional hearings as discriminatory toward Arabs.

The money for the program is raised by voluntary contributions, with the United States, Britain and France giving more than 90 per cent. Chile had announced that, as it was making no contribution, it would not vote.

The resolution set, subject to review next year, a figure of 18 million dollars for relief of the refugees in 1953-54.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 30 (AP) — Publisher Herman (Hank) Greenspun, who said his paper was the first in Nevada to support Gen. Eisenhower for president, today switched his allegiance to Gov. Stevenson.

Army Buddies Plead For U. S. Not To Deport Yugoslavian

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (INS)—A Yugoslavian-born GI, armed with an appeal signed by 110 of his army buddies in Iceland, was overjoyed today at news that deportation proceedings against him may be halted by a special act of Congress.

Cpl. Silvano Giuricin, 23, who sought refuge in the U. S. by jumping ship after fleeing his communist homeland, had been ordered returned to Camp Kilmer, N. J., for separation from the army prior to being turned over to immigration officials.

A letter to the New York Daily Mirror signed by the officers and men of the corporal's outfit brought this story to light. The letter described Giuricin as a fine American. Referring to his buddies, the young soldier declared:

"They were wonderful to me. They were like big brothers to me. If there is anything I have done for them, I hope it is impressing on them how wonderful is the liberty in this country."

Rep. Dollinger (D) N. Y., told the Mirror he is asking immigration authorities to delay deportation proceedings against the corporal until a bill can be introduced into the next session of Congress making Giuricin a quota immigrant.

Meanwhile, the army announced that Giuricin will be stationed at Camp Kilmer until the question of his status can be resolved.

Doctor Treats Dog, Ill Aboard Ship, By Telephone Call

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP) — Dr. E. Irvin Seserke, a veterinarian, used radio telephone today to prescribe treatment for a fox terrier aboard the S. S. Mae, a freighter 200 miles off the South Carolina coast.

Dr. Meserke had t reated the mascot before when the Mae was in port here.

Dr. Merserke had treated the mascot before when the Mae was in port here.

The crew called him today when the dog became seriously ill. She bore a litter of pups about three weeks ago and Meserke could tell by the telephone description she is suffering from a calcium deficiency. The medicine he prescribed was among the ship's supplies.

Dunlap Fails To Heed Subpoena

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP) — House investigators said today that Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap had ignored a congressional subpoena to produce certain tax information. They indicated they would make an issue of his action.

Top members of a House judiciary subcommittee which is investigating tax irregularities said Dunlap also had refused to appear at a subcommittee meeting when the subpoena deadline expired at 2 p.m., yesterday.

Chairman King (D-Calif) and Rep. Kean of New Jersey, ranking Republican member, said in a joint statement "we wish to make it clear we are not going to be denied information vital to our work in improving revenue administration and we will not permit anyone, no matter his position, to impede our investigation."

In a letter Tuesday to John E. Tobin, subcommittee counsel, Dunlap said the issuance of the subpoena "would appear to be a departure from the arrangements for utilization of the basic documents worked out between me and the subcommittee staff."

He said he would be glad to agree upon some future date for him to appear before the full membership of the committee and discuss compliance with the subpoena, but indicated that it could not be before Dec. 1. He said he was very busy carrying out a reorganization of his bureau.

1,200,000 Veterans Face Lapse Of GI Insurance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Some1,200,000 veterans have no more—and in some cases much less—than 14 months to reinstate 10 billion dollars worth of term life insurance policies which have lapsed.

The Veterans Administration said today that unless reinstatements are made in that time the policies "will be lost forever."

The policies involved are lapsed term National Service Life Insurance NSLI that were issued to two groups of World War II and post-World War II veterans.

The two groups are:

1. The 1,100,000 World War II veterans who took out term NSLI policies while they were in service during the last two months of 1944 and all of 1945.

2. The 100,000 World War II and post-World War II veterans who took out term NSLI policies while they were in service during the last two months of 1947 and all of 1948.

The first group have eight-year term policies and the second group have five-year term policies. Both terms expire during the last two months of this year or during next year, depending upon the anniversary date of each policy.

The Veterans Administration said that if veterans in either group do not wish to lose this coverage altogether they must reinstate their policies before the terms expire.

The agency said applications for reinstatements should be sent to it.

French Raiders Hit Red Flank

A raiding column struck from the French-held Red River delta across the lower Black River 40 miles northwest of Hanoi and knifed six miles or more into the rugged country beyond.

The troops were under orders to destroy supply depots, cut communications and test positions of the Communist-led rebels fanning out westward between the upper Red River and the Black, a big tributary, in a bid for control of a mountainous region the size of Vermont.

The French called their action a "reconnaissance offensive" and declined to say just how many troops were involved. But the raiders moved easily into the war-scarred village of Hung Hoa, in a rice-growing area six miles west of the Black River.

Rollins Named State Atty.-Gen.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 30 (AP)—The State House announced today that Edward D. E. Rollins, former state's attorney for Cecil County, has been appointed as Maryland's new attorney general by Gov. McKeldin.

The 52-year-old Elkton resident will fill the office vacated by Atty. Gen. Hall Hammond when he was appointed to the Maryland Court of Appeals last month.

Ever since Hammond was elevated to his new post, Rollins has been considered his likely successor. The long-awaited appointment of the Republican Rollins puts GOP men in two of the three top elective offices in the state, Hammond is a Democrat.

The native Baltimorean, who moved to Elkton in 1927, said today he was willing to "campaign with the governor in 1954," indicating McKeldin has definite plans to run for re-election then.

As a delegate to the Republican National Convention in Chicago last July, Rollins stuck close to the governor when he maneuvered to-deliver most of Maryland's votes to Gen. Eisenhower.

Rollins served three consecutive terms as state's attorney for Cecil County from 1931 to 1943. He since has worked at his private law practice.

Russia Held Interest In Italy In 1944

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP) — Adlai Stevenson reported to a U.S. government agency in February, 1944, that Russia had "evidenced an interest" in American and British policy toward Italy and that this interest might increase if Russian influence were extended in the Balkans as a result of the war.

"It follows," the report said, "that consultation and co-operation among the Allies must be continued with respect to Italy after the war, and that a mechanism must be maintained for the formulation and execution of a combined policy."

The Stevenson report was taken out of the secret category today by the State Department. The department had inherited it from the wartime Foreign Economic Administration for which Stevenson, now the Democratic presidential nominee, headed a survey mission to Italy.

The report shows that his task was to examine and report on war destruction of the Italian economy and to recommend ways of tackling the country's economic problems.

The document, a detailed account of destruction and of Italy's need for rebuilding, has become an item in the current political campaign.

Stevenson referred to his Italian mission some days ago and said he had returned to Washington to warn of a spread of Soviet influence in the Mediterranean. And Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) referred to the mission in his attack on Stevenson Monday night. He said Stevenson formulated "America's postwar policy in Italy" and he asserted that Gen. Walter Bedell Smith had written that American policy was "to connive to bring Communists into the Italian government and to bring the Italian Communist leader, Togliatti, back from Moscow."

The document from which the department removed the secrecy label in general urged that the U. S. government get on with reconstruction at maximum speed in co-operation with the British government, with which it shared the Allied Mediterranean Command.

In a section dealing with political considerations, Stevenson said that the Mediterranean Theater in early 1944 was becoming an increasing responsibility of the British. He said that after the war considerations of British foreign policy probably "will be dominant with respect to the future role of Italy."

At the same time he said the United States had long range interests in developing Italy as a peaceful and democratic nation.

After more than $30,000 was spent in efforts to cure the boy, a 35-cent expenditure put the youngster on the way to health. Grass Fire Burns Two Square Miles, Endangers Joplin

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 30 (AP)—A grass fire, swept by a 40-mile an hour wind whipped across two square miles of Joplin today and threatened additional areas of this city of 37,000 population. Other fires, fed by tinder-dry grass were reported as firemen were busy at the main blaze.

Simultaneously, every able bodied man in the Clinton, Mo., area, about 75 miles to the northeast, was called on to help fight a timber and brush fire that roared out of control 6½ miles east of the city destroying several farm homes and forcing some families to seek safety in open fields.

Mother Stole To Aid Model

DETROIT, Oct. 30 (AP)—Dreams of a movie star career for her winsome, 17-year-old daughter led her to embezzle thousands of dollars from her employer, a repentant bookkeeper told police today.

"Jill is a lovely girl," Mrs. Beatrice Hollingsworth was quoted as saying. "I needed the money to put her across and I just took it."

Mrs. Hollingsworth said she could remember taking only about $9,000. But prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien recommended a warrant charging her with embezzling $19,592 over a six-month period from the Kenneth Anderson Co., and of forging a check for $989 more. Detectives said the total involved may have exceeded $25,000, all taken from the valve manufacturing firm.

Jill, a high school senior, had won some local acclaim by being picked girl-of-the-month in a beauty contest sponsored by Detroit's transit system last February. She now is a pupil at a Hollywood school for aspiring models and actresses.

Mrs. Hollingsworth, 47, was arrested Wednesday night as she stepped off a plane from Los Angeles. She had spent her vacation around movieland trying to line up film roles and modeling contracts for Jill.

Britain Rejects Russia's Bid For New UN Commission

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—British Delegate Selwyn Lloyd today turned down Andrei Y. Vishinsky's proposals for a new U. N. commission to settle the Korean War.

In a speech to the U. N. Political Committee, Lloyd denounced the demand repeated yesterday by Vishinsky for prompt repatriation, upon a cease fire, of 121,000 prisoners held by the U. N. forces. The British delegate said in a stern voice that "it would be a crime against humanity to treat these men in such a way."

But in line with Britain's known desire to bridge the East-West gap as much as possible, Lloyd said he assumed all delegates in the U. N. wanted to end the "slaughter and the suffering."

He appealed to everyone not to hold up a solution because of "some feeling of prestige or the necessity for face-saving." Lloyd is a co-sponsor of a resolution asking the Communists to accept a truce on U. N. terms.

Henri Hoppenot of France also backed the Western resolution and said the U. N. Command acted wisely when it saw the negative attitude of the Communist delegates at Panmunjom and suspended the talks indefinitely. Hoppenot said the committee should look into all proposals affecting the Korean situation.

Vishinsky was not present for this first answer from the West to his long speech made yesterday in the committee. Russia was represented by Georgi N. Zarubin, ambassador to Washington and former envoy to London.

Lloyd asked Vishinsky four questions concerning repatriation of prisoners and acknowledged that he still did not know from Vishinsky's strong language yesterday whether the Russian was for or against forcible repatriation.

"Unless we can get clear answers on these points, I fail to see how any new commission will help."

Britain Rejects Russia's Bid For New UN Commission

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP)—British Delegate Selwyn Lloyd today turned down Andrei Y. Vishinsky's proposals for a new U. N. commission to settle the Korean War.

In a speech to the U. N. Political Committee, Lloyd denounced the demand repeated yesterday by Vishinsky for prompt repatriation, upon a cease fire, of 121,000 prisoners held by the U. N. forces. The British delegate said in a stern voice that "it would be a crime against humanity to treat these men in such a way."

But in line with Britain's known desire to bridge the East-West gap as much as possible, Lloyd said he assumed all delegates in the U. N. wanted to end the "slaughter and the suffering."

He appealed to everyone not to hold up a solution because of "some feeling of prestige or the necessity for face-saving." Lloyd is a co-sponsor of a resolution asking the Communists to accept a truce on U. N. terms.

Henri Hoppenot of France also backed the Western resolution and said the U. N. Command acted wisely when it saw the negative attitude of the Communist delegates at Panmunjom and suspended the talks indefinitely. Hoppenot said the committee should look into all proposals affecting the Korean situation.

Vishinsky was not present for this first answer from the West to his long speech made yesterday in the committee. Russia was represented by Georgi N. Zarubin, ambassador to Washington and former envoy to London.

Lloyd asked Vishinsky four questions concerning repatriation of prisoners and acknowledged that he still did not know from Vishinsky's strong language yesterday whether the Russian was for or against forcible repatriation.

"Unless we can get clear answers on these points, I fail to see how any new commission will help."

Grows To 100,000

MAIN, Germany, Oct. 30 (AP) — The birth of a baby caused flags to fly in this Rhine River city today. The lord mayor visited the city hospital with flowers and wine to congratulate the infant's parents.

Reason: The birth brought the city's population up to 100,000 for the first time since its severe World War II bombings.

Before the war, Mainz had 155,000 inhabitants, but at war's end only 52,253 were left.

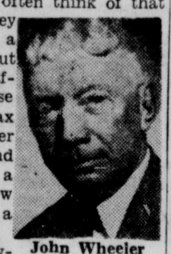
Goldfish Candidates

Irvin Cobb first made the crack, "He's got no more privacy than a goldfish."

The current candidates in this campaign must often think of that remark, now they have had to do a strip tease about their personal affairs, and expose their incomes, tax returns, whether their wives and kiddies work for a living, and how often they take a bath.



John Wheeler

In case anyone is interested, my initial gainful occupation in life was as a boy soprano in the Presbyterian Church in Yonkers, and my salary was $1.25 monthly. Dont' sneer at the amount. That was before the Truman dollar, the income tax, and Social Security deductions. It should amount to about $5,280 annually today. My first job as a newspaper reporter paid me $22.50 weekly, and I remember whispering this fabulous figure to my mother when I got home. I urged her not to say anything about it, even to her closest friend.

"I don't want some girl latching on to me for my money," I said.

When Governor Al Smith ran for the Presidency in 1928, there was some criticism of him because he wore a brown derby. Stiff-necked voters claimed he lacked the dignity a chief executive should have. Now nobody has any of the class of the old days. Truman started the gutter brawl in the last campaign, and he has continued it, where he left off, in this one. All the other boys are throwing punches below the belt, and it has gotten so if anyone running for office owns a hundred shares of United States Steel stock, for example, you would think he should be in Sing Sing instead of out campaigning for the Presidency. I was brought up to believe this was one of the privileges of the free enterprise system.

It was the members of the Franklin Roosevelt family who first decided to make a department store out of the White House and put everything on sale. Some of the offerrings should have been in the bargain basement. Mrs. FDR went in for writing and lecturing, Jimmy for insurance, and Elliott was an opportunist. He was willing to settle for whatever came along, including radio stations.

Now we have his successor. Mrs. Truman has conducted herself with great dignity, but daughter Margaret has been appearing on television programs with Jimmy Durante, a fine comic. She has acted as a kind of foil, and these scenes gave me butterflies in my stomach. By that I mean it seems ridiculous for the offspring of a President to be clowning on the screen. Here is an excerpt from a New York column which devotes itself mostly to actresses with plunging necklines and night clubs.

"I whooshed up to Tallulah Bankhead's to snag for posterity a remark made to her by President Truman . . .

"'When I got this DIVINE letter from him I, as usual, thought how can I thank him? So I said 'Get the President on the phone'. Then,

"'Dolling, Mr. President, I was so thrilled I haven't been able to sleep. I've written you a thousand letters in my mind. Finally, I thought, what the hell, I'd phone you'.

"Twice he told her she could use the letter as a book blurb—"That's why I wrote it'."

I suppose it's all right for Mr. Truman to talk to an actress and boost her book if he wants to, but I hope she didn't call him collect at the expense of us taxpayers. Being an old-timer, I prefer the days of integrity, and dignity, when a President looked and acted like one and kept the members of his family at home and out of the feed trough.

On the other hand, I saw and listened to Herbert Hoover on television one evening recently, and he was so damned dignified I fell asleep.

on Her Majesty. "The actors brought it about. The actors forced us into film and will continue to insist on it."

Also, the actor likes to live in Hollywood. Jim Backus, who plays Miss Davis' husband on the show, remarked to me: "Of course, there's a short interval while they get the malarkey out of their system. All this guff about how they miss the concerts and the museums in New York—actors who never got out of Toots Shor's—then they find they like the sunshine."

For a long time, the movie technicians scored TV. But not any more. Some of the best in the business are now moving in, spurred in about equal quantities by the pinch of hunger and a vague feeling that that way destiny lies. The Joan Davis show boasts a director, Hal Walker, who just finished a picture "Road to Bali" with Bing Crosby and Bob Hope and an Academy Award-winning cameraman, Al Jilks. The cream of the motion picture industry is getting into the act.

Not all of them will succeed in it. "Some directors, including some of the best ones in the business, should never get into television," according to Walker. "Some of these guys require four days before they even start to think. In four days, we have to have two pictures in the can." Walker is a sort of non-directing director, which is not meant as disparagement. He has generally directed such people as Bobe Hope and Martin and Lewis. With stars of that nature, it's best just to keep them in camera range and let them go their own way.

There is another kind of director who dictates every twitch of the facial muscles. Some of them are pretty good at movies, but they probably won't do too well in television—a) because they're too slow, b) because they're restricting the actors. Right now actors and actresses are having more fun and feeling more worthwhile than at almost any time in the history of their profession.

"I haven't missed movies one day," Lucille Ball will tell you stoutly. "Everyone envies us our working hours. In the movies, I got up at 5 a. m. for 10 years."

On the set where they shoot "I Love Lucy" the hours are more civilized and the camraderie of cast and crew is something you rarely encounter outside the Army. Everyone — actors, electricians, director, stagehands—is close friends. Living together as they do, they are almost a family. They have their private jokes, their small vexations of daily living.

Occasionally, they have their private spats, too. I walked on to the "I Married Joan" set once, after a wee quick one with Jim Backus who plays Miss Davis' husband. Words were flying. "Oh, we're having the unpleasant hour," murmured Backus. "You're not supposed to see this." It sounded like almost any domestic wrangle.

Backus leaned an elbow on the top of a double-decker prop bed and watched the scene. "You know," he said, "this is like being married to this woman. We live on the set together, eat together. I see much more of Joan than of my own wife." This is a new type of television matrimony—the domestic comedy. A few sound stages away are Ozzie and Harriet and a step away from that is "I Love Lucy." There is no problem there, though. The Arnaz and the Nelsons are married. They may have to make it compulsory for this sort of show.

underdeveloped countries. That question had been under discussion in the United Nations for years—meaning, by that, the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council and various committees and commissions—and along with others I felt that that kind of activity is peculiarly suited for an international organization so as to put underdeveloped countries in a position of receiving economic assistance of that character from an organization of their own rather than receiving it on a bilateral basis from individual governments.

"I agree with that position, and I am sure I must have said so to many people at various times."

In the present line of investigation, the McCarran Committee is seeking apparently to discover why so large a cell of American Communists exists in the United Nations. The gist of David Weintraub's testimony has been a flat denial that he is the person responsible. In fact, he has denied on interrogation that he recommended specified persons for employment. Thus far, no testimony had been adduced to the contrary. Nevertheless, it is important to note David Weintraub's story because many of those questioned by the committee are in his department of the United Nations.

Matter Of Fact

This display of firmness towards McCarthy again suggests the same conclusion as the tremendous improvement in Eisenhower's campaign manner. The general, who was once so visibly bewildered by the unfamiliar problems of his unsought candidacy, is ceasing to be at the mercy of advisers whose competence he cannot easily gauge. He has learned, or is rapidly learning, who is who, what is what, and how to make his own decisions in accordance with his own character, outlook and principles.

There is other evidence that might be cited for the same conclusion. The general has not yet achieved eloquence as a set speaker, but no one can have failed to note the increasing depth, thoughtfulness and vigor of his set speeches in recent weeks. Moreover, whenever he speaks, he benefits by what may be called Alsop's rule of political oratory, originated by the brother of the two writers in this space, who is the head of the Republican Speakers' Bureau in Connecticut. "It doesn't so much matter what you say; what matters is really meaning what you say," is Alsop's rule.

Even now, Eisenhower's speeches contain rather more than their fair share of copy-book headings. But if a man can get up on his hind legs to announce that "patriotism is a good thing," and can really convey a deep sense of the mystery and emotion of love of country, the flatness of the phrase matters less than the thing conveyed.

All of which suggests two significant points. First, it was unfair to judge Dwight Eisenhower, as many people judged him, during the unbelievably difficult transition from his role as military leader to his new role as political leader. Second, candidate Eisenhower has proved to be a surprisingly complex, continuously and rapidly evolving personality; and the evolution has been singularly hopeful. If the maxim is correct that a man always grows in the White House, the further evolution of President Eisenhower, if he is indeed elected, should be well worth watching.

What's That, Adlai?

Adlai Stevenson was due to arrive in Cumberland early this morning to espouse his cause as the Democratic nominee for President of the United States.

There's not much you can say against Adlai because Adlai hasn't said much about where he stands or how he feels about the future course of the United States.

About all Adlai has done is let his master, President Truman, sound off and then he comes in as the echo. Everybody has his opinion about Harry Truman, the product of the Pendergast machine, and everybody knows that Adlai Stevenson has done nothing to repudiate the half-truths and innuendoes that Harry Truman has told about General Eisenhower, the Republican standard-bearer in Tuesday's election.

Truman, perhaps unintentionally but to our way of thinking anxious to show that he's still a big shot, running for re-election or not, admitted Wednesday what has been taken for granted despite the denials of Adlai.

Adlai has insisted that he is running his campaign and that he is not beholden to President Truman.

But Wednesday, Harry, the master of the administration that specializes in messes of all kinds, admitted in a whistle-stop at Manly, Ia., that he appreciated people coming to look at "the man who is running the campaign for President."

From that it is easy enough to see what Stevenson stands for—briefly, more Trumanism.

Among the letters The Cumberland News has received in connection with the campaign is one from which an excerpt follows, and which should be an indication that the public has caught on to the Democratic "strategy." The letter, from a Mt. Savage woman, asks:

"Will you kindly tell us what Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen are doing, now that Harry Truman and Stevenson have stolen their show?"

If Harry runs the campaign, isn't it fair to assume that he likewise will run the government with Adlai as his front man? Harry probably would have run himself if he hadn't been afraid of being licked and having his ego punctured.

Getting a bit more specific about Stevenson, there's been a lot of talk about what a wonderful record he has made as governor of Illinois, but, confining this strictly to taxes and spending without getting into how he testified for Alger Hiss, the picture looks like this:

The Democratic National Committee says Stevenson "cut spending, balanced the budget and reduced the state debt . . . is one of the few governors who has not increased general taxes in the past few years."

The truth of it is this: Instead of cutting spending, Stevenson's budgets have been the highest in the state's history. So have his tax collections.

Instead of balancing the budget of receipts with expenditures for three fiscal years, his budgets actually showed receipts of $77 million less than his expenditures, or an average deficit of slightly over $25 million per year.

The only reason he has been able to operate with a paper record of not increased general taxes is that his predecessor, Republican Governor Dwight Green, left him a cash balance of approximately $150 million.

According to the Office of the State Director of Finance, Joseph Pois, by April 30 of this year Stevenson had used up all but $70 million of the $150 million left by the Republicans.

Actually, Stevenson has collected the highest taxes in Illinois history, among them sales taxes growing with inflation, higher gasoline taxes and truck fees.

So, Adlai is due here today to tell Cumberlanders how he can run the government better than anybody—with Harry Truman's help, that is.

Already the Democrats have made their alibis for an anticipated small crowd by announcing that they don't expect many people because of the bad hour.

But give the Democrats credit. They're trying. They are going to give away coffee and doughnuts to everybody who comes to hear Adlai. It is our guess more people will turn out to get coffee and doughnuts. The doughnuts, at least, are something tangible that you can get your teeth into.

Halloween Goes Way Back

Halloween is the evening, or "e'en," of All Hallows (Holies) Day—that is, All Saints Day—falling on November 1. Although All Saints Day is one of the more solemn festivals of the church, old pagan rites of the ancient Druids have become tied in with Halloween. Halloween customs now followed in the United States probably came here with our earliest settlers from Ireland.

In old Celtic lands October 31 was the end of the year, when all the harvest had been gathered—hence the corn shock and the pumpkin. Then the "little people" (fairies to you), goblins and witches with their black cats stalked abroad. The masquerades on Halloween may derive from masked processions in rural parts of Ireland.

On this last night of the year, human souls condemned for sin to inhabit the bodies of animals were convoked by the Celtic Lord of Death. The Druids gathered in solemn conclave to mete out sentences for crimes and to pass on personal and communal problems. Fires were lit in honor of the sun god—today the candles in the jack o' lantern.

And the last night of the old year was logically the time when sorcerers and soothsayers, even ordinary folk, could predict the future. Young persons by the toss of an apple peel, or the way a chestnut burned in the fire, could get a clue to the identity of their future mates. On this night even the un-superstitious do well to pray in the words of the old Welsh litany to be saved from "Ghoulies and ghosties, long-leggety beasties, and things that go bump in the night."

How To Keep Well

"Acid Condition' And Acidosis

I'm sufferng from an acid condition" is a common complaint of persons who attribute all their ills to eating too much acid food. To overcome "acidity" they eliminate this or that food from the menus and avoid certain combinations. As a result they are not obtaining a well balanced diet.

These individuals neglect to give the body credit for being able to neutralize acid should the proportion in the body increase above the normal limits. This mechanism involves several factors because nature does not trust such an important phenomenon to a single process. Minerals such as phosphates, bicarbonates, chlorides, and iron play a role and the intestinal tract, kidneys, and lungs all do their share. For example, carbon dioxide, which comes from carbonic acid in the blood, is exhaled with every breath and in the presence of an excess of this gas the breathing apparatus is "stepped up" and more than usual is eliminated.

There is one place in the body where acid accumulates, however, and that is the stomach. It is needed for digestion and although the amount in the gastric pouch varies from hour to hour and day to day, there is little relationship to the acidity of the foods we eat. It is easy to see how mistaken ideas can develop, however, because when the flow of gastric contents is reversed and burping brings sour material into the mouth, the regurgitator suspects an acid condition. Actually, the stomach contents become alkaline almost immediately after reaching the small bowel and no food taken in reasonable quantities will change this reaction.

But occasionally acidity takes over, leading to the state called "acidosis." The consumption of foods high in acid seldom brings on the disorder because, as mentioned, acidity is neutralized on reaching the small intestine. But certain chemicals encourage a disturbance of the normal acid-alkali equilibrium. Excessive muscular exertion, with a resultant accumulation of lactic and carbonic acids, often causes temporary acidosis. The abnormality also may accompany such conditions as starvation, severe vomiting and diarrhea, and infectious diseases. Now and then it is associated with the administration of an anesthetic, pregnancy, or burns. Acidosis is more common in uremia and uncontrolled diabetes

Should acidosis appear, it is recognized by extremely deep respirations and other signs of air hunger. Headache, marked fatigue, pain, nausea, and vomiting are other manifestations and the skin becomes hot and dry. The breath has a sweetish, acetone-like odor and the urine is acid, demonstrating that the kidneys are attempting to rectify the disorder. Should acidosis persist, drowsiness ensues and coma follows unless the measures taken to relieve the situation are effective.

Treatment depends upon the underlying disturbance and it is here that the physician must utilize judgment and skill. The occurrence of acidosis in diabetes calls for more insulin. But regardless of the cause, fluids usually are given, particularly those containing an alkali such as sodium bicarbonate. Warmth and rest are required, as well as procedures to bolster general health and the heart. The basic condition must be treated if continued improvement is to be expected.

TOMORROW: Appendicitis still is with us.

CHRONIC COUGH

Mrs. E. writes: My husband won't do anything about what he calls his cigaret cough. What can I do about it?

REPLY

You might remind him that cure is easy if his cough is caused by smoking. There are many other origins of this symptom, however, and it may be worth his while to investigate the condition before it is too late. We have a leaflet on the various causes of cough that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HIGH PROTEIN

M. N. writes: I'm on a high protein reducing diet. A friend who knows I have high blood pressure, tells me I should not eat meat. Will you advise?

REPLY

If the kidneys can tolerate protein, there is no reason to be concerned.

THYROID AND HAIR

T. R. writes: Can a sluggish thyroid cause hair to grow on a woman's face?

REPLY

This is not a typical finding but it is conceivable that this might occur if the thyroid deficiency has affected other glands. If a relationship exists in this particular case, thyroid extract should correct the hair disorder.

GRAYING, FALLING HAIR

Mrs. D. writes: Could an overactive thyroid gland cause falling hair? My 41-year-old husband has always enjoyed a good head of hair. It is beginning to turn gray which is natural, but after the thyroid condition came on it started falling rapidly.

REPLY

I doubt if thyroid overactivity has any effect on the hair. Furthermore hair loss begins at 40 with many men.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Eisenhower Takes Calculated Risk In Endorsing Isolationist Senators; GOP Administrators Get Foreign Affairs Co-operation From Democrats

WASHINGTON—During the latter years of his life, Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Republican, was troubled with severe headaches from the brain tumor which eventually brought his death.

Dropping in to see him late one afternoon, it was obvious Vandenberg was not feeling well and I remarked on it. He replied:

"These headaches aren't half as bad as those given me by some of my Republican colleagues in the Senate."

Vandenberg was then in the middle of his fight to put across appropriations for the Marshall Plan, and went on to explain that almost every night Republican isolationist senators were meeting privately to hatch their strategy against him. These senators he named as Jenner of Indiana, Kem of Missouri, Watkins of Utah, McCarthy of Wisconsin, Ecton of Montana, Cain of Washington, and Bricker of Ohio.

Vandenberg, who was co-operating with the Democrats on foreign policy in the same way I described earlier Republican Secretaries of State Frank B. Kellogg and Henry L. Stimson as co-operating with Democratic senators, finally won the Marshall Plan battle.

And in recognition of that service, Vandenberg's close friend, Paul Hoffman, a Republican and then head of Studebaker, was made top Marshall Plan administrator. It was a wise choice.

No factor played a greater part in stopping the march of communism in Western Europe than the Marshall Plan. And I can say this as one who has been to Europe many times before and since the Marshall Plan, who helped end the paralyzing shipping strike at Le Havre with a load of Friendship Train food in the dark winter of 1947, who toured through railroad stations pock-marked with bullets from Communist rioting, and paraded through streets carrying American food before crowds which only a short time before had cheered the Communists.

For this stopping of communism, Vandenberg, Hoffman, and the authors of the Marshall Plan deserve great credit.

Eisenhower's Risk

Paul Hoffman left the Marshall Plan to join the Ford Foundation and to head up the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee. Believing that Eisenhower presented the best chance of retaining an even-keeled, non-partisan foreign policy, Hoffman was instrumental in getting the general nominated.

Since then, and since Eisenhower has embraced those same senators who caused Vandenberg headaches, Hoffman has been strangely silent.

So also has Gen. Omar Bradley, who stormed the Normandy beachheads and, along with General Patton, bore the brunt of the advance through France and Germany. Once strong for Ike, Bradley has changed his mind.

Eisenhower, of course, is taking a calculated risk. He is risking a savage partisan attack on foreign policy, both in Korea and Europe, on the theory that after he wins he can crack the whip over the isolationist senators of his own party and keep them in line.

This will probably work for the first two years. But after the patronage runs out, after the jobs are filled, then the maverick isolationists of the GOP will be just as difficult for Eisenhower as they were for Vandenberg.

By and large history has shown, as Frank B. Kellogg and Henry L. Stimson so well knew, that Republican Presidents get better co-operation from Democratic senators than they get from their own party.

Eisenhower and South

When General Eisenhower first decided to invade the South, GOP Chairman Summerfield cautioned: "The only time to go south is in the winter."

A secret Republican poll now indicates that Summerfield was right. It states: "It is now doubtful whether General Eisenhower will be able to carry more than two states in the South. . . Best information available shows that Eisenhower's popularity reached its highest during the period Oct. 1-15."

The two Southern states are Florida and Virginia. In Florida, the GOP poll as of Oct. 22 showed Ike 50 per cent; Stevenson 45 per cent; 5 per cent undecided.

The Virginia GOP poll showed Ike 48 per cent, Stevenson 46 per cent, 6 per cent undecided.

Political-Go-Round

Anti-Dewey sentiment is still so strong inside the GOP that when Ike's train approached Rochester, N. Y., a GOP delegation from Monroe County demanded that Dewey not introduce the general. Finally it was agreed that Dewey should introduce GOP Congressman Ken Keating, then Keating would introduce Eisenhower. . . . Sen. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, the TV crime crusader, has decided not to take a walk on Eisenhower. But he passed out word in regard to any campaigning that he is "awfully busy.". . . Paul Walter, ex-campaign manager for Taft, is making an emergency tour of key cities to pep up the GOP operation. Walter did a terrific job for Taft before the convention. . . . Probably the only woman who has two Senate candidates as brothers-in-law is Mrs. Jerry Wadsworth, wife of the deputy civil defense administrator. One brother-in-law is Stuart Symington, Democratic candidate for the Senate in Missouri; the other Archibald Alexander, Democratic candidate for the Senate in New Jersey. Symington, who did a bang-up job as RFC administrator, seems sure to win. Alexander, who did an equally bang-up job as undersecretary of the Army, is a long-shot. An A-1 man, he isn't much of a campaign speaker. . . . Sen. Bill Benton's offer in Connecticut to give a public TV audition to anyone switching from Stevenson to Eisenhower hasn't had any takers in that state. . . . Sen. Wayne Morse will spend the remaining time before election day to campaign for Stevenson in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Communists At The UN

First the federal grand jury in New York and then the McCarran Committee have brought to light the cell of American Communists who have been using the United Nations as a base and a sanctuary. Credit for this magnificent job of investigation must go to Roy N. Cohen of the Department of Justice and Robert Morris of the McCarran Committee.

The vital question is: when is an American not an American while continuing to enjoy all the privileges and benefits of an American?

This is a tough one to answer. These hearings really started in May when the McCarran Committee called before it David Weintraub, director of Economic Stability and Development of the United Nations, a high official. The committee counsel felt that it "became apparent that Mr. Weintraub had caused to be employed by the United Nations, certain individuals." Mr. Weintraub had been in the State Department. The committee in May was investigating the numerous activities of Owen Lattimore and it appears that Lattimore was recommended by Weintraub to a United Nations job having to do with economic assistance for Afghanistan. Yet the fact is that Lattimore is an expert neither on economics nor Afghanistan. This is Weintraub's testimony on the subject:

"Mr. Sourwine. Had anyone suggested to you that he (Lattimore) would be suitable . . . for a job of this kind or for employment by the United Nations?

"Mr. Weintraub. I don't recollect anyone having suggested that to me.

"Mr. Sourwine. You just chose his name yourself?

"Mr. Weintraub. I think so.

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you know him as an expert in Afghanistan matters?

"Mr. Weintraub. No; I knew him only as an expert in general Far Eastern affairs.

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you know whether he had written anything about Afghanistan?

"Mr. Weintraub. No; I did not.

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you know whether he had been in Afghanistan?

"Mr. Weintraub. No; I did not.

"Mr. Sourwine. Do you consider Afghanistan a Far Eastern nation?

"Mr. Weintraub. Technically Afghanistan is classified as a Middle Eastern country."

Yet, Weintraub believed that Lattimore is an expert on Afghanistan because he had been to Mongolia. If you look at a map, you will see how far-fetched that is. Also there is no linguistic relationship. Mr. Weintraub did not come off so well with that one and undoubtedly it opened the broad question as to who Weintraub is and whence derived his power.

David Weintraub came to the United States in 1921 at the age of 17 from Austrian Poland. He was naturalized in 1926.

He studied at the City College of New York and Columbia University and was employed by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of which Sidney Hillman was the head. He was also employed by the National Bureau of Economic Research under Professor Leo Wolman of Columbia University. Wolman recommended Weintraub to Harry Hopkins who employed him in the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. His first international job was with UNRRA.

However, he had also been employed by the War Production Board and the State Department. It was from UNRRA that he went to the United Nations. In the United Nations, Weintraub is in charge of economic planning for the entire world. With regard to that, his views are:

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you ever take the position that the Point Four program should be administered by an international organization and not by the United States?

"Mr. Weintraub. Yes.

"Mr. Sourwine. Would you care to expand on that? You might feel that in justice to yourself you should do so.

"Mr. Weintraub. Yes. The program in question is a program of technical assistance for the economic development of

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, Republican, ought to be a very happy man. After months and months of vituperative attack upon his so-called "methods," those very "methods" now have been given a clean bill of health—they have been adopted by both President Truman and Governor Stevenson and some of their campaign spokesmen as well as by the Democratic National Committee in its tabloid newspaper.

The chief criticism made against McCarthy has been that he makes charges affecting character and indulges in "character assassination." It has been argued that this is not permissible in political campaigns and that "issues" should be discussed.

But everyone who has followed the course of American political history knows that the character of the individual—his loyalties and associations—have much to do with his judgments and attitudes on issues. Political techniques on federal, state, county and city level shows no signs of abandoning that approach.

Hitting At Popularity

That's why President Truman and Governor Stevenson have tried, though unsuccessfully, to give the American people the impression that General Eisenhower isn't honest and isn't loyal to his country. A headline in the New York Times of October 28 says: "Truman accuses Eisenhower of dishonesty about Korea," and the news article below says Mr. Truman used the phrase, "thoroughly dishonest." Well, Mr. McCarthy didn't say Stevenson was either disloyal or thoroughly disloyal. He intimated that some of Stevenson's advisors were "pinks." That's far different from Mr. Truman's direct attack on General Eisenhower himself. The reason for such character asassination by the Democratic spokesman is the knowledge that General Eisenhower is nationally popular. The Democratic managers think that, to win an election, it is necessary to demolish his popularity. They mistakenly believe this can be done by attacking him personally rather than by discussing the issues or their own failures in administration.

The tactics, of course, are in some respects just like McCarthy's tactics. Thus, just as the Wisconsin senator got the secret minutes of the Loyalty Review Board on the Communist issue to make a point, so the Democratic administration "leaked" out a "top secret" document of the proceedings of the Joint Chief of Staff in order to make a political point and thereby attempt to discredit General Eisenhower, who was at the time a member of the Joint Chiefs.

The point, of course, hasn't been persuasive, because it turns out that the secret decision in 1947 to withdraw American troops from Korea—in which General Eisenhower concurred—was based on the belief that the Russians would likewise withdraw their troops. Both sides finally did withdraw in 1949 at the request of the UN, but the Communists failed to keep their promise to preserve the integrity of Korea. The reason for this was that the administration had failed to back up the rear of Korea from a strategic standpoint. The State Department withdrew its moral support from the Chinese Nationalists, and then the Chinese Communists took over the country and by January 1950, Secretary Acheson publicly advertised the United States' decision not to defend Korea.

Another instance of so-called "McCarthyism" is to be found in the tabloid newspaper issued by the Democratic National Committee. It shows a 1932 picture of General MacArthur and Major Eisenhower discussing the repression of the "bonus march" of the war veterans in their alleged protest against unemployment. The inference is that Eisenhower was somehow responsible for what happened in 1932, when there is no evidence whatsoever that he had anything to do with it. The Democratic National Committee didn't tell its readers that this same "bouns march" was the work of Communists, who later admitted having plotted the affair. Presumably no more will be heard now from the Democrats about the Republican "tabloid" in the Tydings 1950 campaign in Maryland when Tydings was shown in a composite picture with Communist Browder. Certainly the "liberals" who a year ago were demanding action by the Senate Election Committee about the misuse of photographs in campaigns are strangely silent now. Nor is any "liberal" of prominence demanding that Stevenson disavow Truman.

Reckless Innuendo

Governor Stevenson has not kept his own campaign clean, either. He has accused General Eisenhower of "delaying" an armistice in Korea merely by announcing that, if elected, he would visit that country. First the governor said the purpose of the trip might be to "enlarge the war." That's a wild and reckless innuendo, especially coming from a so-called "high minded" candidate. Then later, the governor said the negotiations may have been delayed by Eisenhower.

Actually there has been a delay of more than a year while the truce talks have been going on and during that delay more than 6,000 American boys have been killed and more than 20,000 have been wounded. The responsibility for that delay lies in the public announcement to the Communist world—after MacArthur was dismissed—that the United States would appease and give up its previous purpose of chasing the aggressor out of Korea. This was in May 1951 when Secretary Acheson—backed up by other administration witnesses—announced at a congressional hearing that the United States couldn't expect to win in Korea, that a truce at the 38th Parallel would be acceptable and that, when this was done, "aggression" would be considered "repelled."

The Communists instantly saw this weakness of attitude and have been driving hard ever since for a better and better bargain. The responsibility for the "delay" ought to have been more widely discussed in the campaign, but both sides have ignored the fundamental issues mostly because the type of attack made by the Democrats—a personal assassination — has set the level of the campaign.

To this day the smear of Nixon—who exposed Hiss—goes on notwithstanding the senator's frank statement of his own assets and liabilities and income. The California senator now has been asked to disclose all the affairs of his relatives. Yet Senator Sparkman, Democratic vice presidential nominee, rightly denounced this tactic when asked about his wife's business affairs. It is tragic that "attack on the man"—the oldest sort of political warfare since the days of the Roman Senate—is still in vogue in the modern world.

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

Eisenhower: Last Week

WITH GEN. EISENHOWER'S CAMPAIGN PARTY

Little things sometimes have big meanings. This reporter, who has been watching Gen. Eisenhower in the last lap of the campaign, therefore begs pardon for beginning with what probably seems like a little thing.

The locale was the black and forbidding coal mining region of Pennsylvania, through which Gen. Eisenhower was boldly campaigning as though there were no such person as John L. Lewis. The point of vantage was the photographer's truck—a sort of high speed tumbril which travels immediately ahead of the candidate's car, and affords a chilly but complete view of both candidate and crowds. Eisenhower was traversing the heavily Democratic, heavily unionized, grimly dingy suburbs of Pittsburgh.

On this "south side" of Pittsburgh, one had only to look ahead to see the indifference and even hostility of the people. They were silent. They were almost sullen, until Eisenhower's open car drew abreast of them.

Then, suddenly, there would be the general, sitting up on the back of the rear seat, waving both arms in his odd, by-now-nationally familiar gesture. He almost visibly radiated his incandescent human warmth. Everything about him seemed to say, "I like these people." And they, perhaps rather reluctantly, plainly decided they liked him, bursting into cheers and clapping for him in the most unexpected and almost unintentional manner as his car passed by.

Can Count On Response

For a leader, this quality of warmth, which Eisenhower possesses in greater degree than any recent Presidential candidate except the two Roosevelts, is a vitally important quality. It is a quality that costs a lot—when there were no crowds the general would slump into his seat in terrible tiredness. But a man who has this quality and uses it wisely and well, can count on securing a strong national response in hard times when a strong response is needed.

The very fact that Eisenhower's warmth has shone out more and more strongly with each passing week of the campaign, can be taken to mean that he is more and more at ease among the complexities of civil leadership. For Eisenhower's bafflement at these complexities was what dimmed out his whole personality in the first unhappy period of seeming failure.

There are other such signs. Much has been made of Gen. Eisenhower's so-called embrace of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. The idea has been propagated that if elected, the general will continue to countenance McCarthy and his methods. In fact, however, candidate Eisenhower has already given rather clear evidence to the contrary.

Massachusetts is a very close state, and McCarthy is thought to appeal strongly to the same large faction in Massachusetts that used to follow Father Coughlin in the New Deal years. Certain leading Massachusetts Republicans recently sought to nail down these valuable votes by bringing McCarthy into Boston to speak there in the campaign wind-up. Eisenhower personally spiked this plan by sending word that he would abandon his own final appearance in Boston rather than follow McCarthy there. By the same token, the general personally intervened to prevent a projected invitation to McCarthy to appear in Jersey City.

Has Learned Fast

One can argue, and many people have argued very loudly and cogently, that Gen. Eisenhower ought to have disowned Sen. McCarthy outright and in public. Yet the facts above-noted are none the less vitally important, as forecasting Gen. Eisenhower's future policy. He has not disowned McCarthy, because he and his staff thought it unnecessary and unwise to go so far. The country does not know that the general has meanwhile refused to use the senator to gain advantage in two really crucial states, one of them notoriously close. But Sen. McCarthy unquestionably knows it, and has certainly taken it as a declaration of war from Eisenhower. You do not declare war on a man whom you intend to tolerate.

What's That, Adlai?

Adlai Stevenson was due to arrive in Cumberland early this morning to espouse his cause as the Democratic nominee for President of the United States.

There's not much you can say against Adlai because Adlai hasn't said much about where he stands or how he feels about the future course of the United States.

About all Adlai has done is let his master, President Truman, sound off and then he comes in as the echo. Everybody has his opinion about Harry Truman, the product of the Pendergast machine, and everybody knows that Adlai Stevenson has done nothing to repudiate the half-truths and innuendoes that Harry Truman has told about General Eisenhower, the Republican standard-bearer in Tuesday's election.

Truman, perhaps unintentionally but to our way of thinking anxious to show that he's still a big shot, running for re-election or not, admitted Wednesday what has been taken for granted despite the denials of Adlai.

Adlai has insisted that he is running his campaign and that he is not beholden to President Truman.

But Wednesday, Harry, the master of the administration that specializes in messes of all kinds, admitted in a whistle-stop at Manly, Ia., that he appreciated people coming to look at "the man who is running the campaign for President."

From that it is easy enough to see what Stevenson stands for—briefly, more Trumanism.

Among the letters The Cumberland News has received in connection with the campaign is one from which an excerpt follows, and which should be an indication that the public has caught on to the Democratic "strategy." The letter, from a Mt. Savage woman, asks:

"Will you kindly tell us what Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen are doing, now that Harry Truman and Stevenson have stolen their show?"

If Harry runs the campaign, isn't it fair to assume that he likewise will run the government with Adlai as his front man? Harry probably would have run himself if he hadn't been afraid of being licked and having his ego punctured.

Getting a bit more specific about Stevenson, there's been a lot of talk about what a wonderful record he has made as governor of Illinois, but, confining this strictly to taxes and spending without getting into how he testified for Alger Hiss, the picture looks like this:

The Democratic National Committee says Stevenson "cut spending, balanced the budget and reduced the state debt . . . is one of the few governors who has not increased general taxes in the past few years."

The truth of it is this: Instead of cutting spending, Stevenson's budgets have been the highest in the state's history. So have his tax collections.

Instead of balancing the budget of receipts with expenditures for three fiscal years, his budgets actually showed receipts of $77 million less than his expenditures, or an average deficit of slightly over $25 million per year.

The only reason he has been able to operate with a paper record of not increased general taxes is that his predecessor, Republican Governor Dwight Green, left him a cash balance of approximately $150 million.

According to the Office of the State Director of Finance, Joseph Pois, by April 30 of this year Stevenson had used up all but $70 million of the $150 million left by the Republicans.

Actually, Stevenson has collected the highest taxes in Illinois history, among them sales taxes growing with inflation, higher gasoline taxes and truck fees.

So, Adlai is due here today to tell Cumberlanders how he can run the government better than anybody—with Harry Truman's help, that is.

Already the Democrats have made their alibis for an anticipated small crowd by announcing that they don't expect many people because of the bad hour.

But give the Democrats credit. They're trying. They are going to give away coffee and doughnuts to everybody who comes to hear Adlai. It is our guess more people will turn out to get coffee and doughnuts. The doughnuts, at least, are something tangible that you can get your teeth into.

Halloween Goes Way Back

Halloween is the evening, or "e'en," of All Hallows (Holies) Day—that is, All Saints Day—falling on November 1. Although All Saints Day is one of the more solemn festivals of the church, old pagan rites of the ancient Druids have become tied in with Halloween. Halloween customs now followed in the United States probably came here with our earliest settlers from Ireland.

In old Celtic lands October 31 was the end of the year, when all the harvest had been gathered—hence the corn shock and the pumpkin. Then the "little people" (fairies to you), goblins and witches with their black cats stalked abroad. The masquerades on Halloween may derive from masked processions in rural parts of Ireland.

On this last night of the year, human souls condemned for sin to inhabit the bodies of animals were convoked by the Celtic Lord of Death. The Druids gathered in solemn conclave to mete out sentences for crimes and to pass on personal and communal problems. Fires were lit in honor of the sun god—today the candles in the jack o' lantern.

And the last night of the old year was logically the time when sorcerers and soothsayers, even ordinary folk, could predict the future. Young persons by the toss of an apple peel, or the way a chestnut burned in the fire, could get a clue to the identity of their future mates. On this night even the un-superstitious do well to pray in the words of the old Welsh litany to be saved from "Ghoulies and ghosties, long-leggety beasties, and things that go bump in the night."

"Acid Condition" And Acidosis

I'm sufferng from an acid condition" is a common complaint of persons who attribute all their ills to eating too much acid food. To overcome "acidity" they eliminate this or that food from the menus and avoid certain combinations. As a result they are not obtaining a well balanced diet.

These individuals neglect to give the body credit for being able to neutralize acid should the proportion in the body increase above the normal limits. This mechanism involves several factors because nature does not trust such an important phenomenon to a single process. Minerals such as phosphates, bicarbonates, chlorides, and iron play a role and the intestinal tract, kidneys, and lungs all do their share. For example, carbon dioxide, which comes from carbonic acid in the blood, is exhaled with every breath and in the presence of an excess of this gas the breathing apparatus is "stepped up" and more than usual is eliminated.

There is one place in the body where acid accumulates, however, and that is the stomach. It is needed for digestion and although the amount in the gastric pouch varies from hour to hour and day to day, there is little relationship to the acidity of the foods we eat. It is easy to see how mistaken ideas can develop, however, because when the flow of gastric contents is reversed and burping brings sour material into the mouth, the regurgitator suspects an acid condition. Actually, the stomach contents become alkaline almost immediately after reaching the small bowel and no food taken in reasonable quantities will change this reaction.

But occasionally acidity takes over, leading to the state called "acidosis." The consumption of foods high in acid seldom brings on the disorder because, as mentioned, acidity is neutralized on reaching the small intestine. But certain chemicals encourage a disturbance of the normal acid-alkali equilibrium. Excessive muscular exertion, with a resultant accumulation of lactic and carbonic acids, often causes temporary acidosis. The abnormality also may accompany such conditions as starvation, severe vomiting and diarrhea, and infectious diseases. Now and then it is associated with the administration of an anesthetic, pregnancy, or burns. Acidosis is more common in uremia and uncontrolled diabetes

Should acidosis appear, it is recognized by extremely deep respirations and other signs of air hunger. Headache, marked fatigue, pain, nausea, and vomiting are other manifestations and the skin becomes hot and dry. The breath has a sweetish, acetone-like odor and the urine is acid, demonstrating that the kidneys are attempting to rectify the disorder. Should acidosis persist, drowsiness ensues and coma follows unless the measures taken to relieve the situation are effective.

Treatment depends upon the underlying disturbance and it is here that the physician must utilize judgment and skill. The occurrence of acidosis in diabetes calls for more insulin. But regardless of the cause, fluids usually are given, particularly those containing an alkali such as sodium bicarbonate. Warmth and rest are required, as well as procedures to bolster general health and the heart. The basic condition must be treated if continued improvement is to be expected.

TOMORROW: Appendicitis still is with us.

CHRONIC COUGH

Mrs. E. writes: My husband won't do anything about what he calls his cigaret cough. What can I do about it?

REPLY

You might remind him that cure is easy if his cough is caused by smoking. There are many other origins of this symptom, however, and it may be worth his while to investigate the condition before it is too late. We have a leaflet on the various causes of cough that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HIGH PROTEIN

M. N. writes: I'm on a high protein reducing diet. A friend who knows I have high blood pressure, tells me I should not eat meat. Will you advise?

REPLY

If the kidneys can tolerate protein, there is no reason to be concerned.

THYROID AND HAIR

T. R. writes: Can a sluggish thyroid cause hair to grow on a woman's face?

REPLY

This is not a typical finding but it is conceivable that this might occur if the thyroid deficiency has affected other glands. If a relationship exists in this particular case, thyroid extract should correct the hair disorder.

GRAYING, FALLING HAIR

Mrs. D. writes: Could an overactive thyroid gland cause falling hair? My 41-year-old husband has always enjoyed a good head of hair. It is beginning to turn gray which is natural, but after the thyroid condition came on it started falling rapidly.

REPLY

I doubt if thyroid overactivity has any effect on the hair. Furthermore hair loss begins at 40 with many men.

Eisenhower Takes Calculated Risk In Endorsing Isolationist Senators; GOP Administrators Get Foreign Affairs Co-operation From Democrats

WASHINGTON—During the latter years of his life, Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Republican, was troubled with severe headaches from the brain tumor which eventually brought his death.

Dropping in to see him late one afternoon, it was obvious Vandenberg was not feeling well and I remarked on it. He replied:

"These headaches aren't half as bad as those given me by some of my Republican colleagues in the Senate."

Vandenberg was then in the middle of his fight to put across appropriations for the Marshall Plan, and went on to explain that almost every night Republican isolationist senators were meeting privately to hatch their strategy against him. These senators he named as Jenner of Indiana, Kem of Missouri, Watkins of Utah, McCarthy of Wisconsin, Ecton of Montana, Cain of Washington, and Bricker of Ohio.

Vandenberg, who was co-operating with the Democrats on foreign policy in the same way I described earlier Republican Secretaries of State Frank B. Kellogg and Henry L. Stimson as co-operating with Democratic senators, finally won the Marshall Plan battle.

And in recognition of that service, Vandenberg's close friend, Paul Hoffman, a Republican and then head of Studebaker, was made top Marshall Plan administrator. It was a wise choice.

No factor played a greater part in stopping the march of communism in Western Europe than the Marshall Plan. And I can say this as one who has been to Europe many times before and since the Marshall Plan, who helped end the paralyzing shipping strike at Le Havre with a load of Friendship Train food in the dark winter of 1947, who toured through railroad stations pock-marked with bullets from Communist rioting, and paraded through streets carrying American food before crowds which only a short time before had cheered the Communists.

For this stopping of communism, Vandenberg, Hoffman, and the authors of the Marshall Plan deserve great credit.

Eisenhower's Risk

Paul Hoffman left the Marshall Plan to join the Ford Foundation and to head up the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee. Believing that Eisenhower presented the best chance of retaining an even-keeled, non-partisan foreign policy, Hoffman was instrumental in getting the general nominated.

Since then, and since Eisenhower has embraced those same senators who caused Vandenberg headaches, Hoffman has been strangely silent.

So also has Gen. Omar Bradley, who stormed the Normandy beachheads and, along with General Patton, bore the brunt of the advance through France and Germany. Once strong for Ike, Bradley has changed his mind.

Eisenhower, of course, is taking a calculated risk. He is risking a savage partisan attack on foreign policy, both in Korea and Europe, on the theory that after he wins he can crack the whip over the isolationist senators of his own party and keep them in line.

This will probably work for the first two years. But after the patronage runs out, after the jobs are filled, then the maverick isolationists of the GOP will be just as difficult for Eisenhower as they were for Vandenberg.

By and large history has shown, as Frank B. Kellogg and Henry L. Stimson so well knew, that Republican Presidents get better co-operation from Democratic senators than they get from their own party.

Eisenhower and South

When General Eisenhower first decided to invade the South, GOP Chairman Summerfield cautioned: "The only time to go south is in the winter."

A secret Republican poll now indicates that Summerfield was right. It states: "It is now doubtful whether General Eisenhower will be able to carry more than two states in the South. . . Best information available shows that Eisenhower's popularity reached its highest during the period Oct. 1-15."

The two Southern states are Florida and Virginia. In Florida, the GOP poll as of Oct. 22 showed Ike 50 per cent; Stevenson 45 per cent; 5 per cent undecided.

The Virginia GOP poll showed Ike 48 per cent, Stevenson 46 per cent, 6 per cent undecided.

Political-Go-Round

Anti-Dewey sentiment is still so strong inside the GOP that when Ike's train approached Rochester, N. Y., a GOP delegation from Monroe County demanded that Dewey not introduce the general. Finally it was agreed that Dewey should introduce GOP Congressman Ken Keating, then Keating would introduce Eisenhower. . . . Sen. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, the TV crime crusader, has decided not to take a walk on Eisenhower. But he passed out word in regard to any campaigning that he is "awfully busy.". . . Paul Walter, ex-campaign manager for Taft, is making an emergency tour of key cities to pep up the GOP operation. Walter did a terrific job for Taft before the convention. . . . Probably the only woman who has two Senate candidates as brothers-in-law is Mrs. Jerry Wadsworth, wife of the deputy civil defense administrator. One brother-in-law is Stuart Symington, Democratic candidate for the Senate in Missouri; the other Archibald Alexander, Democratic candidate for the Senate in New Jersey. Symington, who did a bang-up job as RFC administrator, seems sure to win. Alexander, who did an equally bang-up job as undersecretary of the Army, is a long-shot. An A-1 man, he isn't much of a campaign speaker. . . . Sen. Bill Benton's offer in Connecticut to give a public TV audition to anyone switching from Stevenson to Eisenhower hasn't had any takers in that state. . . . Sen. Wayne Morse will spend the remaining time before election day to campaign for Stevenson in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

These Days

Communists At The UN

First the federal grand jury in New York and then the McCarran Committee have brought to light the cell of American Communists who have been using the United Nations as a base and a sanctuary. Credit for this magnificent job of investigation must go to Roy N. Cohen of the Department of Justice and Robert Morris of the McCarran Committee.

The vital question is: when is an American not an American while continuing to enjoy all the privileges and benefits of an American?

This is a tough one to answer. These hearings really started in May when the McCarran Committee called before it David Weintraub, director of Economic Stability and Development of the United Nations, a high official. The committee counsel felt that it "became apparent that Mr. Weintraub had caused to be employed by the United Nations, certain individuals." Mr. Weintraub had been in the State Department. The committee in May was investigating the numerous activities of Owen Lattimore and it appears that Lattimore was recommended by Weintraub to a United Nations job having to do with economic assistance for Afghanistan. Yet the fact is that Lattimore is an expert neither on economics nor Afghanistan. This is Weintraub's testimony on the subject:

"Mr. Sourwine. Had anyone suggested to you that he (Lattimore) would be suitable . . . for a job of this kind or for employment by the United Nations?

"Mr. Weintraub. I don't recollect anyone having suggested that to me.

"Mr. Sourwine. You just chose his name yourself?

"Mr. Weintraub. I think so.

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you know him as an expert in Afghanistan matters?

"Mr. Weintraub. No; I knew him only as an expert in general Far Eastern affairs.

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you know whether he had written anything about Afghanistan?

"Mr. Weintraub. No; I did not.

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you know whether he had been in Afghanistan?

"Mr. Weintraub. No; I did not.

"Mr. Sourwine. Do you consider Afghanistan a Far Eastern nation?

"Mr. Weintraub. Technically Afghanistan is classified as a Middle Eastern country."

Yet, Weintraub believed that Lattimore is an expert on Afghanistan because he had been to Mongolia. If you look at a map, you will see how far-fetched that is. Also there is no linguistic relationship. Mr. Weintraub did not come off so well with that one and undoubtedly it opened the broad question as to who Weintraub is and whence derived his power.

David Weintraub came to the United States in 1921 at the age of 17 from Austrian Poland. He was naturalized in 1926.

He studied at the City College of New York and Columbia University and was employed by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of which Sidney Hillman was the head. He was also employed by the National Bureau of Economic Research under Professor Leo Wolman of Columbia University. Wolman recommended Weintraub to Harry Hopkins who employed him in the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. His first international job was with UNRRA.

However, he had also been employed by the War Production Board and the State Department. It was from UNRRA that he went to the United Nations. In the United Nations, Weintraub is in charge of economic planning for the entire world. With regard to that, his views are:

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you ever take the position that the Point Four program should be administered by an international organization and not by the United States?

"Mr. Weintraub. Yes.

"Mr. Sourwine. Would you care to expand on that? You might feel that in justice to yourself you should do so.

"Mr. Weintraub. Yes. The program in question is a program of technical assistance for the economic development of

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, Republican, ought to be a very happy man. After months and months of vituperative attack upon his so-called "methods," those very "methods" now have been given a clean bill of health—they have been adopted by both President Truman and Governor Stevenson and some of their campaign spokesmen as well as by the Democratic National Committee in its tabloid newspaper.

The chief criticism made against McCarthy has been that he makes charges affecting character and indulges in "character assassination." It has been argued that this is not permissible in political campaigns and that "issues" should be discussed.

But everyone who has followed the course of American political history knows that the character of the individual—his loyalties and associations—have much to do with his judgments and attitudes on issues. Political techniques on federal, state, county and city level shows no signs of abandoning that approach.

Hitting At Popularity

That's why President Truman and Governor Stevenson have tried, though unsuccessfully, to give the American people the impression that General Eisenhower isn't honest and isn't loyal to his country. A headline in the New York Times of October 28 says: "Truman accuses Eisenhower of dishonesty about Korea," and the news article below says Mr. Truman used the phrase, "thoroughly dishonest." Well, Mr. McCarthy didn't say Stevenson was either disloyal or thoroughly disloyal. He intimated that some of Stevenson's advisors were "pinks." That's far different from Mr. Truman's direct attack on General Eisenhower himself. The reason for such character asassination by the Democratic spokesman is the knowledge that General Eisenhower is nationally popular. The Democratic managers think that, to win an election, it is necessary to demolish his popularity. They mistakenly believe this can be done by attacking him personally rather than by discussing the issues or their own failures in administration.

The tactics, of course, are in some respects just like McCarthy's tactics. Thus, just as the Wisconsin senator got the secret minutes of the Loyalty Review Board on the Communist issue to make a point, so the Democratic administration "leaked" out a "top secret" document of the proceedings of the Joint Chief of Staff in order to make a political point and thereby attempt to discredit General Eisenhower, who was at the time a member of the Joint Chiefs.

The point, of course, hasn't been persuasive, because it turns out that the secret decision in 1947 to withdraw American troops from Korea—in which General Eisenhower concurred—was based on the belief that the Russians would likewise withdraw their troops. Both sides finally did withdraw in 1949 at the request of the UN, but the Communists failed to keep their promise to preserve the integrity of Korea. The reason for this was that the administration had failed to back up the rear of Korea from a strategic standpoint. The State Department withdrew its moral support from the Chinese Nationalists, and then the Chinese Communists took over the country and by January 1950, Secretary Acheson publicly advertised the United States' decision not to defend Korea.

Another instance of so-called "McCarthyism" is to be found in the tabloid newspaper issued by the Democratic National Committee. It shows a 1932 picture of General MacArthur and Major Eisenhower discussing the repression of the "bonus march" of the war veterans in their alleged protest against unemployment. The inference is that Eisenhower was somehow responsible for what happened in 1932, when there is no evidence whatsoever that he had anything to do with it. The Democratic National Committee didn't tell its readers that this same "bouns march" was the work of Communists, who later admitted having plotted the affair. Presumably no more will be heard now from the Democrats about the Republican "tabloid" in the Tydings 1950 campaign in Maryland when Tydings was shown in a composite picture with Communist Browder. Certainly the "liberals" who a year ago were demanding action by the Senate Election Committee about the misuse of photographs in campaigns are strangely silent now. Nor is any "liberal" of prominence demanding that Stevenson disavow Truman.

Reckless Innuendo

Governor Stevenson has not kept his own campaign clean, either. He has accused General Eisenhower of "delaying" an armistice in Korea merely by announcing that, if elected, he would visit that country. First the governor said the purpose of the trip might be to "enlarge the war." That's a wild and reckless innuendo, especially coming from a so-called "high minded" candidate. Then later, the governor said the negotiations may have been delayed by Eisenhower.

Actually there has been a delay of more than a year while the truce talks have been going on and during that delay more than 6,000 American boys have been killed and more than 20,000 have been wounded. The responsibility for that delay lies in the public announcement to the Communist world—after MacArthur was dismissed—that the United States would appease and give up its previous purpose of chasing the aggressor out of Korea. This was in May 1951 when Secretary Acheson—backed up by other administration witnesses—announced at a congressional hearing that the United States couldn't expect to win in Korea, that a truce at the 38th Parallel would be acceptable and that, when this was done, "aggression" would be considered "repelled."

The Communists instantly saw this weakness of attitude and have been driving hard ever since for a better and better bargain. The responsibility for the "delay" ought to have been more widely discussed in the campaign, but both sides have ignored the fundamental issues mostly because the type of attack made by the Democrats—a personal assassination — has set the level of the campaign.

To this day the smear of Nixon—who exposed Hiss—goes on notwithstanding the senator's frank statement of his own assets and liabilities and income. The California senator now has been asked to disclose all the affairs of his relatives. Yet Senator Sparkman, Democratic vice presidential nominee, rightly denounced this tactic when asked about his wife's business affairs. It is tragic that "attack on the man"—the oldest sort of political warfare since the days of the Roman Senate—is still in vogue in the modern world.

Matter Of Fact

Eisenhower: Last Week

WITH GEN. EISENHOWER'S CAMPAIGN PARTY

Little things sometimes have big meanings. This reporter, who has been watching Gen. Eisenhower in the last lap of the campaign, therefore begs pardon for beginning with what probably seems like a little thing.

The locale was the black and forbidding coal mining region of Pennsylvania, through which Gen. Eisenhower was boldly campaigning as though there were no such person as John L. Lewis. The point of vantage was the photographer's truck—a sort of high speed tumbril which travels immediately ahead of the candidate's car, and affords a chilly but complete view of both candidate and crowds. Eisenhower was traversing the heavily Democratic, heavily unionized, grimly dingy suburbs of Pittsburgh.

On this "south side" of Pittsburgh, one had only to look ahead to see the indifference and even hostility of the people. They were silent. They were almost sullen, until Eisenhower's open car drew abreast of them.

Then, suddenly, there would be the general, sitting up on the back of the rear seat, waving both arms in his odd, by-now-nationally familiar gesture. He almost visibly radiated his incandescent human warmth. Everything about him seemed to say, "I like these people." And they, perhaps rather reluctantly, plainly decided they liked him, bursting into cheers and clapping for him in the most unexpected and almost unintentional manner as his car passed by.

Can Count On Response

For a leader, this quality of warmth, which Eisenhower possesses in greater degree than any recent Presidential candidate except the two Roosevelts, is a vitally important quality. It is a quality that costs a lot—when there were no crowds the general would slump into his seat in terrible tiredness. But a man who has this quality and uses it wisely and well, can count on securing a strong national response in hard times when a strong response is needed.

The very fact that Eisenhower's warmth has shone out more and more strongly with each passing week of the campaign, can be taken to mean that he is more and more at ease among the complexities of civil leadership. For Eisenhower's bafflement at these complexities was what dimmed out his whole personality in the first unhappy period of seeming failure.

There are other such signs. Much has been made of Gen. Eisenhower's so-called embrace of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. The idea has been propagated that if elected, the general will continue to countenance McCarthy and his methods. In fact, however, candidate Eisenhower has already given rather clear evidence to the contrary.

Massachusetts is a very close state, and McCarthy is thought to appeal strongly to the same large faction in Massachusetts that used to follow Father Coughlin in the New Deal years. Certain leading Massachusetts Republicans recently sought to nail down these valuable votes by bringing McCarthy into Boston to speak there in the campaign wind-up. Eisenhower personally spiked this plan by sending word that he would abandon his own final appearance in Boston rather than follow McCarthy there. By the same token, the general personally intervened to prevent a projected invitation to McCarthy to appear in Jersey City.

Has Learned Fast

One can argue, and many people have argued very loudly and cogently, that Gen. Eisenhower ought to have disowned Sen. McCarthy outright and in public. Yet the facts above-noted are none the less vitally important, as forecasting Gen. Eisenhower's future policy. He has not disowned McCarthy, because he and his staff thought it unnecessary and unwise to go so far. The country does not know that the general has meanwhile refused to use the senator to gain advantage in two really crucial states, one of them notoriously close. But Sen. McCarthy unquestionably knows it, and has certainly taken it as a declaration of war from Eisenhower. You do not declare war on a man whom you intend to tolerate.

DEWITT S. HYDE

What's That, Adlai?

Adlai Stevenson was due to arrive in Cumberland early this morning to espouse his cause as the Democratic nominee for President of the United States.

There's not much you can say against Adlai because Adlai hasn't said much about where he stands or how he feels about the future course of the United States.

About all Adlai has done is let his master, President Truman, sound off and then he comes in as the echo. Everybody has his opinion about Harry Truman, the product of the Pendergast machine, and everybody knows that Adlai Stevenson has done nothing to repudiate the half-truths and innuendoes that Harry Truman has told about General Eisenhower, the Republican standard-bearer in Tuesday's election.

Truman, perhaps unintentionally but to our way of thinking anxious to show that he's still a big shot, running for re-election or not, admitted Wednesday what has been taken for granted despite the denials of Adlai.

Adlai has insisted that he is running his campaign and that he is not beholden to President Truman.

But Wednesday, Harry, the master of the administration that specializes in messes of all kinds, admitted in a whistle-stop at Manly, Ia., that he appreciated people coming to look at "the man who is running the campaign for President."

From that it is easy enough to see what Stevenson stands for—briefly, more Trumanism.

Among the letters The Cumberland News has received in connection with the campaign is one from which an excerpt follows, and which should be an indication that the public has caught on to the Democratic "strategy." The letter, from a Mt. Savage woman, asks:

"Will you kindly tell us what Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen are doing, now that Harry Truman and Stevenson have stolen their show?"

If Harry runs the campaign, isn't it fair to assume that he likewise will run the government with Adlai as his front man? Harry probably would have run himself if he hadn't been afraid of being licked and having his ego punctured.

Getting a bit more specific about Stevenson, there's been a lot of talk about what a wonderful record he has made as governor of Illinois, but, confining this strictly to taxes and spending without getting into how he testified for Alger Hiss, the picture looks like this:

The Democratic National Committee says Stevenson "cut spending, balanced the budget and reduced the state debt . . . is one of the few governors who has not increased general taxes in the past few years."

The truth of it is this: Instead of cutting spending, Stevenson's budgets have been the highest in the state's history. So have his tax collections.

Instead of balancing the budget of receipts with expenditures for three fiscal years, his budgets actually showed receipts of $77 million less than his expenditures, or an average deficit of slightly over $25 million per year.

The only reason he has been able to operate with a paper record of not increased general taxes is that his predecessor, Republican Governor Dwight Green, left him a cash balance of approximately $150 million.

According to the Office of the State Director of Finance, Joseph Pois, by April 30 of this year Stevenson had used up all but $70 million of the $150 million left by the Republicans.

Actually, Stevenson has collected the highest taxes in Illinois history, among them sales taxes growing with inflation, higher gasoline taxes and truck fees.

So, Adlai is due here today to tell Cumberlanders how he can run the government better than anybody—with Harry Truman's help, that is.

Already the Democrats have made their alibis for an anticipated small crowd by announcing that they don't expect many people because of the bad hour.

But give the Democrats credit. They're trying. They are going to give away coffee and doughnuts to everybody who comes to hear Adlai. It is our guess more people will turn out to get coffee and doughnuts. The doughnuts, at least, are something tangible that you can get your teeth into.

This mechanism involves several factors because nature does not trust such an important phenomenon to a single process. Minerals such as phosphates, bicarbonates, chlorides, and iron play a role and the intestinal tract, kidneys, and lungs all do their share. For example, carbon dioxide, which comes from carbonic acid in the blood, is exhaled with every breath and in the presence of an excess of this gas the breathing apparatus is "stepped up" and more than usual is eliminated.

There is one place in the body where acid accumulates, however, and that is the stomach. It is needed for digestion and although the amount in the gastric pouch varies from hour to hour and day to day, there is little relationship to the acidity of the foods we eat. It is easy to see how mistaken ideas can develop, however, because when the flow of gastric contents is reversed and burping brings sour material into the mouth, the regurgitator suspects an acid condition. Actually, the stomach contents become alkaline almost immediately after reaching the small bowel and no food taken in reasonable quantities will change this reaction.

But occasionally acidity takes over, leading to the state called "acidosis." The consumption of foods high in acid seldom brings on the disorder because, as mentioned, acidity is neutralized on reaching the small intestine. But certain chemicals encourage a disturbance of the normal acid-alkali equilibrium. Excessive muscular exertion, with a resultant accumulation of lactic and carbonic acids, often causes temporary acidosis. The abnormality also may accompany such conditions as starvation, severe vomiting and diarrhea, and infectious diseases. Now and then it is associated with the administration of an anesthetic, pregnancy, or burns. Acidosis is more common in uremia and uncontrolled diabetes

Should acidosis appear, it is recognized by extremely deep respirations and other signs of air hunger. Headache, marked fatigue, pain, nausea, and vomiting are other manifestations and the skin becomes hot and dry. The breath has a sweetish, acetone-like odor and the urine is acid, demonstrating that the kidneys are attempting to rectify the disorder. Should acidosis persist, drowsiness ensues and coma follows unless the measures taken to relieve the situation are effective.

Treatment depends upon the underlying disturbance and it is here that the physician must utilize judgment and skill. The occurrence of acidosis in diabetes calls for more insulin. But regardless of the cause, fluids usually are given, particularly those containing an alkali such as sodium bicarbonate. Warmth and rest are required, as well as procedures to bolster general health and the heart. The basic condition must be treated if continued improvement is to be expected.

TOMORROW: Appendicitis still is with us.

CHRONIC COUGH

Mrs. E. writes: My husband won't do anything about what he calls his cigaret cough. What can I do about it?

REPLY

You might remind him that cure is easy if his cough is caused by smoking. There are many other origins of this symptom, however, and it may be worth his while to investigate the condition before it is too late. We have a leaflet on the various causes of cough that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HIGH PROTEIN

M. N. writes: I'm on a high protein reducing diet. A friend who knows I have high blood pressure, tells me I should not eat meat. Will you advise?

REPLY

If the kidneys can tolerate protein, there is no reason to be concerned.

THYROID AND HAIR

T. R. writes: Can a sluggish thyroid cause hair to grow on a woman's face?

REPLY

This is not a typical finding but it is conceivable that this might occur if the thyroid deficiency has affected other glands. If a relationship exists in this particular case, thyroid extract should correct the hair disorder.

GRAYING, FALLING HAIR

Mrs. D. writes: Could an overactive thyroid gland cause falling hair? My 41-year-old husband has always enjoyed a good head of hair. It is beginning to turn gray which is natural, but after the thyroid condition came on it started falling rapidly.

REPLY

I doubt if thyroid overactivity has any effect on the hair. Furthermore hair loss begins at 40 with many men.

Eisenhower Takes Calculated Risk In Endorsing Isolationist Senators; GOP Administrators Get Foreign Affairs Co-operation From Democrats

WASHINGTON—During the latter years of his life, Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Republican, was troubled with severe headaches from the brain tumor which eventually brought his death.

Dropping in to see him late one afternoon, it was obvious Vandenberg was not feeling well and I remarked on it. He replied:

"These headaches aren't half as bad as those given me by some of my Republican colleagues in the Senate."

Vandenberg was then in the middle of his fight to put across appropriations for the Marshall Plan, and went on to explain that almost every night Republican isolationist senators were meeting privately to hatch their strategy against him. These senators he named as Jenner of Indiana, Kem of Missouri, Watkins of Utah, McCarthy of Wisconsin, Ecton of Montana, Cain of Washington, and Bricker of Ohio.

Vandenberg, who was co-operating with the Democrats on foreign policy in the same way I described earlier Republican Secretaries of State Frank B. Kellogg and Henry L. Stimson as co-operating with Democratic senators, finally won the Marshall Plan battle.

And in recognition of that service, Vandenberg's close friend, Paul Hoffman, a Republican and then head of Studebaker, was made top Marshall Plan administrator. It was a wise choice.

No factor played a greater part in stopping the march of communism in Western Europe than the Marshall Plan. And I can say this as one who has been to Europe many times before and since the Marshall Plan, who helped end the paralyzing shipping strike at Le Havre with a load of Friendship Train food in the dark winter of 1947, who toured through railroad stations pock-marked with bullets from Communist rioting, and paraded through streets carrying American food before crowds which only a short time before had cheered the Communists.

For this stopping of communism, Vandenberg, Hoffman, and the authors of the Marshall Plan deserve great credit.

Eisenhower's Risk

Paul Hoffman left the Marshall Plan to join the Ford Foundation and to head up the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee. Believing that Eisenhower presented the best chance of retaining an even-keeled, non-partisan foreign policy, Hoffman was instrumental in getting the general nominated.

Since then, and since Eisenhower has embraced those same senators who caused Vandenberg headaches, Hoffman has been strangely silent.

So also has Gen. Omar Bradley, who stormed the Normandy beachheads and, along with General Patton, bore the brunt of the advance through France and Germany. Once strong for Ike, Bradley has changed his mind.

Eisenhower, of course, is taking a calculated risk. He is risking a savage partisan attack on foreign policy, both in Korea and Europe, on the theory that after he wins he can crack the whip over the isolationist senators of his own party and keep them in line.

This will probably work for the first two years. But after the patronage runs out, after the jobs are filled, then the maverick isolationists of the GOP will be just as difficult for Eisenhower as they were for Vandenberg.

By and large history has shown, as Frank B. Kellogg and Henry L. Stimson so well knew, that Republican Presidents get better co-operation from Democratic senators than they get from their own party.

Eisenhower and South

When General Eisenhower first decided to invade the South, GOP Chairman Summerfield cautioned: "The only time to go south is in the winter."

A secret Republican poll now indicates that Summerfield was right. It states: "It is now doubtful whether General Eisenhower will be able to carry more than two states in the South. . . Best information available shows that Eisenhower's popularity reached its highest during the period Oct. 1-15."

The two Southern states are Florida and Virginia. In Florida, the GOP poll as of Oct. 22 showed Ike 50 per cent; Stevenson 45 per cent; 5 per cent undecided.

The Virginia GOP poll showed Ike 48 per cent, Stevenson 46 per cent, 6 per cent undecided.

Political-Go-Round

Anti-Dewey sentiment is still so strong inside the GOP that when Ike's train approached Rochester, N. Y., a GOP delegation from Monroe County demanded that Dewey not introduce the general. Finally it was agreed that Dewey should introduce GOP Congressman Ken Keating, then Keating would introduce Eisenhower. . . . Sen. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, the TV crime crusader, has decided not to take a walk on Eisenhower. But he passed out word in regard to any campaigning that he is "awfully busy.". . . Paul Walter, ex-campaign manager for Taft, is making an emergency tour of key cities to pep up the GOP operation. Walter did a terrific job for Taft before the convention. . . . Probably the only woman who has two Senate candidates as brothers-in-law is Mrs. Jerry Wadsworth, wife of the deputy civil defense administrator. One brother-in-law is Stuart Symington, Democratic candidate for the Senate in Missouri; the other Archibald Alexander, Democratic candidate for the Senate in New Jersey. Symington, who did a bang-up job as RFC administrator, seems sure to win. Alexander, who did an equally bang-up job as undersecretary of the Army, is a long-shot. An A-1 man, he isn't much of a campaign speaker. . . . Sen. Bill Benton's offer in Connecticut to give a public TV audition to anyone switching from Stevenson to Eisenhower hasn't had any takers in that state. . . . Sen. Wayne Morse will spend the remaining time before election day to campaign for Stevenson in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Communists At The UN

First the federal grand jury in New York and then the McCarran Committee have brought to light the cell of American Communists who have been using the United Nations as a base and a sanctuary. Credit for this magnificent job of investigation must go to Roy N. Cohen of the Department of Justice and Robert Morris of the McCarran Committee.

The vital question is: when is an American not an American while continuing to enjoy all the privileges and benefits of an American?

This is a tough one to answer. These hearings really started in May when the McCarran Committee called before it David Weintraub, director of Economic Stability and Development of the United Nations, a high official. The committee counsel felt that it "became apparent that Mr. Weintraub had caused to be employed by the United Nations, certain individuals." Mr. Weintraub had been in the State Department. The committee in May was investigating the numerous activities of Owen Lattimore and it appears that Lattimore was recommended by Weintraub to a United Nations job having to do with economic assistance for Afghanistan. Yet the fact is that Lattimore is an expert neither on economics nor Afghanistan. This is Weintraub's testimony on the subject:

"Mr. Sourwine. Had anyone suggested to you that he (Lattimore) would be suitable . . . for a job of this kind or for employment by the United Nations?

"Mr. Weintraub. I don't recollect anyone having suggested that to me.

"Mr. Sourwine. You just chose his name yourself?

"Mr. Weintraub. I think so.

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you know him as an expert in Afghanistan matters?

"Mr. Weintraub. No; I knew him only as an expert in general Far Eastern affairs.

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you know whether he had written anything about Afghanistan?

"Mr. Weintraub. No; I did not.

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you know whether he had been in Afghanistan?

"Mr. Weintraub. No; I did not.

"Mr. Sourwine. Do you consider Afghanistan a Far Eastern nation?

"Mr. Weintraub. Technically Afghanistan is classified as a Middle Eastern country."

Yet, Weintraub believed that Lattimore is an expert on Afghanistan because he had been to Mongolia. If you look at a map, you will see how far-fetched that is. Also there is no linguistic relationship. Mr. Weintraub did not come off so well with that one and undoubtedly it opened the broad question as to who Weintraub is and whence derived his power.

David Weintraub came to the United States in 1921 at the age of 17 from Austrian Poland. He was naturalized in 1926.

He studied at the City College of New York and Columbia University and was employed by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of which Sidney Hillman was the head. He was also employed by the National Bureau of Economic Research under Professor Leo Wolman of Columbia University. Wolman recommended Weintraub to Harry Hopkins who employed him in the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. His first international job was with UNRRA.

However, he had also been employed by the War Production Board and the State Department. It was from UNRRA that he went to the United Nations. In the United Nations, Weintraub is in charge of economic planning for the entire world. With regard to that, his views are:

"Mr. Sourwine. Did you ever take the position that the Point Four program should be administered by an international organization and not by the United States?

"Mr. Weintraub. Yes.

"Mr. Sourwine. Would you care to expand on that? You might feel that in justice to yourself you should do so.

"Mr. Weintraub. Yes. The program in question is a program of technical assistance for the economic development of

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, Republican, ought to be a very happy man. After months and months of vituperative attack upon his so-called "methods," those very "methods" now have been given a clean bill of health—they have been adopted by both President Truman and Governor Stevenson and some of their campaign spokesmen as well as by the Democratic National Committee in its tabloid newspaper.

The chief criticism made against McCarthy has been that he makes charges affecting character and indulges in "character assassination." It has been argued that this is not permissible in political campaigns and that "issues" should be discussed.

But everyone who has followed the course of American political history knows that the character of the individual—his loyalties and associations—have much to do with his judgments and attitudes on issues. Political techniques on federal, state, county and city level shows no signs of abandoning that approach.

Hitting At Popularity

That's why President Truman and Governor Stevenson have tried, though unsuccessfully, to give the American people the impression that General Eisenhower isn't honest and isn't loyal to his country. A headline in the New York Times of October 28 says: "Truman accuses Eisenhower of dishonesty about Korea," and the news article below says Mr. Truman used the phrase, "thoroughly dishonest." Well, Mr. McCarthy didn't say Stevenson was either disloyal or thoroughly disloyal. He intimated that some of Stevenson's advisors were "pinks." That's far different from Mr. Truman's direct attack on General Eisenhower himself. The reason for such character assassination by the Democratic spokesman is the knowledge that General Eisenhower is nationally popular. The Democratic managers think that, to win an election, it is necessary to demolish his popularity. They mistakenly believe this can be done by attacking him personally rather than by discussing the issues or their own failures in administration.

The tactics, of course, are in some respects just like McCarthy's tactics. Thus, just as the Wisconsin senator got the secret minutes of the Loyalty Review Board on the Communist issue to make a point, so the Democratic administration "leaked" out a "top secret" document of the proceedings of the Joint Chief of Staff in order to make a political point and thereby attempt to discredit General Eisenhower, who was at the time a member of the Joint Chiefs.

The point, of course, hasn't been persuasive, because it turns out that the secret decision in 1947 to withdraw American troops from Korea—in which General Eisenhower concurred—was based on the belief that the Russians would likewise withdraw their troops. Both sides finally did withdraw in 1949 at the request of the UN, but the Communists failed to keep their promise to preserve the integrity of Korea. The reason for this was that the administration had failed to back up the rear of Korea from a strategic standpoint. The State Department withdrew its moral support from the Chinese Nationalists, and then the Chinese Communists took over the country and by January 1950, Secretary Acheson publicly advertised the United States' decision not to defend Korea.

Another instance of so-called "McCarthyism" is to be found in the tabloid newspaper issued by the Democratic National Committee. It shows a 1932 picture of General MacArthur and Major Eisenhower discussing the repression of the "bonus march" of the war veterans in their alleged protest against unemployment. The inference is that Eisenhower was somehow responsible for what happened in 1932 when there is no evidence whatsoever that he had anything to do with it. The Democratic National Committee didn't tell its readers that this same "bonus march" was the work of Communists, who later admitted having plotted the affair. Presumably no more will be heard now from the Democrats about the Republican "tabloid" in the Tydings 1950 campaign in Maryland when Tydings was shown in a composite picture with Communist Browder. Certainly the "liberals" who a year ago were demanding action by the Senate Election Committee about the misuse of photographs in campaigns are strangely silent now. Nor is any "liberal" of prominence demanding that Stevenson disavow Truman.

Reckless Innuendo

Governor Stevenson has not kept his own campaign clean, either. He has accused General Eisenhower of "delaying" an armistice in Korea merely by announcing that, if elected, he would visit that country. First the governor said the purpose of the trip might be to "enlarge the war." That's a wild and reckless innuendo, especially coming from a so-called "high minded" candidate. Then later, the governor said the negotiations may have been delayed by Eisenhower.

Actually there has been a delay of more than a year while the truce talks have been going on and during that delay more than 6,000 American boys have been killed and more than 20,000 have been wounded. The responsibility for that delay lies in the public announcement to the Communist world—after MacArthur was dismissed—that the United States would appease and give up its previous purpose of chasing the aggressor out of Korea. This was in May 1951 when Secretary Acheson—backed up by other administration witnesses—announced at a congressional hearing that the United States couldn't expect to win in Korea that a truce at the 38th Parallel would be acceptable and that, when this was done, "aggression" would be considered "repelled."

The Communists instantly saw this weakness of attitude and have been driving hard ever since for a better and better bargain. The responsibility for the "delay" ought to have been more widely discussed in the campaign, but both sides have ignored the fundamental issues mostly because the type of attack made by the Democrats—a personal assassination — has set the level of the campaign.

To this day the smear of Nixon—who exposed Hiss—goes on notwithstanding the senator's frank statement of his own assets and liabilities and income. The California senator now has been asked to disclose all the affairs of his relatives. Yet Senator Sparkman, Democratic vice presidential nominee, rightly denounced this tactic when asked about his wife's business affairs. It is tragic that "attack on the man"—the oldest sort of political warfare since the days of the Roman Senate—is still in vogue in the modern world.

Eisenhower: Last Week

WITH GEN. EISENHOWER'S CAMPAIGN PARTY

Little things sometimes have big meanings. This reporter, who has been watching Gen. Eisenhower in the last lap of the campaign, therefore begs pardon for beginning with what probably seems like a little thing.

The locale was the black and forbidding coal mining region of Pennsylvania, through which Gen. Eisenhower was boldly campaigning as though there were no such person as John L. Lewis. The point of vantage was the photographer's truck—a sort of high speed tumbril which travels immediately ahead of the candidate's car, and affords a chilly but complete view of both candidate and crowds. Eisenhower was traversing the heavily Democratic, heavily unionized, grimly dingy suburbs of Pittsburgh.

On this "south side" of Pittsburgh, one had only to look ahead to see the indifference and even hostility of the people. They were silent. They were almost sullen, until Eisenhower's open car drew abreast of them.

Then, suddenly, there would be the general, sitting up on the back of the rear seat, waving both arms in his odd, by-now-nationally familiar gesture. He almost visibly radiated his incandescent human warmth. Everything about him seemed to say, "I like these people." And they, perhaps rather reluctantly, plainly decided they liked him, bursting into cheers and clapping for him in the most unexpected and almost unintentional manner as his car passed by.

Can Count On Response

For a leader, this quality of warmth, which Eisenhower possesses in greater degree than any recent Presidential candidate except the two Roosevelts, is a vitally important quality. It is a quality that costs a lot—when there were no crowds the general would slump into his seat in terrible tiredness. But a man who has this quality and uses it wisely and well, can count on securing a strong national response in hard times when a strong response is needed.

The very fact that Eisenhower's warmth has shone out more and more strongly with each passing week of the campaign, can be taken to mean that he is more and more at ease among the complexities of civil leadership. For Eisenhower's bafflement at these complexities was what dimmed out his whole personality in the first unhappy period of seeming failure.

There are other such signs. Much has been made of Gen. Eisenhower's so-called embrace of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. The idea has been propagated that if elected, the general will continue to countenance McCarthy and his methods. In fact, however, candidate Eisenhower has already given rather clear evidence to the contrary.

Massachusetts is a very close state, and McCarthy is thought to appeal strongly to the same large faction in Massachusetts that used to follow Father Coughlin in the New Deal years. Certain leading Massachusetts Republicans recently sought to nail down these valuable votes by bringing McCarthy into Boston to speak there in the campaign wind-up. Eisenhower personally spiked this plan by sending word that he would abandon his own final appearance in Boston rather than follow McCarthy there. By the same token, the general personally intervened to prevent a projected invitation to McCarthy to appear in Jersey City.

Has Learned Fast

One can argue, and many people have argued very loudly and cogently, that Gen. Eisenhower ought to have disowned Sen. McCarthy outright and in public. Yet the facts above-noted are none the less vitally important, as forecasting Gen. Eisenhower's future policy. He has not disowned McCarthy, because he and his staff thought it unnecessary and unwise to go so far. The country does not know that the general has meanwhile refused to use the senator to gain advantage in two really crucial states, one of them notoriously close. But Sen. McCarthy unquestionably knows it, and has certainly taken it as a declaration of war from Eisenhower. You do not declare war on a man whom you intend to tolerate.

NEW YORK—(INS)—I feel I owe it to the American voter to make public how my mother feels about Tuesday's election.

My mother is a lifelong Democrat who has never voted. Unlike millions of other Americans of voting age (my mother is going on 83) she cannot be faulted on the ground of indifference or stubborn petulance.

My mother has lived in Washington, D. C. since she was a small girl. You Americans have deprived the people of Washington of the right to vote. At least your representatives in Congress have done so. The District of Columbia's commissioners (3-headed mayor without particular power) are appointed by Congress, and there is no representation in the House or Senate, though the city has more taxpayers than such states as Rhode Island, Utah, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona, North Dakota, South Dakota and a few others which shall be nameless and, like the rest, blameless.

But though disfranchised, my mother has taken a keen interest in national politics since the administration of U. S. Grant. She speaks of Garfield and McKinley as if still unshot, and when she talks of Taft's foreign policy she's thinking of William Howard, not Robert Alphonso.

Some of my newspaper columning friends who blast Franklin D. Roosevelt would not be safe eating in my mother's house, unless armed with a food taster. In 1948 she all but stopped speaking to me for several days because I appeared on a radio program whose theme was that Tom Dewey should be elected.

My mother couldn't see anybody except Mr. Truman in 1948. If she had been a betting woman—and I wish she had been—she would have wound up richer than Hettie Green, whom she knew as a child. My mother thought Harry should have been 1-to-15 instead of 15-to-1. She was the least surprised person of my acquaintance when Dewey was defeated, and that includes Truman.

Well, it's hard to say how she would vote this time if she could vote without being arrested for impersonating an American taxpayer of voting age. I asked her the other day to see me straight on the November 4 outcome.

"Robert," she said, ignoring the nickname that has become a household word, like "blubber," in climes as remote as Little Diomede, "I will never understand how this great country, with all its fine men to choose from, selected two candidates as unsatisfactory as these two."

"Have a care," I warned. "There may be a hot microphone hidden in the Welsbach burner!"

"Take the general," she said. "I've tried to do what I can to prompt him on television, just like I try to help you when you're on. But what's the use? He won't make up his mind."

"At that rate you must prefer Stevenson," I said thickly.

"No, I don't," she answered thinly. "All he's doing is living off the reputation of his grandfather, and he wasn't so hot either. He didn't make Cleveland much of a vice president. Seems like yesterday."

My mother tells them off pretty good, via the receiving end of television. As far as I can investigate, she is the originator of what has now become the wide-spread practice of sassing or agreeing with a giant life-size ten-inch screen. Virtually every program that comes over the coaxial cable or bounces from microwave tower to tower elicts some kind of advice from my mother, and I must say that it is a pity that this counsel cannot be heard by those who need it most.

Maybe the day will come when it can be. If so, my mother will be rich and famous; the children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren can quit work, and biographers will recall that in 1952 she neither liked Ike nor idolized Adlai.

KEEPING OUT OF MINORS

YOU will find that the most experienced and able players usually stress their preference for No Trump game contracts over minor suit ones to a much greater extent than the majority of less hardened campaigners. They have learned from observation that taking eleven tricks is quite a chore as against nine. Hence, frequently you will see one of them take a chance on a No Trump game when holding some one suit that is not quite surely stopped.

There you see the two main variations in the bidding of this deal in a big social duplicate game. At Table 1, South with three spade bids made it clear he had at least six of the suit, and North, with his heart rebid advertised that this suit was of five cards and the clubs longer since they were named first, and he also showed his great strength since that was a "reverse" bid of the higher-ranking suit. Some Souths left that 4-Hearts bid in, and others went to 5-Clubs. All of these pairs were defeated.

The Table 2 bidding was done in several instances. As soon as South learned of North's appreciable strength, he decided to take a chance on the diamonds. If North happened to have even a guarded Q, he could stop the suit. Also, maybe the defenders would have only four-card length in it.

The hopes regarding the diamonds worked out. West led the 4, which the J won. Two top spades, then one to West brought three diamond tricks to the defense, but no more. When the club return was won by the A, South ran the rest to have his game.

My mother is a lifelong Democrat who has never voted. Unlike millions of other Americans of voting age (my mother is going on 83) she cannot be faulted on the ground of indifference or stubborn petulance.

My mother has lived in Washington, D. C. since she was a small girl. You Americans have deprived the people of Washington of the right to vote. At least your representatives in Congress have done so. The District of Columbia's commissioners (3-headed mayor without particular power) are appointed by Congress, and there is no representation in the House or Senate, though the city has more taxpayers than such states as Rhode Island, Utah, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona, North Dakota, South Dakota and a few others which shall be nameless and, like the rest, blameless.

But though disfranchised, my mother has taken a keen interest in national politics since the administration of U. S. Grant. She speaks of Garfield and McKinley as if still unshot, and when she talks of Taft's foreign policy she's thinking of William Howard, not Robert Alphonso.

Some of my newspaper columning friends who blast Franklin D. Roosevelt would not be safe eating in my mother's house, unless armed with a food taster. In 1948 she all but stopped speaking to me for several days because I appeared on a radio program whose theme was that Tom Dewey should be elected.

My mother couldn't see anybody except Mr. Truman in 1948. If she had been a betting woman—and I wish she had been—she would have wound up richer than Hettie Green, whom she knew as a child. My mother thought Harry should have been 1-to-15 instead of 15-to-1. She was the least surprised person of my acquaintance when Dewey was defeated, and that includes Truman.

Well, it's hard to say how she would vote this time if she could vote without being arrested for impersonating an American taxpayer of voting age. I asked her the other day to see me straight on the November 4 outcome.

"Robert," she said, ignoring the nickname that has become a household word, like "blubber," in climes as remote as Little Diomede, "I will never understand how this great country, with all its fine men to choose from, selected two candidates as unsatisfactory as these two."

"Have a care," I warned. "There may be a hot microphone hidden in the Welsbach burner!"

"Take the general," she said. "I've tried to do what I can to prompt him on television, just like I try to help you when you're on. But what's the use? He won't make up his mind."

"At that rate you must prefer Stevenson," I said thickly.

"No, I don't," she answered thinly. "All he's doing is living off the reputation of his grandfather, and he wasn't so hot either. He didn't make Cleveland much of a vice president. Seems like yesterday."

My mother tells them off pretty good, via the receiving end of television. As far as I can investigate, she is the originator of what has now become the wide-spread practice of sassing or agreeing with a giant life-size ten-inch screen. Virtually every program that comes over the coaxial cable or bounces from microwave tower to tower elicts some kind of advice from my mother, and I must say that it is a pity that this counsel cannot be heard by those who need it most.

Maybe the day will come when it can be. If so, my mother will be rich and famous; the children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren can quit work, and biographers will recall that in 1952 she neither liked Ike nor idolized Adlai.

KEEPING OUT OF MINORS

YOU will find that the most experienced and able players usually stress their preference for No Trump game contracts over minor suit ones to a much greater extent than the majority of less hardened campaigners. They have learned from observation that taking eleven tricks is quite a chore as against nine. Hence, frequently you will see one of them take a chance on a No Trump game when holding some one suit that is not quite surely stopped.

There you see the two main variations in the bidding of this deal in a big social duplicate game. At Table 1, South with three spade bids made it clear he had at least six of the suit, and North, with his heart rebid advertised that this suit was of five cards and the clubs longer since they were named first, and he also showed his great strength since that was a "reverse" bid of the higher-ranking suit. Some Souths left that 4-Hearts bid in, and others went to 5-Clubs. All of these pairs were defeated.

The Table 2 bidding was done in several instances. As soon as South learned of North's appreciable strength, he decided to take a chance on the diamonds. If North happened to have even a guarded Q, he could stop the suit. Also, maybe the defenders would have only four-card length in it.

The hopes regarding the diamonds worked out. West led the 4, which the J won. Two top spades, then one to West brought three diamond tricks to the defense, but no more. When the club return was won by the A, South ran the rest to have his game.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK — Things one New Yorker thinks about: One of the tragedies of life today, it always has seemed to me, is the hopelessness facing serious young painters, who aren't willing to compromise their art and illustrate advertisements. There just aren't any rich people to subsidize them any more, or buy their paintings. Just the other day a talented one named Naomi Lorne announced forlornly she would barter her paintings for frozen steaks or canned goods—"I love to paint but I like to eat, too"—and in today's mail I got a note (on the back of a Cezanne print, naturally) from Jack (St. Joachim) Probst, the celebrated Greenwich Village Prince of Poverty, saying morosely that "Most people can get a picture from me now for $100. This disgusts me but I am not in any good bargaining position." The eccentric St. Joachim is a tremendous painter, too.

I have been reading with enthusiasm varied parts of Tallulah Bankhead's autobiography—which is too good not to have been written by Dick Maney, her publicity man, to whom she gives a "citation" in the front of the book—and pleasantly recalling the first time I met her. She ushered me into her living room, snapped her white garters once or twice and then put me to work rearranging the furniture . . . They took two dozen lower East Side kids up to the Metropolitan Opera House the other day to see the Ballet Theater's "Billy the Kid"—which the kids themselves had danced at P. S. 4 a couple of months ago—and one of them pleased the ballet people by saying he was going to keep right on dancing. The letdown came later: "I'm gonna be a professional boxer and it develops my footwork."

The Columbia bike people had a big exhibit of old two-wheelers at one of the local hotels the other day and in looking into it I discovered that as far back as 1879 bicycles were barred from Central Park as too dangerous. They should have continued that law in effect. Riding a bike in the park a few years ago cost me a dollar when I lost my way and ended up on a pedestrian walk . . . They have made Graham Greene's wonderful book, "Brighton Rock," into a confusing and disappointing movie, I am sorry to report . . . One of the art movie houses here has been playing "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," the old German classic. S. J. Perelman used to say that a film expert was a man who could quote from "Cabinet" not once but five or six times.

The theater season has tip-toed in softly and I dropped in the other matinee to catch a little of the intime show being offered by Beatrice Lillie. I have admired Miss Lillie professionally, if not personally, for some years now and was disappointed this trip to discover that her humor seems to have lost its sublety and razor edge and borders on the slapstick . . . You would think that when you step into the Show Shop, the West 44th Street art and gift store that has been featuring an exhibit of paintings by actors, you'd at least get some cultural conversation. I ended up there the other day, after looking long at Fanny Holtzman's portrait of Gertrude Lawrence completed two days before Gertie's death, commiserating with one of the salesgirls who was moaning because she didn't bet a $39.70 horse on which she'd received a tip. The paintings, incidentally, were first-rate. The ones that impressed me most were by Bramwell Fletcher, Carol Channing (Carol Channing?), Martin Kosleck (the deaf-mute of "The Madwoman of Chaillot" and Diana Barrymore, of all people.

Miss Bette Davis is due among us in a musical comedy shortly. I do not mean to be skeptical, but I will be astonished if a performer of Miss D.'s limited range pulls this one off successfully. Maybe she'll do Bette Davis imitations, which have kept mediocre mimics in ham and eggs for many years . . . On the other hand, a returning actress being looked forward to eagerly in this corner is Margaret Sullavan, in "The Deep Blue Sea," the Rattigan play scheduled to open this fall. All Miss Sullavan has to do is open her mouth and speak some of those husky sentences. Like all normal males, I'm a goner when she does.

Heliolatry is sun worship.

Accents Were Gutteral

We laid Jim Farleys political success to the fact he had been first baseman on the old Haverstraw Giants

He was used to chasing the other guys' overthrows.

And Franklin D. made many a one in all directions. When it came to pulling the fat out of the fire there was no better retriever than Jim.

That's why the Democrats missed Alben Barkley in this campaign. Barkaloo was as soothing as baby talcum and as smooth as a state road.

By now you know the two-party system is no party. This campaign was as bitterly contested as a persimmon-eating tournament.

Both sides say they don't care how you vote so long as you vote. They mean that like you intend sweeping out a lion cage with a whisk broom.

A Democrat can spot an Ike button further than you can mail 16 stamps on a postcard. That goes twice as versa for a Republican.

Retractions call atttention to the original accusation. What they call the heat of a campaign is camouflage for Billingsgate. They bend hoss-shoes when they're red hot. But they throw 'em when they're cool.

Tuesday you must make up the inside of your hat. You've got to be Republican or Democratic. We repeat our old advice that only a cat going through a picket fence can be on both sides at once.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Skip the fine points of skin care and you may be skipping the loveliness you envy in others To perfect the guard you provide for your complexion beauty, here are ten "musts":

1. A magnifying mirror, either on a stand or with a shoulder attachment, is the gadget that reveals otherwise hard-to-detect blemishes and lines so you can correct them before they become apparent to others.

Habits and Gadgets

2. Lying with your feet propped higher than your head whenever possible induces your circulation to carry color to your cheeks—and impurities away... .. ..

3. A man's shaving brush and a mentholated shaving cream or a toothpaste containing milk of magnesia is a sure means of attaining deep, slate-clean cleansing.

4. Disposals gauze pads and cotton balls are or immeasurable value in preventing the spread of infections from a pimple to a dermatitis when you dispose of them after just one application.

5. Dab-ons that contain calomine plus other healing agents are quick banishers of occasional blemishes.

6. New treatments containing vitamins, nascent oxygen hormones, moisture or astringents are helpful in prolonging youthful skin; investigate and experiment to find those that will do the most for you.

7. To clear the skin and stimulate fresh color, use an occasional mask. Make your own by adding a few drops of lemon juice to a whipped egg white, or seek the commercial one that suits your skin type.

Alert to Improvements

8. Use only upward and outward strokes of your fingertips in applying treatments and bases to encourage an uplift of facial muscles.

9. During a day at home provide extra hours of skin coddling by using your night-care treatment instead of cosmetics. Just apply an oily one sparingly and finish off with the neatest lipstick and hairdo; then whether it's the postman or a friend who rings twice you'll be attractively presentable!

10. To fashion an ever-stronger beauty guard, acquire the habit of watching and weighing all new beauty developments and discoveries.

Hollywood's Master Of Suspense Gets Kick Out Of Scaring Quebec

By LUCIA PERRIGO
Central Press Correspondent

QUEBEC, Quebec—Canada is harvesting a bumper crop of goose pimples and on Quebec, especially, it looks great!

Cause of this unique crop is none other than rotund, roguish Alfred Hitchcock, Hollywood's master of suspense, who has taken his troupe of actors and technicians north of the border to film I Confess within the ancient walled city high on a crest above the St Lawrence river.

Scaring audiences right out of their seats is an old story to Hitch, but doing it in an historical setting far from Hollywood and Vine is a new one. Reason for this amazing hegira of Montgomery Clift, Anne Baxter, Karl Malden and a crew of 50 to the romantic, fortified town where 98 per cent of the 200,000 population speak French is that it is the only city on the North American continent where priests wear their cassocks on the street. As Hitch explains:

"A prominent lawyer is murdered and two little girls witness a man dressed in the full-length cassock of a priest hurrying from the site. The murderer confesses the crime to his parish priest played by Clift. The priest, his lips sealed by the sanctity of confession, is unable to speak out and reveal the identity of the murderer, even though his own life, and the reputation of his former sweetheart, played by Anne Baxter, are at stake."

With the cassock as an essential of the plot and with Quebec as a backdrop rich in scenes of history, beauty and ready-made sets, Hitch and company took to the road to shoot 90 per cent of the story on the spot.

An insatiable worker, he personally researched the city last spring, intrigued by the fact that "here is a completely French city just 640 miles north of New York."

Then in early fall three big trucks and trailers left Warner Bros. in Hollywood to haul cameras, sound equipment, lights, wardrobe and the cumbersome paraphernalia of motion pictures across the continent. By train went the actors, cameramen, sound men, hairdresser, wardrobe, transportation men, publicists, assistant director and script girls.

A "studio" was set up in a suite at the Chateau Frontenac, castle-like hostel which dominates the city's skyline and site of the fateful Quebec conference in which President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Canada's MacKenzie King participated.

Hollywoodians and locally drafted extras punched time clocks in the suite, then went out to the authentic sets for the day's shooting. Cameras ground away at such glorious sights as the French Renaissance House of Parliament, the ancient city walls, St. John's Gate, the Citadelle, the plains where Montcalm and Wolfe opposed each other, the North spires of century-old churches, the squat ferries plowing the St. Lawrence.

The climax of the new chiller will come, Hitch confesses, with a chase through the marble halls and gilded salons of the Chateau, although he has not yet had the courage to inform the management. It will end in the mirrored ballroom where Queen Elizabeth and the late King George were feted in 1939.

How is Quebec reacting to greasepaint? Like a cat to catnip.

For instance, two hundred Canadian soldiers stationed at nearby Camp Valcartier never had it so good. To film a World War II homecoming scene at the dock, Hitch surprised the men by hiring their own wives and sweethearts to play just that. However, since there were not enough of the women to go around he supplemented their ranks with the prettiest girls in Quebec.

"You should have seen the kissing and hugging that went on," he recalls with that pixie twinkle that punctuates his round face and merry eyes. "Shall we say I gave them enough takes to have an enjoyable afternoon? Many addresses were exchanged. Oh, many!"

And when it came time to shoot in Saint Zephirinde - de - Stadacona church, there were pauses for two funerals and a wedding.

Carmen Gingras, 13, and Renee Hudon, 10, are having the time of their lives playing the roles of the little girls who see the murder, since by provincial law they never have seen a movie. Following a disastrous theater fire in Montreal a number of years ago which claimed the lives of many children, no one under 16 may attend a theater.

But having the most fun of all is the fabulous Hitch who is going about his highly profitable business of frightening people with a broad smile on his face. As he explains it, "I have what a confused friend of mine once called, an 'ecclastical' glow."

TO RECRUIT HERE — S. Sgt. Lamar K. Looney Jr., will visit here on the second Tuesday of each month to assist with recruiting in the Marine Corps. He will be stationed at the local Marine Reserve headquarters on McKaig's Hill, where M. Sgt. Eugene W. Snyder is on duty each week, Monday through Friday.

North Branch Firemen Quench Brush Blaze

The North Branch Volunteer Fire Company extinguished a fire which destroyed an outbuilding at the Wheeler home at Spring Gap and burned over an acre of brushland Wednesday afternoon

Fire Chief H. F. Whiteman said the building was beyond help when they arrived at 4 p. m. Neighbors kept the brush fire under control until the fire company arrived, he added.

The firemen had the fire under control within half an hour. The fire chief said it was the second brush fire on the farm within a week.

Chief Whiteman made an appeal for the return of a combination lantern-flag, missing when the fire truck returned to the highway.

He said the device is dropped off by the fire truck whenever it leaves the highway, to indicate the route taken by the vehicle.

Points Listed For Control Of Rats During The Winter

Five points in the control of rats during the coming winter months have been noted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as they stress the formation of a county and community rat control program.

The announcement was made by James A. Cottman, acting chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing State Committee, and chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Mobilization Committee.

USDA and the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior outlined the following five points:

Don't give them shelter. Clean up piles of rubbish, lumber, posts and other material and pile them on racks at least two feet above the ground. Replace wooden floors close to the ground with concrete floors with fairly deep footings.

Don't feed them. Seal buildings where rats can find food. Use concrete, metal or hardware cloth,, and be especially careful to seal corn cribs, feed rooms and storage cellars.

Kill them. Establish bait boxes for judicious use of rat poisons such as warfarin. Fumigate with cyanide gas or exhaust fumes in outside burrows. Trap rats where use of poisons and fumigants is too dangerous. Remember—most things that will kill a rat will kill pets, stock and you also—act accordingly.

Organize community rat-control projects. Controlling rats on your farm only is at best a temporary expedient—get your neighbors to cooperate.

Follow a year-round program. Rat control is a continuous job. Rat-killing drives are costly, but feeding them is more costly still. Continuous control is cheapest of all. Help on a good continuous control program can be secured from your County Agent who is kept posted on latest control developments.

Study Shows City Policemen Among Lowest Paid In U. S.

According to findings based on figures gathered from 1,296 U. S. cities of over 10,000 population by the International City Managers Association, Cumberland policemen are among the lowest paid in the nation.

Although this city is the second largest in Maryland, the cost of police protection here is lower than in Hagerstown and other cities of comparable size in the United States.

The City Managers Association presented its findings in the current Municipal Year Book.

Hagerstown Well Ahead

Local taxpayers were billed $161,000 for police department operations in 1951, amounting to $4.25 for each person residing in the city. This was less than the median cost of police protection in the other cities of Cumberland's size group, 25,000 to 50,000 population, which was $5.35 per capita.

Hagerstown taxpayers were charged $218,000 for similar protection, amounting to $6 for each resident last year.

For all the cities, regardless of size, the median cost was $7.19 per capita.

The principal factor in the cost of operating police departments is salaries and wages, constituting about 90 percent of the total. It varies from 81 percent in cities under 25,000 to 94 percent in cities over 500,000.

Force Larger Here

The starting salaries paid patrolmen and their maximum salaries vary widely, with the bigger cities paying the top figures. In general, the figures are from $200 to $300 higher than those paid a year previously.

In Cumberlands size group, the median entrance salary is $3,013 and the maximum $3,327, including cost of living adjustments. Locally, as of the beginning of the year, patrolmen start at $2,580. The top for the rank is $2,940.

Cumberland's police force is larger, in proportion to the size of the city, than are those of most of the communities of its size. With a complement of 52, including uniformed and civilian employes, the local department has 1.38 on the payroll for every 1,000 residents. Other cities of its size average 1.31 per 1,000. Nationally, there are 1.29 per 1,000.

Some cities it is noted require more police than do other cities because of unusual traffic problems or other special local conditions so that the cost and numbers employed should be weighed against performance and accomplishments.

RIU Publication Is Distributed

The first issue of the RIU Reporter, has been published by the Railroad Industrial Union which has headquarters in Cumberland.

The railroad trade paper has four pages devoted to news of the industrial labor movement. The editor is Elmer E. Davis, president of the RIU.

A former Cumberland resident was fined $229.35 Wednesday in Trial Magistrates Court on three motor charges after he was acquitted of violating a two-month parole.

The defendant, Henry Virgil Sirbaugh, 1823 Virginia Avenue, Hagerstown, formerly of Mann's Terrace here, pleaded not guilty to all counts. He filed notice of an appeal to Circuit Court on the motor charges and was ordered held under $500 bond.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick fined Sirbaugh $101.45 for "making a false statement and/or misrepresentation to obtain a motor vehicle license," $101.45 on a revoked license charge and $26.45 for using tags issued to another car.

Arrested Monday by State Trooper Charles H. DeWitt, the defendant was accused of violating a one-year parole imposed August 21 on an assault preferred by his ex-wife. At that time he was told to remain sober, be of good behavior and provide for his family.

Magistrate Dick dismissed the parole violation charge.

Should Leopold, Convicted Thrill Slayer, Go Free?

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Correspondent

CHICAGO—Should the convicted thrill slayer of little Bobby Franks go free after 28 years?

The heavy burden of answering that question rests squarely upon the Illinois parole board as it weighs the current application of Nathan Leopold for release in January from Stateville prison, and it is receiving plenty of suggestions pro and con as public controversy over the principles involved increases in intensity with each passing day.

Leopold's eligibility for parole from the life sentence given him in 1924 for the murder of 10-year-old Bobby, plus 99 years for the kidnaping, is the final payoff for the colossal gamble made by Clarence Darrow in one of his last great criminal trial defenses.

With public feeling at fever pitch against Leopold and his pal, Richard Loeb, Darrow waived a jury and threw his youthful clients — both sons of wealthy south side Chicago parents—on the mercy of the court.

Debate over the age-old questions concerning capital punishment and whether the state ever is justified in taking a life for a life, swirled about the court, and the judge finally ruled against execution. Many people asked, "Will they really stay behind bars for the rest of their lives, or will they get off relatively easy after public indignation cools off?"

From the day they started serving time, the two youths convicted of taking the life of a younger playmate just for the thrill of it, chose diametrically different paths in prison life.

Leopold became the exemplary prisoner, the jail librarian, an instructor in the prison school, and a trusty. Loeb swaggered around as a "tough guy," and in 1936 the answer was given in so far as he was concerned. A fellow inmate killed him in a brawl. "Justice would not be denied," said those who had clamored for the supreme penalty.

However, Leopold went on and compiled a record at Stateville which is as bizarre in its way, as his career outside of prison had been the opposite. He said he wanted to salvage his life, and to atone for his wrongs by rendering public service.

In 1944 the opportunity came. The United States government needed volunteer "human guinea pigs" to emulate Walter Reed and his associates who during the Spanish-American war bared their wrists and let mosquitoes bite them, so that the carrier of yellow fever might be identified.

This time, however, the disease was a deadly strain of malaria which was threatening United States servicemen in the South Pacific. A new drug, primaquinine, was being tried as a cure, but had to be tested.

There was great risk, because as promising as the drug was, it might not save all. Eight hundred convicts at Stateville volunteered for one of the greatest mass experiments in medical history, among them Leopold. Four died, but death passed over Leopold and he recovered.

For Leopold to be permitted to participate was going a long way, because canons of medical ethics ordinarily ban "habitual criminals and those who have committed heinous crimes. An exception was made of Leopold on account of his fine record.

Another proviso of medical ethics forbids holding out any favors to such prison volunteers, lest their stepping forward not be voluntary in the strictest sense. So the parole board regards itself as under no obligation to Leopold whatsoever.

Gov. Adlai Stevenson, however, in 1949 commuted Leopold's 99-year sentence to 85 years, making him elegible for parole in January and putting his case before the parole board this month.

Political partisans have challenged both major party candidates for Cook county state's attorney as to what they will do if elected; will they bitterly fight the parole, assuming that the board approves it?

Neither committed himself on the issue, both saying that protection of the public is paramount, and experts should decide whether Leopold is able and fit for society again.

"It was a mistake that they were not hanged in 1924 as an example to others," GOP candidate Granville Beardsley declared bluntly, however. This appears to be the view of many citizens who are asking that the parole board do the next thing—keep Leopold incarcerated for life.

However, others argue that rehabilitation is the goal of modern prisons. Meanwhile, Leopold quietly follows the tactics he adopted from the first, perhaps consciously playing out Clarence Darrow's gamble. Interested in medicine now, he works in the X-ray laboratory.

If he gets his parole, his path will be smoothed by a $50,000 trust fund left for him by his parents, both now dead. They left it starting that they never lost faith that somehow their "boy"—now graying and 48 on Nov. 18—might be straightened out and the great debate resolved in favor of parole.

Demos Have 7 To 4½ Edge In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 30 (AP)—There are 1,172,109 West Virginians registered to vote in Tuesday's general election, 68,000 more in 1948. Democrats outnumber Republicans about 7 to 4½.

Both the total registration and the Democratic majority represented all-time highs for the state, a check of past figures showed.

All of the state's 55 counties have reported official registration figures to Secretary of State D. Pitt O'Brien.

The total number of potential voters compares to 1,103,928 registered for the presidential election four years ago. It also is an increase of 30,020 over registration for the May 13 primary, when 1,142,089 persons were eligible to cast their ballots.

Democrats have gained new voters since then in a ratio of almost 2 to 1 against the Republicans.

Household Gifts For Fall Brides

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When the bride-to-be "has everything" — linens, lingerie, silver, china—what kind of a shower is left for her friends to give her? Well how about a household shower?

A household shower can include anything from a box of detergent to a vacuum cleaner. Whether the bride lives in a one-room apartment or in a ten room house, she'll need the same type of equipment. A shower of household cleaning tools will provide many welcome gifts to make the new homemaker's job easier. Wall brush, furniture polish, floor wax, wet mop.

This shower must be organized the same as any other shower in order to avoid duplication of gifts. If, for instance, one girl feels she can afford to give a carpet sweeper and another not more than a bottle of furniture polish, there need be no chagrin felt because of the smaller gift.

Some girls prefer to keep the entire shower at the same cost for each participant. If this is the plan, the cost of food is added to the cost of one big gift or all of the small gifts, and divided among all the girls. That way all the gifts would be put together and all the girls would sign the gift card.

There are many ways to present the gifts. Decorations for the shower are easy, with some crepe paper and a little imagination. Cover a clothes basket, bucket or dish pan with brightly-colored paper and arrange the presents in and around it. Some girls do not think the element of suspense should be involved in a shower of this sort, and so prefer to present the gifts without wrapping them. This is a lazy way to look at it but it is no doubt true that mops and brooms are pretty unusual types of packages to wrap prettily. So if you are stymied by the problem of wrappings, put the gifts outside the door or in an inconspicious corner of the closet until you are ready to present them.

Household Gifts For Fall Brides

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When the bride-to-be "has everything" — linens, lingerie, silver, china—what kind of a shower is left for her friends to give her? Well how about a household shower?

A household shower can include anything from a box of detergent to a vacuum cleaner. Whether the bride lives in a one-room apartment or in a ten room house, she'll need the same type of equipment. A shower of household cleaning tools will provide many welcome gifts to make the new homemaker's job easier. Wall brush, furniture polish, floor wax, wet mop.

This shower must be organized the same as any other shower in order to avoid duplication of gifts. If, for instance, one girl feels she can afford to give a carpet sweeper and another not more than a bottle of furniture polish, there need be no chagrin felt because of the smaller gift.

Some girls prefer to keep the entire shower at the same cost for each participant. If this is the plan, the cost of food is added to the cost of one big gift or all of the small gifts, and divided among all the girls. That way all the gifts would be put together and all the girls would sign the gift card.

There are many ways to present the gifts. Decorations for the shower are easy, with some crepe paper and a little imagination. Cover a clothes basket, bucket or dish pan with brightly-colored paper and arrange the presents in and around it. Some girls do not think the element of suspense should be involved in a shower of this sort, and so prefer to present the gifts without wrapping them. This is a lazy way to look at it but it is no doubt true that mops and brooms are pretty unusual types of packages to wrap prettily. So if you are stymied by the problem of wrappings, put the gifts outside the door or in an inconspicious corner of the closet until you are ready to present them.

Council Scouts To Place Vote Reminders At 35,000 Homes In Cumberland Section

Nearly 1,400 Cubs, Scouts and Explorers from 57 units in Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will participate in a nation-wide "Get-Out-The-Vote" campaign Saturday when they distribute about 35,000 Liberty bell door knob hangers in the Cumberland area.

The boy will distribute the last minute reminders to vote at homes in all of the Council territory which includes Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland and Mineral, Hampshire, Hardy and Grant counties in West Virginia.

Council officials said the campaign, the largest single activity ever undertaken by the Boy Scouts of America, is being handled here by unit leaders throughout the Council area, assisted by the Commissioners staff.

The good-turn project is being conducted in co-operation with the Freedoms Foundation, Inc., and is entirely non-partisan without reference to any candidate or party.

Scout officials said the drive is designed to remind the people of America that it is a privilege to vote. In the last election in 1948, only half the population voted.

Just before Election Day, Nov. 4, the nation's Boy Scouts will place on the door knobs of 30,000,000 homes, Liberty Bell cutouts, shown above, urging every citizen to vote. Their "Get-Out-The-Vote" Campaign is being conducted in cooperation with the Freedoms Foundation. It is entirely non-partisan, without reference to any candidate or party.

BARTOW, Fla., Oct. 30 (AP)—James Francis Hill, 31-year-old outlaw wanted for a three-day kidnaping spree in Georgia and Tennessee, held up the guards at a state road camp near here today and freed four convicts, including two old pals.

FBI agents, state patrolmen, county and city officers joined in one of the greatest manhunts in this area in recent years. Sheriff Tagan Parrish said Hill and the convicts werebelieved to be on foot in a wooded area.

Hill is wanted for kidnaping a score of people in Georgia and Tennessee last week. None was hurt but all were robbed.

Blaze Destroys Band Instruments

STUTTGART, Ark., Oct. 30 (AP) — Undaunted with heads unbowed, the Stuttgart High School band believes the show must go on.

An estimated $20,000 fire destroyed the band building today, including all of the instruments. The musicians luckily took their uniforms home yesterday to be cleaned.

Sharpsburg Gets Its First Cop

SHARPSBURG, Md., Oct. 30 (AP)—For 100 years—even while the Battle of Antietam raged nearby during the Civil War — Sharpsburg (pop. 800) got along without a municipal law enforcement officer.

But Mayor Elmer Koontz said today the community's lawless element is getting out of hand, and a policeman will be named to cope with it.

The mayor said the officer will be appointed at a City Council meeting Monday night.

Clock Is Wrong, Juror Stays Out

NORTH SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Daylight time expired September 28—except in the local municipal courtroom. That led to a little confusion.

At 11 a. m. (standard time) yesterday, the judge ordered a brief recess.

A woman juror glanced at the clock, which registered 12 noon (daylight time), assumed the break was for lunch, and walked off.

Restaurant Owner Sues Bowie Prexy

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP)—John J. Carlin Jr., of Baltimore today asked the courts to affirm a restaurant lease he had at Bowie Race Track and prohibit anyone else from running an eating place there.

His suit in circuit court is against Larry S. MacPhail, president of the track, who is in the midst of a $1,500,000 refurbishing program at the Prince Georges County race course.

Carlin said he got into a dispute with MacPhail about his right to run a restaurant and as a result MacPhail is trying to terminate the lease.

Attention Organized Labor

PLAIN HORSE SENSE

"All trade unionists of Maryland have to do is to pause, use a little plain horse sense and they will appreciate the logic in this reasoning." Certainly no trade union member who enjoys the wages and standards of union conditions would bring himself to support George P. Mahoney, the man who refuses to pay his own employees standard wages and who has been known to fire men who ask for overtime after 14 hours on the job. If he believes in these conditions for his own workers, what can we expect from him in public office?

Council Scouts To Place Vote Reminders At 35,000 Homes In Cumberland Section

Nearly 1,400 Cubs, Scouts and Explorers from 57 units in Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will participate in a nation-wide "Get-Out-The-Vote" campaign Saturday when they distribute about 35,000 Liberty bell door knob hangers in the Cumberland area.

The boy will distribute the last minute reminders to vote at homes in all of the Council territory which includes Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland and Mineral, Hampshire, Hardy and Grant counties in West Virginia.

Council officials said the campaign, the largest single activity ever undertaken by the Boy Scouts of America, is being handled here by unit leaders throughout the Council area, assisted by the Commissioners staff.

The good-turn project is being conducted in co-operation with the Freedoms Foundation, Inc., and is entirely non-partisan without reference to any candidate or party.

Scout officials said the drive is designed to remind the people of America that it is a privilege to vote. In the last election in 1948, only half the population voted.

Just before Election Day, Nov. 4, the nation's Boy Scouts will place on the door knobs of 30,000,000 homes, Liberty Bell cutouts, shown above, urging every citizen to vote. Their "Get-Out-The-Vote" Campaign is being conducted in cooperation with the Freedoms Foundation. It is entirely non-partisan, without reference to any candidate or party.

Clock Is Wrong, Juror Stays Out

NORTH SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Daylight time expired September 28—except in the local municipal courtroom. That led to a little confusion.

At 11 a. m. (standard time) yesterday, the judge ordered a brief recess.

A woman juror glanced at the clock, which registered 12 noon (daylight time), assumed the break was for lunch, and walked off.

Restaurant Owner Sues Bowie Prexy

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP)—John J. Carlin Jr., of Baltimore today asked the courts to affirm a restaurant lease he had at Bowie Race Track and prohibit anyone else from running an eating place there.

His suit in circuit court is against Larry S. MacPhail, president of the track, who is in the midst of a $1,500,000 refurbishing program at the Prince Georges County race course.

Carlin said he got into a dispute with MacPhail about his right to run a restaurant and as a result MacPhail is trying to terminate the lease.

Garrett County Furore Features Dr. Baumgartner

Democrat Boosts Ike For President

A Garrett County doctor is in the middle of a political stir as a result of being identified as being a member of the Maryland Professional Committee for Eisenhower and Nixon.

The reason for the stew—Dr. I. E. Baumgartner of Oakland is a member of the Garrett County Democratic State Central Committee.

And he refuses to relinquish his position on the county group.

When contacted yesterday, Dr. Baumgartner said he had been taking no active part in the campaign, either for the Republican or Democratic candidates.

A spokesman for the Democratic State Central Committee in Oakland said Dr. Baumgartner accepted appointment to the state professional committee.

Dr. Amos R. Koontz, Baltimore, state chairman of the committee, said about 100,000 postal cards are to be mailed to patients and friends of Maryland doctors, urging them to vote for the Republican candidates.

Dr. Koontz has confirmed that Dr. Baumgartner had been asked to serve on the committee and had accepted.

Grover C. Stemple, chairman of the Garrett County Democratic committee, said a special meeting is being called to consider the situation.

He stated at least one other member has threatened to resign unless Dr. Baumgartner does so first.

Speaker Cites Importance Of Gifts To Libraries

WESTERNPORT — Miss Helen M. Clark Director of Division of Libary Extension, Baltimore who has been spending several days in Allegany and Garrett Counties visited the Cumberland, Westernport and Oakland libraries

Miss Clark spoke in Westernport before a group of representative citizens who are interested in library projects.

In listing the activities in which citizens of a community might have a vital part in library extension Miss Clark commented and enlarged upon special gifts bequests and contributions to augment and stimulate libraries. The speaker called attention to the legacy of $2500 recently received by the Westernport library from the estate of the late Mrs. Alce Mason of Westernport.

Enlarging upon the subject, Miss Clark said, "Many libraries throughout Maryland have received contributions and gifts Some have been the nucleus of the foundation of libraries; others have assisted and made possible the continuation of a library."

Miss Clark said among those which have benefited largely are the Pikesville, Baltimore County library, which in 1946-47 collected from the citizens of the community $35,000 to establish a combination library and health department; Towson, Baltimore County, had a bequest of $20,000 with which to erect a library building; Bel Air, Hartford County, bought a church and remodeled it into a library at a cost of $10,000; Hyattsville, Prince George's County, is soon to open a county library; Sudlersville, Queen Anne's County, in 1946 remodeled a church into a Memorial Library; Easton, Talbot County, received an anonymous gift of $29000 to be used in remodeling a church for a library building; in Salisbury, Wicomico County, the Junior Chamber of Commerce collected funds for a Book-Mobile; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davis of Westminster, gave to the public library a business building which brings in $16,000 annually for support to the library. These public spirited citizens purchased a church which is to be remodeled into a library building. Mr. and Mrs. Davis also gave to the Western Maryland College $250,000 for the library there. Oakland, Garrett County, which has recently established a public library, did so through a gift of $35,000 from a former resident and other cash donations.

In citing these gifts and contributions for library services in Maryland, Miss Clark and numerous other libraries have been recipients of citizens' generosity, and that already 13 counties and Baltimore City have qualified under the Book-Mobile service

In calling attention to the Mobile library service, Miss Clark said, "The Mobile branch travels on an announced schedule, and is a library on wheels. Last year the mobile library in Maryland circulated more than a million books, serving city, urban and rural sections.

Oakland Trucking Firm Is Picketed

Picketing of an Oakland trucking firm by the Teamsters Union (AFL) continued yesterday, according to a check made at the firm's office.

The strike went into effect Monday morning, with the union claiming the company was unfair to owners of leased equipment. The firm, Sanders Motor Freight, leases trucks and trailers from private owners, with the latter acting as drivers.

A company spokesman yesterday said the union members were asking more money for use of their vehicles. Some five or six individual owners are involved in the dispute. Trucks owned by the firm are continuing to operate, the spokesman added.

Garrett County Furore Features Dr. Baumgartner

Democrat Boosts Ike For President

A Garrett County doctor is in the middle of a political stir as a result of being identified as being a member of the Maryland Professional Committee for Eisenhower and Nixon.

The reason for the stew—Dr. I. E. Baumgartner of Oakland is a member of the Garrett County Democratic State Central Committee.

And he refuses to relinquish his position on the county group.

When contacted yesterday, Dr. Baumgartner said he had been taking no active part in the campaign, either for the Republican or Democratic candidates.

A spokesman for the Democratic State Central Committee in Oakland said Dr. Baumgartner accepted appointment to the state professional committee.

Dr. Amos R. Koontz, Baltimore, state chairman of the committee, said about 100,000 postal cards are to be mailed to patients and friends of Maryland doctors, urging them to vote for the Republican candidates.

Dr. Koontz has confirmed that Dr. Baumgartner had been asked to serve on the committee and had accepted.

Grover C. Stemple, chairman of the Garrett County Democratic committee, said a special meeting is being called to consider the situation.

He stated at least one other member has threatened to resign unless Dr. Baumgartner does so first.

New Medical Center Health Insurance Plan Is Announced

NEW YORK—(INS)—The American Federation of Medical Centers announced plans this week to provide complete medical, hospital, surgical and dental care to individuals as an answer to government plans for nationwide health insurance.

The A.F.M.C. program will operate through a system of correlated community medical centers throughout the nation at a cost to individuals of from one to two dollars a week, depending on the locality.

Coverage on a voluntary basis will be provided through private insurance companies. The plan envisages family enrollment and employer participation. Welfare funds would be used to meet all or part of the medical cost for those unable to pay.

The new program, which is based on making the medical centers self-supporting eventually, was announced by Wendell W. Anderson, chairman of the board of A.F.M.C., and Dr. Edgar H. Norris, its founder. Anderson is president of the Bundy Tubing Co. Dr. Norris is a prominent surgeon and medical economist of Grosse Point Park, Mich.

According to Dr. Norris, the plan offers for the first time the means to market the advantages of modern technology as efficiently as industrial products, "like automobiles and refrigerators."

Dr. Norris said the choice of a doctor or dentist will be up to the individual.

He added that studies made by doctors, businessmen and representatives of other groups showed the need for a system of medical centers, "each operating as a free and independent enterprise without regimentation, absentee direction or political control."

Anderson said: "The A.F.M.C. is convinced that medicine's real weakness is not in the quality of medical care which is superb in some areas, but in the uneven distribution of such care nationally."

The A.F.M.C. program calls for raising of funds to establish business, labor and industrial leaders, as well as medical and other organizations. The centers would have clinical hospital and other facilities

All qualified doctors and dentists would be eligible to join the medical centers' "teams." They would receive salaries plus a "bonus" depending on the type of work they performed and the time put in.

The A.F.M.C. said its plan among other things, would eliminate "inefficient shopping" from specialist to specialist by some ill persons, end the "shuttling" of the specialist from office to hospitals, and relieve doctors of a great deal of administration work.

LaSalle High School's Explorers and Allegany's Campers, gridiron rivals since 1928, will clash for the 24th time tonight at 8 o'clock at the Greenway Avenue stadium.

Coach Roy Lester's Campobello eleven will be angling for its fourth straight victory after having taken Keyser, Montgomery Blair of Silver Spring and Martinsburg in that order. Idle last weekend following a crushing defeat at the hands of the powerful Donora High Dragons in Pennsylvania two weeks ago, the Explorers will be shooting the works in an effort to snap the Campers' winning streak that started in 1944. LaSalle's last win over Allegany was a 9-0 decision in 1943. Snce then Campobello teams have won nine out of 10. The 1947 game ended in a 12-12 tie.The overall series that was inaugurated 24 years ago when Art Slocum and Walter L. Bowers were the coaches now stands 16-5 in Allegany's favor. Two games were ties.

Fred Wartzack is slated to start at fullback for the Campers in place of Dave Walton, first string fullback, who is in Sacred Heart Hospital with a blood clot on the leg.

Allegany looms as the favorite in tonight's game and a victory for LaSalle would be regarded as a surprise.

Navy Notre Dame To Play 26th Time

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 30 (AP)—Coach Eddie Erdelatz sent his Navy football team through a brisk, light workout today, giving the Middies final pointers for their battle with Notre Dame Saturday at Cleveland.

Both teams enter this week's contest with identical records of three victories, one loss and one tie. The only common opponent was Pennsylvania, and both teams tied the Quakers, 7-7.

In the series to date between the two schools, Notre Dame has won 20 games, Navy four, and one ended in a tie.

Coach Ray Hull's Beall High School eleven is favored to hand the Ridgeley Blackhawks their seventh straight setback today when the teams tangle on the Ridgeley High Athletic Field at 3 p. m.

It will be the third game of the series between these schools and Ridgeley has yet to win a game from the Mountaineers. Beall won in 1950 by the score of 14-0 and also took last year's game, 28-6.

Beall shook a three-game losing streak last week by whipping Charles Town and after the Ridgeley game Frostburg closes out the season with games with Moorefield and LaSalle. Coach Chester Payne's Hawks will lower the curtain on the 1952 campaign by playing LaSalle next week.

"Bobby" Cavanaugh, John Shelton and Bob Pence will officiate in today's tilt.

Two PVC Games Listed

Two Potomac Valley Conference games are on tap today. Coach "Tack" Clark's Keyser High Golden Tornado (4-3-0) faces the West Virginia School for the Deaf (0-4-0) at Romney while Circleville's Indians (3-3-0) battle Bob Hartman's Panthers of Franklin High (3-4-0) at Franklin.

Moorefield's Yellowjackets will play hosts to Herb Yost's Berkeley Springs High Indians in a non-conference game at Moorefield.

Parsons Invades Elkins

In night games, Parsons (3-4-1) plays the high-stepping Elkins High Tigers (6--20) at Elkins while the Bedford (Pa.) Bisons (1-6-0) invade Johnstown, Pa., to battle the Ferndale High Yellowjackets.

Homer Brooks' undefeated Frederick High Cadets (6-0-0) play host to Littlestown (Pa.) High School, Martinsburg High's Bulldogs (4-2-1) entertain Homer Fizer's University High (Morgantown) eleven at Martinsburg, W. Va., and Hagerstown invades Silver Spring, Md., for a contest with Montgomery Blair High School's Blazers in other games on today's slate. The last two games are nocturnal affairs.

Harry Brecheen Given Release By Cardinals

ST. LOUIS Oct. 30 (AP) — Harry "The Cat' Brecheen veteran left-handed pitcher, has been given his unconditional release by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Harry Brecheen

President Fred Saigh today confirmed a report had been released and said he understood Harry was "going next door to join the Browns." Browns officials had no immediate comment.

The veteran southpaw serving as a pitching coach and working infrequently won seven and lost five for the Cardinals during the past season.

Weiss Declares Change In Rule Aimed At Yanks

Says Other Attempts Made To Curb Champs

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (INS) — George Weiss, general manager of the New York Yankees, charged today that the world champions are unjustly being "cast in a bad light" by a proposal to change baseball's inter-league waiver rule.

George Weiss

The Yankees are considered the chief targets of a rule change proposed by the major-minor league executive committee, which would make it necessary for all clubs in each league to waive on players being transferred from one loop to the other after July 31.

In the past four years, the Yankees have obtained Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp, Johnny Sain, Johnny Schmitz and Ewell Blackwell under the present rule, which required waivers by National League clubs only

Weiss said the Yankees "never have obtained a ballplayer by going behind or beyond the rules of baseball. He said the club will abide by any new ruling passed at the December meeting at Phoenix, Ariz, but he added:

"There have been legislative attempts made before to curb the Yankees' winning habits. Isnt it about time it became clear that pennants are won on a ball field?"

East Side Defeats Lamont St., Penn Avenue Is Victor

East Side rallied in the final period to nose out Lamont Street, 24-18, and Penn Avenue crushed Baker Street, 36-12, in City Recreation Touch Football League games played yesterday.

The scores by quarters:

At Penn Avenue

LAMONT STREET	0	6	12	0—18
EAST SIDE	0	6	12	6—24

Touchdowns scored by Ketterman, Hann, Bridges (Lamont Street) Souders, Rudolph, Ellsworth, Steckman (East Side).

At Rolling Mill

BAKER STREET	6	0	0	6—12
PENN AVENUE	6	6	18	6—36

Touchdowns scored by Golightly 2 (Baker Street); Butts 3, Grey, Warner, Wallace (Penn Avenue).

Sam Houston Gridder Nears Offense Record

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP) — Quarterback Don Gottlob of Sam Houston State, Texas, has racked up total gains of 108, 344, 269, 290, 321 and 369 yards in six games so far. If he gains 306 more in three remaining games, he will break the national small-college total offense record.

The weekly small college statistics released today by the National Collegiate A. A. Service Bureau show that the 21-year-old Galveston boy has gained 1,701 yards—all but 10 by passing—in six games. The record of 2,006 yards total offense was set by Connie Callahan of Morningside in 1949.

Bruce, Central To Face Tests Off Home Pitch

Barton, Flintstone Booters Are Hosts

The three-cornered race for the W.M.I. Soccer League championship resumes today with Bruce High's front runners engaging Barton on the latter's pitch while Central High's Tigers are engaging Flintstone High at Flintstone.

Bruce heads the procession with a 3-0-2 record and will be seeking a sweep of the series with the Braves who are winless to date and dropped the opener to Coach Augie Eichhorn's booters by the score of 1-0.

Ed Thompson will officiate.

Central holds a 3-1 decision over Flintstone but Coach Orville Jackson's outfit may give the Tigers an interesting argument as it held Beall to a 1-1 tie and defeated Barton in its last two starts.

Cecil Warnick will referee in the Flintstone contest.

Stadium Inn shut out Goodfellowship Club, 3-0. Bob Powers was high for the victors with 26 and Hockman led the GFC with 17.

Gualteri In Trouble

Kayoed Here In 1949

Publicizing Violators

Mize Is No Bat Waver

By C. V. BURNS

A New Orleans sports editor's expose of a boxer's record has resulted in the indefinite suspension and the plastering of a $350 fine on Al Gualteri and Frank Buff, his manager.

This action has brought about the cancellation of a bout scheduled between Gualteri and Ralph Dupas by the Louisiana Boxing Commission.

The charge is that Gualteri's record had been falsified.

According to Promoter Heard Ragas, he was told by Buff that Gualteri had not lost a fight in two years. Records, however, disclosed that Al had lost two fights this year, one by knockout to Harold Lyons and the other by TKO to Elmer Lakatos.

Ragas displayed a telegram from Gualteri's manager listing an undefeated record for 1952.

Gualteri has denied giving a false record to his manager.

To Hap Glaudi, sports editor of the New Orleans Item, goes credit for stopping this affair. Glaudi lashed out at the commission for not checking the fighter's record. He also wrote that Gualteri had been barred by his home state (Pennsylvania Boxing Commission) because of bad eyesight.

The $350 fine was to go to Ragas for expenses out in advance promotion.

Gualteri's case should be of interest to boxing fans here because Al appeared in the main go at the State Armory April 25, 1949 and was stopped by Herbie "Biff" Jones in seven rounds.

Gualteri was on the way out at that time. Percy Bassett stopped him in 1948 and it marked the third straight time that he suffered a K.O. when he hit the deck at the local armory.

It's hard to understand why other boxing commissions allow the washed-up Gualteri to continue his "knocked out" campaign when his home state bans him.

One of the resolutions approved at last week's meeting of the Maryland League of Sportsmen, Inc. concerned the publicizing of the names of game law violators.

Johnny Mock, Pittsburgh outdoors writer expresses the same opinion.

"What any violator hates most is the spotlight of publicity blazing upon him," Mock writes. "Fines don't mean a thing to him so long as his crimes are concealed from public glare.

"Some of the biggest gangsters in the country have gone to jail only because the spotlight of publicity aroused public sentiment to the point where no other course remained to those who did their best to shield them. That will work with the game law violators the same as it has with the members of the underworld."

Mock feels that the names should be published in the Game News, official periodical of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, which he adds, should set the example before it asks the rank and file to get busy. He further suggests that agencies post such lists in prominent places where all may observe the names of those who refuse to play the game on the square. He favors eliminating the names of those who were victims of a $2 technical violation observed by an overzealous game protector.

During the World Series we took particular note of two New York Yankee hitters as they stepped to the plate. They were Johnny Mize and Billy Martin.

Before Billy's turn comes to bat he takes several lusty practice swings near the dugout.

The 225-pound Mize one of the most terrific hitters we've ever seen, is no bat waver. He stands up at the plate bat resting on his shoulder and fingers loose and relaxed at the handle, Then he gives the pitcher a cold stare.

Mize says he doesn't wave the bat because that just wastes nervous energy.

"I've seen guys wave away until they just can't stand the tension they themselves have created," Mize declares. "If the pitcher delays or steps off the rubber they gotta step back and stoke up their fires again. Not me, though. When he's ready to pitch, I'm ready to hit."

How's this for a football score?

In 1917 Johnstown (Pa.) High School defeated Pittsburgh South, 140-0. The Trojans led 66-0 at halftime and scored 49 points in the third period. South did not make a first down.

Quarterback Cad Reese scored three touchdowns and place-kicked 14 points after touchdowns for 32 points.

By WILMOT HERCHER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—A University of Maryland junior accused of trying unsuccessfully to fix his school's football game with Louisiana State last Saturday appeared at a fugitive hearing here today and his lawyer indicated he would fight removal from the District of Columbia.

Proceedings in the hearing were delayed until Nov. 20.

Louis Leonard Glickfield, a chunky 21-year-old who starred in high school football in this area, is charged with trying to bribe a Maryland player to make sure that Maryland did not beat LSU by more than 21 points.

Law Covers Bribery

A special law covering the bribing of athletes in Maryland provides that persons convicted under it may be fined from $300 to $5,000 and sent to jail from six months to three years

Although Glickfield lives in Hyattsville, Md., just outside the District of Columbia, he surrendered in Washington last night. This forced authorities in Prince Georges County, Md. where the warrant against him was issued, to bring extradition proceedings to get him back into Maryland for prosecution.

Student Is Suspended

Geary Eppley, dean of men at Maryland announced today that Glickfield has been suspended by the university.

Wearing a leather jacket, blue trousers and a sport shirt, Glickfield appeared in Municipal Court with his attorney, Charles E. Ford. He didn't say a word at the brief hearing, and all his lawyer would tell reporters was: "The facts in this case make it much ado about nothing." Ford indicated he would oppose extradition.

Judge Nadine Gallagher continued the hearing until Nov 20 to give Maryland authorities time to prepare extradition papers. Meanwhile Glickfield is at liberty under $1,000 bond.

The warrant against the student accuses him of offering $1,000 to Tom Cosgrove of Philadelphia, first-string offensive center on the unbeaten Maryland Terps, to see to it that the "spread" of points in the game did not exceed 21.

University officials at nearby College Park, Md., said Glickfield also approached star quarterback Jack Scarbath of Baltimore and Guard Frank Navarro of White Plains, N. Y., with offers of money to hold down the score.

Players Report Offers

All three Maryland players, the officials said, reported the offers to Coach Jim Tatum before the game. Then they went out and helped beat LSU by a score of 34 to 6—a 28-point margin.

Scarbath and Navarro were not mentioned in the warrant. They have signed statements, however, that Glickfield offered them $100 and $400 respectively.

Johnny Bratton Favored To Win Over Joe Miceli

Punch Party Is Set Tonight At Garden

NEW YORK, Oct 30 (AP) — Will Johnny Bratton come as a "Tiger" or a cautious "Ferdinand" to tomorrow night's Halloween punch party with Joe Miceli at Madison Square Garden?

Nobody ever knows what to expect from Chicago Johnny who can beat the best on a good night or lose to a also-ran on a bad one. He is boxing's prize quick change artist.

Apparently the professionals think Bratton will come as a winner, anyhow for they have made him a 6½ to 5 favorite over the fast-rising Miceli from New York's East Side.

The 10-round welter match will go on at 10:00 p. m. EST over a national radio and television network.

The record books show both fighters with a 70 per cent win record. Bratton is 52-19-3 in 74 fights, winning 29 by knockouts. He was stopped twice. Miceli, two years younger at 23, is 36-11-4 for 51 fights. Joe has 19 knockouts and never was stopped.

Jimmy Lear and Bud Slay, 1952 seniors, combined for Mississippi's longest pass play in 1951—a 67 yard touchdown against Tulane.

Beall shook a three-game losing streak last week by whipping Charles Town and after the Ridgeley game Frostburg closes out the season with games with Moorefield and LaSalle. Coach Chester Payne's Hawks will lower the curtain on the 1952 campaign by playing LaSalle next week.

"Bobby" Cavanaugh, John Shelton and Bob Pence will officiate in today's tilt.

High School, Martinsburg High's Bulldogs (4-2-1) entertain Homer Fizer's University High (Morgantown) eleven at Martinsburg, W. Weiss Declares Change In Rule Aimed At Yanks

Says Other Attempts Made To Curb Champs

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (INS) — George Weiss, general manager of the New York Yankees, charged today that the world champions are unjustly being "cast in a bad light" by a proposal to change baseball's inter-league waiver rule.

George Weiss

The Yankees are considered the chief targets of a rule change proposed by the major-minor league executive committee, which would make it necessary for all clubs in each league to waive on players being transferred from one loop to the other after July 31.

In the past four years, the Yankees have obtained Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp, Johnny Sain, Johnny Schmitz and Ewell Blackwell under the present rule, which required waivers by National League clubs only

Weiss said the Yankees "never have obtained a ballplayer by going behind or beyond the rules of baseball. He said the club will abide by any new ruling passed at the December meeting at Phoenix, Ariz, but he added:

"There have been legislative attempts made before to curb the Yankees' winning habits. Isnt it about time it became clear that pennants are won on a ball field?"

East Side Defeats Lamont St., Penn Avenue Is Victor

Sam Houston Gridder Nears Offense Record

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP) — Quarterback Don Gottlob of Sam Houston State, Texas, has racked up total gains of 108, 344, 269, 290, 321 and 369 yards in six games so far. If he gains 306 more in three remaining games, he will break the national small-college total offense record.

The weekly small college statistics released today by the National Collegiate A. A. Service Bureau show that the 21-year-old Galveston boy has gained 1,701 yards—all but 10 by passing—in six games. The record of 2,006 yards total offense was set by Connie Callahan of Morningside in 1949.

Bruce, Central To Face Tests Off Home Pitch

Barton, Flintstone Booters Are Hosts

The three-cornered race for the W.M.I. Soccer League championship resumes today with Bruce High's front runners engaging Barton on the latter's pitch while Central High's Tigers are engaging Flintstone High at Flintstone.

Bruce heads the procession with a 3-0-2 record and will be seeking a sweep of the series with the Braves who are winless to date and dropped the opener to Coach Augie Eichhorn's booters by the score of 1-0.

Ed Thompson will officiate.

Central holds a 3-1 decision over Flintstone but Coach Orville Jackson's outfit may give the Tigers an interesting argument as it held Beall to a 1-1 tie and defeated Barton in its last two starts.

Cecil Warnick will referee in the Flintstone contest.

Gualteri In Trouble

Publicizing Violators

Mize Is No Bat Waver

By C. V. BURNS

A New Orleans sports editor's expose of a boxer's record has resulted in the indefinite suspension and the plastering of a $350 fine on Al Gualteri and Frank Buff, his manager.

This action has brought about the cancellation of a bout scheduled between Gualteri and Ralph Dupas by the Louisiana Boxing Commission.

The charge is that Gualteri's record had been falsified.

According to Promoter Heard Ragas, he was told by Buff that Gualteri had not lost a fight in two years. Records, however, disclosed that Al had lost two fights this year, one by knockout to Harold Lyons and the other by TKO to Elmer Lakatos.

Ragas displayed a telegram from Gualteri's manager listing an undefeated record for 1952.

Gualteri has denied giving a false record to his manager.

To Hap Glaudi, sports editor of the New Orleans Item, goes credit for stopping this affair. Glaudi lashed out at the commission for not checking the fighter's record. He also wrote that Gualteri had been barred by his home state (Pennsylvania Boxing Commission) because of bad eyesight.

Maloy, Clasby Given All-America Mention

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP) — A pair of sharpshooting passers — Charley Maloy of Holy Cross and Dick Clasby of Harvard—headed a list of new Eastern nominations today for All-American football honors.

Maloy completed 24 passes for 250 yards as his team lost to Syracuse last Saturday 20-19. He passed for two touchdowns and scored a third himself.

Clasby, leading ground gainer in the Ivy League, had a similarly good day as Harvard thumped Dartmouth 26-19. He threw two touchdown passes and scored once on a rushing play.

Maloy completed 24 passes for 250 yards as his team lost to Syracuse last Saturday 20-19. He passed for two touchdowns and scored a third himself.

Clasby, leading ground gainer in the Ivy League, had a similarly good day as Harvard thumped Dartmouth 26-19. He threw two touchdown passes and scored once on a rushing play.

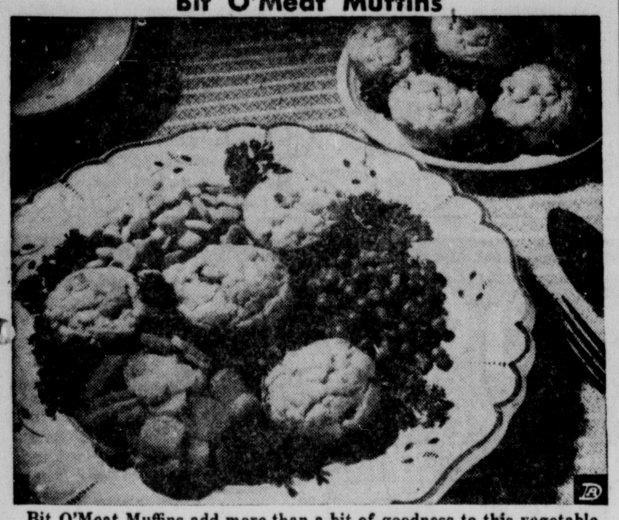
Bit O'Meat Muffins



Bit O'Meat Muffins add more than a bit of goodness to this vegetable platter. Bits of salami, and diced hard cooked eggs encased in tender muffin batter, make these muffins the center of attraction in any menu.

If it's a peppy luncheon menu you're wishing for—you'll find the answer in a menu featuring Bit O'Meat Muffins. These muffins play the double role of main dish and bread. They star bits of salami and diced hard cooked eggs mixed into a plain muffin batter.

Suitable accompaniment for these muffins is a vegetable plate of buttered peas, carrot slices and buttered lima beans. Accent the luncheon with a citrus salad. Serve tempting fudge squares or cup cakes from the bakery as a finishing touch.

You'll find these Bit O'Meat Muffins are easy to make. The salami and diced eggs are added to the dry ingredients along with eggs, milk and seasoning. Stir only until the flour is moistened for a product you'll be proud to serve.

This combination of "wheat 'n meat" is tops for building healthy bodies in an inexpensive way. One batch of Bit O'Meat Muffins costs only 40 cents.

BIT O'MEAT MUFFINS

- 1 cup sifted enriched flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 egg
- ½ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons melted shortening
- ½ teaspoon horseradish
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ pound diced salami (about ¼ cup)
- 2 diced hard cooked eggs

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg and add milk, melted shortening, horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, salami and eggs. Add to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Fill greased 3-inch muffin pans ⅔ full. Bake in moderately hot oven (425°F.) 20 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 6 3-inch muffins.

Pumpkin Time New Interest In Traditional Flavors

Pumpkin pie, the traditional favorite, or pumpkin cake, an exciting newcomer—take your choice. But make these lush fall desserts from wonderfully fresh frozen pumpkin or white squash. For an even wider choice (of pumpkin desserts, that is) use this pie filling recipe to make individual tarts or custards. Cake, pie, tart, or custard, you'll like the tantilizing aroma and spicy flavor of each of these top-of-the meal dishes.

PUMPKIN CAKE

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 cup chopped seedless raisins
- ½ cup shortening
- 1½ cups brown sugar
- 1 16-oz. pkg. frozen pumpkin or squash*, defrosted

Sift the flour, seasoning, and soda together. Add raisins to flour mixture and completely coat with flour. Cream shortening and brown sugar; add the dry ingredients alternately with the defrosted pumpkin. Pour into greased loaf pan about 6 x 10 x 2". Bake. Temperature: 350°F. Time: 50 to 60 minutes. May be served warm or cold—especially delicious when topped with whipped cream.

A challenge to women who would never dream of serving margarine

We bet you the price of a pound that your husband can't tell the difference between the new GOOD LUCK margarine and "you-know-what"

LEAVE US FACE IT. We know dozens of women who wouldn't put margarine on their tables for all the tea in China.

We don't blame these people, not one bit. As a matter of fact, our own wife used to be the same way.

Her prejudice against margarine dated back to her childhood, when she was given old-fashioned oleo. It was made of beef-fat—and tasted perfectly awful.

Last week she tasted our new golden GOOD LUCK. To tell you the truth she had to taste it, because we work for Lever Brothers and our wife knows which side her bread is margarined on.

She was flabbergasted.

"Here," she said, "is something to be proud of. I would never have known that it was margarine. This stuff is in a class by itself. From now on, anyone who pays eighty cents a pound just isn't smart."

And so forth, for half an hour.

That night we gave a party, and we got a notion to play a little trick on our guests. So we filled our French crocks with this new GOOD LUCK, and printed them with antique molds, like you see here.

After dinner we let the cat out of the bag. Nobody could believe that they had been eating margarine.

They had been taken in, completely and absolutely, every man jack of them. And they loved it! We made eight converts to GOOD LUCK that night.

Your Money Back

We know we can convert you, too, so we make this sporting offer: Put a pat of GOOD LUCK on your husband's hot toast at breakfast tomorrow morning. Don't say a word. Just watch him out of the corner of your eye.

If your husband guesses that GOOD LUCK is margarine, we will repay you what you paid your grocer, plus postage. And no questions asked.

You Can't Tell the Difference

The inside story behind this new GOOD LUCK is absolutely fascinating.

We set out to produce a margarine which could hold its own with "you-know-what". A margarine which the most persnickety people would be happy to serve on their tables. A margarine which would be "indistinguishable."

It took us fourteen years of secret research to do this trick. But we did it all right.

The actual flavor of GOOD LUCK was achieved by adapting a remarkable technique discovered at a famous State College of Agriculture, in the farm belt.

As a matter of fact, 97% of our ingredients come from American farms. There is nothing "synthetic" about GOOD LUCK.

Why Farmers' Wives Switch

We never expected to see farmers' wives switch to margarine. We thought they would be the last to see the light.

But the truly astonishing fact is this: in those country districts where we have introduced GOOD LUCK, thousands of farmers' wives are now serving this new golden glory at every meal. Even their husbands can't tell the difference!

Is GOOD LUCK as Nourishing as "You-Know-What"?

The latest medical evidence proves that the new GOOD LUCK is, if anything, more nourishing than "you-know-what".

For example, GOOD LUCK gives you a minimum of 15,000 U.S.P. units of Vitamin A in every golden pound — more than you get in thirty glasses of Grade A milk!

What's more, GOOD LUCK gives you these vitamins all the year round—not just in summer, when the grass happens to be green in the pastures.

This is terrifically important, because doctors have discovered that more than half of our teen-agers are not getting enough Vitamin A in their present diet.

You mothers know this is very serious, because Vitamin A is essential for growth, for good skin, and for resisting infection.

Strong Boys—and Pretty Girls

Give your boys plenty of GOOD LUCK, and it will help make them big and strong. Give it to your girls, and it will actually help them have pretty complexions—this is a scientific fact.

In addition to fortifying GOOD LUCK with Vitamin A, we also add thousands of gallons of fat-free milk, which contains the valuable solids and minerals.

Save Up to 50c a Pound

You might expect to pay a fancy price for this glorious new table margarine, which is unconditionally guaranteed by Lever Brothers Company.

But the amazing fact is that GOOD LUCK costs no more than old-fashioned oleo!

So treat yourself to the best, and still save as much as 50¢ a pound—enough to buy two extra quarts of milk for your family!

In the words of our wife, be smart—get GOOD LUCK!

Suitable accompaniment for these muffins is a vegetable plate of buttered peas, carrot slices and buttered lima beans. Accent the luncheon with a citrus salad. Serve tempting fudge squares or cup cakes from the bakery as a finishing touch.

You'll find these Bit O'Meat Muffins are easy to make. The salami and diced eggs are added to the dry ingredients along with eggs, milk and seasoning. Stir only until the flour is moistened for a product you'll be proud to serve.

This combination of "wheat 'n meat" is tops for building healthy bodies in an inexpensive way. One batch of Bit O'Meat Muffins costs only 40 cents.

For an even wider choice (of pumpkin desserts, that is) use this pie filling recipe to make individual tarts or custards. Cake, pie, tart, or custard, you'll like the tantilizing aroma and spicy flavor of each of these top-of-the meal dishes.

PUMPKIN CAKE

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 cup chopped seedless raisins
- ½ cup shortening
- 1½ cups brown sugar
- 1 16-oz. pkg. frozen pumpkin or squash*, defrosted

A challenge to women who would never dream of serving margarine

We bet you the price of a pound that your husband can't tell the difference between the new GOOD LUCK margarine and "you-know-what"

LEAVE US FACE IT. We know dozens of women who wouldn't put margarine on their tables for all the tea in China.

We don't blame these people, not one bit. As a matter of fact, our own wife used to be the same way.

Her prejudice against margarine dated back to her childhood, when she was given old-fashioned oleo. It was made of beef-fat—and tasted perfectly awful.

She was flabbergasted.

"Here," she said, "is something to be proud of. I would never have known that it was margarine. This stuff is in a class by itself. From now on, anyone who pays eighty cents a pound just isn't smart."

And so forth, for half an hour.

That night we gave a party, and we got a notion to play a little trick on our guests. So we filled our French crocks with this new GOOD LUCK, and printed them with antique molds, like you see here.

After dinner we let the cat out of the bag. Nobody could believe that they had been eating margarine.

They had been taken in, completely and absolutely, every man jack of them. And they loved it! We made eight converts to GOOD LUCK that night.

Your Money Back

We know we can convert you, too, so we make this sporting offer: Put a pat of GOOD LUCK on your husband's hot toast at breakfast tomorrow morning. Don't say a word. Just watch him out of the corner of your eye.

If your husband guesses that GOOD LUCK is margarine, we will repay you what you paid your grocer, plus postage. And no questions asked.

You Can't Tell the Difference

The inside story behind this new GOOD LUCK is absolutely fascinating.

We set out to produce a margarine which could hold its own with "you-know-what". A margarine which the most persnickety people would be happy to serve on their tables. A margarine which would be "indistinguishable."

It took us fourteen years of secret research to do this trick. But we did it all right.

The actual flavor of GOOD LUCK was achieved by adapting a remarkable technique discovered at a famous State College of Agriculture, in the farm belt.

As a matter of fact, 97% of our ingredients come from American farms. There is nothing "synthetic" about GOOD LUCK.

Why Farmers' Wives Switch

We never expected to see farmers' wives switch to margarine. We thought they would be the last to see the light.

But the truly astonishing fact is this: in those country districts where we have introduced GOOD LUCK, thousands of farmers' wives are now serving this new golden glory at every meal. Even their husbands can't tell the difference!

Is GOOD LUCK as Nourishing as "You-Know-What"?

The latest medical evidence proves that the new GOOD LUCK is, if anything, more nourishing than "you-know-what".

For example, GOOD LUCK gives you a minimum of 15,000 U.S.P. units of Vitamin A in every golden pound — more than you get in thirty glasses of Grade A milk!

What's more, GOOD LUCK gives you these vitamins all the year round—not just in summer, when the grass happens to be green in the pastures.

This is terrifically important, because doctors have discovered that more than half of our teen-agers are not getting enough Vitamin A in their present diet.

You mothers know this is very serious, because Vitamin A is essential for growth, for good skin, and for resisting infection.

Strong Boys—and Pretty Girls

Give your boys plenty of GOOD LUCK, and it will help make them big and strong. Give it to your girls, and it will actually help them have pretty complexions—this is a scientific fact.

In addition to fortifying GOOD LUCK with Vitamin A, we also add thousands of gallons of fat-free milk, which contains the valuable solids and minerals.

Save Up to 50c a Pound

You might expect to pay a fancy price for this glorious new table margarine, which is unconditionally guaranteed by Lever Brothers Company.

But the amazing fact is that GOOD LUCK costs no more than old-fashioned oleo!

So treat yourself to the best, and still save as much as 50¢ a pound—enough to buy two extra quarts of milk for your family!

In the words of our wife, be smart—get GOOD LUCK!

Lever Brothers Company, 390 Park Ave., N. Y.

Serve Robust Foods For Family Meals

Plan hearty meals for appetites sharpened by cool autumn weather and let the fragrance of robust foods fill the house when it's dinner for just the family.

Simple and economical is dinner of piquant sauerkraut and plump, spicy frankfurters. Ready to heat and serve without further cooking, canned kraut blends flavors with either boiled or broiled franks. Arrange the hot kraut in the center of a platter and sprinkle with paprika, poppy seeds, chopped pimiento or parsley for a dash of color. Surround with the frankfurters. Fill out the meal with buttered mashed otatoes, crisp pickle slices, crusty rolls and tall glasses of beer! The full-bodied, malty flavor of beer has always made it a traditional complement to savory goodness of frankfurters and kraut. Excellent, too, when baked, here are two delicious sauerkraut casserole recipes.

Liver Roll-Ups

4 slices beef or pork liver, cut ¼ to ½ inches thick; salt, pepper, nutmeg, thyme; 4 sausage links; 4 slices bacon; 2 tablespoons lard or drippings! ¾ cup boiling water; 3 tablespoons Worcestershide sauce; 1 small bay leaf; 1 whole clove 1 small clove garlic, minced; 1 small onion sliced; flour for gravy.

Remove any membrane from sliced liver. Sprinkle liver with salt, pepper, nutmeg and thyme. Roll a sausage link in each slice, wrap with bacon slice and fasten with tooth picks. Brown the rolls on all sides in lard. Pour off drippings. Add water, Worcestersnire sauce, bay leaf, clove, garlic and onion. Cover and cook slowly for 20 minutes. Thicken liquid with fluor for gravy. 4 servings.

Bewitch 'em With Popcorn

THE goblins won't get you if you're prepared for Hallowe'en with party-spirited hot popcorn or popcorn balls as cute as these. Whether it's a party at your house or just being ready for neighborhood "trick or treat" calls, nothing you could produce would be better received.

You can make delicious popcorn in a skillet or deep saucepan with a tightly fitting cover. Heat 3 tablespoons of salad oil in skillet; add one-half cup canned popcorn and one-half teaspoon salt; cover. Shake over heat until corn begins to pop. Reduce heat and continue shaking until all corn is popped.

Popcorn Balls

½ cup unsulphured molasses
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 quarts unsalted popped corn

Combine unsulphured molasses, sugar and butter in saucepan. Place over low heat and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cook over medium heat, until syrup when dropped in very cold water separates into threads which are hard but not brittle, or until candy thermometer reaches 270°F. Pour syrup over popped corn, toss lightly. Shape into balls with lightly buttered hands. YIELD: Approximately 12 popcorn balls.

Smoked Butt Roasted Same As Whole Ham

A small family size roast—is that what you are looking for? A smoked shoulder butt is one answer for you.

This roast is the eye of the Boston butt (weighing from 2 to 4 pounds) which has been cured and smoked. It may be roasted the same as a ham. Place it on a rack in an open roasting pan. Use a roast meat thermometer if you have one. Insert it so that the bulb of the thermometer reaches the center of the meat. Leave the pan uncovered and cook without water in a slow oven (300°F.) until the thermometer registers 160°F. This will take from 35 to 40 minutes per pound.

Give this small roast a glaze the same as the ham. About 30 minutes before it is cooked, remove it from your oven and pour off the drippings. Mix ½ cup of brown sugar with 1 tablespoon of flour, ½ teaspoon mustard and 2 tablespoons of vinegar. Spread this mixture over the smoked butt and stick it with whole cloves. Place the meat back in the oven to finish cooking and for setting the glaze.

Candidate For Cooky Jar

A likely candidate for your cooky jar is this spicy, rosy-hued cooky made with condensed tomato soup. They're full of oatmeal and nuts too — good nourishment for the nibblers in your family:

Rosy Oatmeal Cookies

¾ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
3 cups uncooked oatmeal
2 cups seedless raisins, chopped
1 cup chopped walnuts

Cream butter and sugar; add eggs and blend thoroughly. Sift dry ingredients together; add alternately with soup to the butter mixture. Mix well after each addition. Blend in oatmeal, raisins and walnuts. Drop by spoonfuls on a lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 20 minutes or until lightly brown. Makes about 6 dozen cookies, 3-inches in diameter.

Serve Oceans of Tantalizing Tastes — Quick Soy Shrimp Over Fluffy Tender Rice

Ahoy mates, here is powerful good eating! Everyone will go for this fluffy rice and piping hot shrimp dish and that is no fish story.

The white rice goes mighty well with the pink shrimp which curl "real pretty" as they cook in the soy sauce. Even the gruffest "old salt" warms up to the cook with a smile and praises for the eating satisfaction he's getting. Fact is — this rice, shrimp, sauce combination is so really good no one blushes about asking for seconds.

INGREDIENTS:
5 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup diced celery
½ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups warm water
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 pound cooked or uncooked shrimp, cleaned
3 cups hot cooked rice

PREPARING THE FLUFFY WHITE RICE: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy rice, put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt into a 2 quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover saucepan with a lid and leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. Turn off the heat.

Use exact measurements of uncooked rice and water. Time the cooking accurately.

METHOD: Melt butter or margarine in saucepan or skillet. Add the onion, celery and green pepper. Cook until barely tender. Add the flour and mix well. Cook several minutes stirring constantly. Add the water and soy sauce and mix thoroughly. Cook five minutes stirring constantly. Add the shrimp. Cover and simmer 10 minutes, or until the shrimp curl and become pink. Serve over the hot rice. If cooked shrimp are used, thoroughly heat the shrimp in the sauce before serving over the hot rice. Serve with additional soy sauce on the table.

This recipe makes 6 servings.

Q. By what methods may bacon be cooked?

A. By broiling, panbroiling, panfrying or roasting.

Q. What are the steps to follow for these methods?

A. In broiling the meat is placed on the rack and the broiler pan adjusted so that the meat is 2 inches from the heat. It is cooked until brown, then turned and cooked on the second side. In panbroiling, bacon is cooked over low heat in a frying-pan with the excess drippings poured off as they accumulate. The bacon is turned frequently for even cooking. In panfrying the meat is cooked in its drippings, turning frequently. After cooking by all of these methods, the bacon should be placed on absorbent paper to drain. Roasting is an ideal method when cooking a large amount of bacon. Place meat on rack in open roasting pan and cook until desired doneness is obtained.

Q. By what methods may bacon be cooked?

A. By broiling, panbroiling, panfrying or roasting.

Q. What are the steps to follow for these methods?

A. In broiling the meat is placed on the rack and the broiler pan adjusted so that the meat is 2 inches from the heat. It is cooked until brown, then turned and cooked on the second side. In panbroiling, bacon is cooked over low heat in a frying-pan with the excess drippings poured off as they accumulate. The bacon is turned frequently for even cooking. In panfrying the meat is cooked in its drippings, turning frequently. After cooking by all of these methods, the bacon should be placed on absorbent paper to drain. Roasting is an ideal method when cooking a large amount of bacon. Place meat on rack in open roasting pan and cook until desired doneness is obtained.

Baked Kraut-Apple Casserole

2½ cups sauerkraut
2 apples
Tablespoon brown sugar

Place alternate layers of sauerkraut and sliced unpeeled apples in a buttered casserole; sprinkle each layer of apples with brown sugar. Cover and bake one hour in a moderate oven, 375 degrees. Six servings.

PUMPKIN PIE

2 eggs
1 16-oz. pkg. frozen pumpkin or squash*, defrosted
1 cup brown sugar firmly packed
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup milk
1 recipe standard pastry (for 2 8-inch pies)

Beat eggs slightly, add defrosted pumpkin and blend. Mix sugar, flour, and seasonings together; mix well with pumpkin mixture. Blend in milk. Pour into 2 8-inch unbaked pastry shells. Bake. Temperature: 425°F. Time: 50 to 60 minutes. If desired, garnish with chopped pecans or whipped cream.

To make individual tarts: Cut rounds of pastry and place in muffin cups or individual pie tins about 3 to 4 inches in diameter and approximately 2 inches deep. Fill individual pastries with above filling. Bake. Temperature 425°F. Time: 30 to 40 minutes. If desired, garnish with pecan halves or whipped cream.

To make individual custards: Pour above filling into 8 individual custard cups without using pastry. Bake. Temperature: 325°F. Time: 55 to 65 minutes. Serve with whipped cream.

*Note: Either pumpkin or frozen winter squash may be used in this recipe with equal fine flavor.

Corn Meal Keeps Heat In Tasty Fish Fillets

Crisp and crunchy on the outside—delicately flavored and hot on the inside. That's the eating delight you'll find with fish fillets rolled in egg and corn meal. They're so quick to make and easy to serve, and the corn meal keeps the heat inside.

Nice, brown, french-fried potatoes, and green salad or hot vegetables, and you have your complete meal. Add hot corn bread squares brushed with butter, and listen to your family ask for more. Frozen fillets make fish an easy meal the year 'round.

Fish fillets take so little of your time, and they go equally well on the dinner table, for family meals, or for a Friday dinner party. Lemon slices, tartar sauce, or a hot sauce like you serve wth shrimp are all good with these fish fillets.

Fried Fish Fillets

1 cup corn meal
2 teaspoons salt
6 fish fillets
1 egg, beaten
hot fat

Combine corn meal and salt well. Dip cleaned fish in the beaten egg, roll in corn meal, and fry in ¼ inch hot fat (strained bacon dripping may be used, if desired), turning to brown both sides well. Be careful not to overcook fish. Yield: 6 servings.

Serve Beef Cubes In This Different Way

Here's an unusual way for preparing beef cubes, usually served as a stew. Cook them by braising in a tomato sauce, then serve on a bed of egg noodles. This produces a dish that's grand eating. With beef plentiful in your market it's a thrifty dish too.

Beef In Tomato Sauce—Noodles

1½ pounds boneless beef stew, cut in 1-inch cubes
3 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 cup diced onion
1 No. 2 can tomato puree
½ teaspoon cloves
½ cup water
1 8-ounce package noodles, cooked
½ cup cooked peas, drained and seasoned

Mix flour, salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown meat slowly in lard or drippings. Add onion, tomato puree, cloves and water. Cover and cook in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) or simmer on top of range for 2 hours or until tender, adding more water if necessary. Cook noodles in boiling salted water. Arrange meat and vegetables on hot drained cooked noodles. Surround with cooked peas. 6 servings.

Buying And Using Beef

With beef supplies large and more coming to market, you've probably been asking questions about buying and using beef. Here are answers to questions often asked U. S. Department of Agriculture foods specialists:

Are higher grades of beef more nutritious than lower grades?

No. There is no relation between nutritive value and grade.

How can I tell if beef will be tender?

Grade and cut gives an indication of tenderness. Rib and loin cuts of U. S. Prime and Choice grades are ordinarily tender. Tender meat usually has fine-textured lean; red, porous bones; and is well-marbled with fat. It comes from well-fed beef cattle, slaughtered when young.

What cuts, less expensive than round, are suited to grinding?

Cuts from chuck, grisket, flank, plate, shank and neck.

How can I cut shrinkage so there'll be more meat to serve?

Cook at low to moderate temperature all or most of the cooking time. Don't overcook.

How long can I safely keep roasted beef?

A few days in the refrigerator — covered and separated from broth or gravy.

Is it safe to eat frankfurters without cooking?

These sausages contain both beef and pork. They're safe to eat without cooking if prepared under U. S. Government inspection, which requires 137 degree F. temperature in processing. This temperature kills any trichinae which might be present in the pork. Each 1 and-a-half-pounds is required to bear a U. S. inspection stamp or band label.

Suggests Jiffy "Frankwiches" For Snack Time

When youngsters have friends in and there's that inevitable call for "something to eat here is a quick and tasty way to satisfy — jiffy frankfurter sandwiches. Serve these for lunch or a quick supper, too.

To prepare these broiler treats, remove the crusts from slices of bread. Then spread each slice with butter mixed with a bit of prepared mustard. Place a frankfurter diagonally on each slice of bread. Roll it up and fasten with wooden picks.

Broil the sandwiches 3 to 4 inches from the heat, turning them so they will be browned on all sides. When nicely browned, remove them from your broiler and top wooden picks with stuffed olives.

Make it a Treat instead of a Trick . . . We have what it takes!

- ¼ cup diced carrot (1 medium-sized carrot)

Holiday Salad Bowl
(Makes 4 servings)

Barbecue Roast Pork

Roast pork hits a new high for tantalizing flavor when you barbecue it in a rich tomato sauce. Celebrate the first fall days with a luscious platter of pork fixed this irresistable way.

Just the right recipe for the sauce is half the secret to successful barbecuing. One sauce is sure to make all partakers smack their lips. It's a sharp-rich blend of rosy tomato cup, chopped onion, vinegar and lively seasonings. Tastes good enough to make even an "old cowhand" give a cheer.

Serve the barbecued pork from a handsome platter at your table. Or slice and enjoy it sandwich-style.

Try Spicy Pork And Beans

Bubbling with spicy flavor is a pork and bean casserole made with chopped apple, sausage and spices. First pour one 1-pound can of pork and beans into a baking dish. Cut a medium-sized apple into bite-size pieces and stir it into the beans; add ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Dot the top with 1 large link sausage, cut into coin-slices. Heat to bubbling in a hot oven (400° F.) about 20 minutes, 4 servings.

Have you ever tried substituting apple juice for cream in serving fruit? It's good! And kind to the waistline, too.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30 (INS)—Helen Hayes, who held off from motion pictures for years before she appeared in "My Son, John," is making another screen appearance. She'll play herself in "From Main Street to Broadway." Helen won't come to Hollywood since she's appearing on Broadway in "Mrs. McThing." So her sequences will be filmed in the East.

Helen's role is true to her own life in the theatre and she joins a list of such names as Tallulah Bankhead, Rodgers and Hammerstein, Olivia De Haviland, Mary Martin and Cornel Wilde, who are appearing in the film.

Producer Lester Cowan who completed negotiations with Helen over the long distance 'phone, will send Director Tay Garnett to New York to film the Hayes scenes.

If Barbara Stanwyck has her way she'll work around the clock every day, and she's pretty nearly doing just that with the list of pictures piled up for her.

She'll star in "Stopover" for William Goetz in February, and this, my friends, gives Barbara a real dramatic plum. Perhaps you remember the novel by Carol Brink. It's the story of a fading dramatic actress who leaves her family for her career, and then comes back to her hometown to find there is no place for her there.

Ageit Paul Small, who is helping Barbara realize her wish to be busy all the time, made the deal.

After looking at Ethel Merman in "Call Me Madam" Irving Berlin is so sold on her that he has sent her the script of "There's No Business Like Show Business."

Ethel, herself, told me that she doesn't want to do a stage play for a year, but that she will make a motion picture. "No Business Like Show Business" is taken from "Annie Get Your Gun," which starred Ethel for three years.

She certainly looks better than she's ever looked in her life in the movie version of "Call Me Madam," and with that voice of hers, well, it's understandable why Irving wants her.

"American actors are great," says Hugo Fregonese, who just returned from Spain, "but they do not know how to make love on the screen."

Director Fregonese explains that the continental women do not like the romantic acting of our American men.

"I believe this could be overcome," says Fregonese, "By adding a new division in the dramatic coaching department which would show, as an example, Valentino's technique to actors under contract."

I'm afraid I don't agree with Mr. Fregonese. Valentino's type of love making belings to yesterday.

The news that Dorothy McGuire and John Swope are expecting an addition to the family was revealed when Dorothy went shopping for maternity clothes.

Hymie Fink, popular Hollywood photographer, gets screen credit in Robert Cummings' TV series.

An old back injury flared up when Robert Ryan fell when the speakers platform at a political rally in Boston collapsed. Bob was appearing on TV.

Michael Rennie writes from London that he and Jeffrey Hunter had a long talk with Lord Louis Mountbatten in Malta, where they are on location. The subject of their conversation was spearfishing, which is a hobby of Mountbatten's. Michael says he'll be back here in five weeks and he can't wait to get back to Maggie (Mrs. Rennie) who's expecting a baby.

Dorothy Hawkins opens at Ciro's Friday and from New York comes word of her ability as an entertainer.

Moira MacDonald, the Samoan beauty, has fallen in love with a native on the island, and that's one reason she is glad to heed her father's instruction and not come to Hollywood.

Social news of the younger set was the dinner date of Sandra Burns, pretty daughter of Gracie Allen and George Burns, and Warner Leroy at the Beverly Hills Brown Derby. Warner is the son of Mervyn Leroy.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

THE NAMES of these one-month-old lion cubs are given as "Ike" and "Adlai," in keeping with the news of the day. They are the 28th and 29th to be born to "Henrietta" at the San Francisco Zoo. (International)

One seventh of the population of the United Kingdom is composed of children and young people attending schools.

Saxon King Egbert who united all England in 829 is an ancestor of the present royal family of the country.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

HOLLYWOOD

I read in the papers that Queen Elizabeth's coronation will be filmed for television. No live television. Her Majesty might be discovered picking her teeth or something. This is the end. Everything else is going on film. Now that Queen Elizabeth has joined the lists, there's practically nothing live remaining except the animals on "Zoo Parade" who have no special compunctions about their best or the worst camera angles.

John Crosby

The advantages of film are manifold to everyone except you and I who have to look at it. The other day on the set of "I Married Joen," the Joan Davis show, a motley collection of 40 radio and TV editors—conceivably the greatest assemblage of these ink-smeared wretches ever brought under one roof—peppered a brilliant and extraordinarily articulate assortment of technicians with questions about it. The nub of our complaint was that while Hollywood was stuffed with brains and experience, the end product as seen in our living rooms was pretty bad. It was generally agreed among us that the most exciting moments we had ever seen on television were on live, not on film. Why, then, this passion for film which is always $3,000 or $4,000 more expensive than live television?

Al Simon, the associate producer, who took the brunt of these churlish remarks, explained that television was going on film largely because it was less of a strain on the actor just as it's less of a strain

HOLLYWOOD

I read in the papers that Queen Elizabeth's coronation will be filmed for television. No live television. Her Majesty might be discovered picking her teeth or something. This is the end. Everything else is going on film. Now that Queen Elizabeth has joined the lists, there's practically nothing live remaining except the animals on "Zoo Parade" who have no special compunctions about their best or the worst camera angles.

John Crosby

The advantages of film are manifold to everyone except you and I who have to look at it. The other day on the set of "I Married Joen," the Joan Davis show, a motley collection of 40 radio and TV editors—conceivably the greatest assemblage of these ink-smeared wretches ever brought under one roof—peppered a brilliant and extraordinarily articulate assortment of technicians with questions about it. The nub of our complaint was that while Hollywood was stuffed with brains and experience, the end product as seen in our living rooms was pretty bad. It was generally agreed among us that the most exciting moments we had ever seen on television were on live, not on film. Why, then, this passion for film which is always $3,000 or $4,000 more expensive than live television?

Al Simon, the associate producer, who took the brunt of these churlish remarks, explained that television was going on film largely because it was less of a strain on the actor just as it's less of a strain

Market Continues In Vein Of Past Week, Remains Dull

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Today's Stock Market was stamped with the same dullness that has characterized all of this week.

There seems to be a feeling in Wall Street that there are only two more trading days, until the presidential election, so why do anything.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchanged at $104.80. The industrial and railroad components also held unchanged while utilities added 10 cents.

Trans World Airlines gained 1¼ at 18¼ after directors declared a 10 per cent stock dividend and announced an offer to sell one additional share of capital stock for each 7 shares held.

General Motors, seventh most active issue, held steady up ⅛ at 59⅞ on its good earnings report issued late yesterday.

American Cyanamid was under a bit of pressure and lost 1⅝ at 51⅝. It reported nine months earnings equal to $2.02 a share as against $3.74.

Bethlehem Steel declared the usual dividend of $1. And reported earnings for nine months at $3.81 a share as compared with $6.50 the previous year. The stock closed up ⅛ at 48⅛.

R-K-O Pictures was the day's most active issue off ⅛ at 3⅝. It was followed by Packard Motor up ¼ at 4⅞, Intercontinental Rubber up ⅜ at 4⅛, Socony-Vacuum off ¼ at 34¼, and Gulf Oil off ⅝ at 48⅞.

Lower stocks included Paramount Pictures off ¼ at 22⅛, Eastman Kodak ⅝ at 42, Studebaker ¾ at 34¼, Goodrich ½ at 63½, and Boeing ¾ at 38.

Higher were Northern Pacific up ⅜ at 67¾, Texas Pacific Land Trust 4 at 142, Westinghouse Eelectric ⅜ at 42, American Telephone ¼ at 153⅞, Chrysler ¼ at 82, and Douglas Aircraft ½ at 59½.

Job Of Naming Phone Exchanges More Difficult Than It Appears

By BRUCE WINTERS
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK—John C. Doughty, traffic methods supervisor of the New York Telephone Company, is the man who names New York telephone exchanges.

The job is thornier than it appears. For example, in the Bronx, a group of citizens is up in arms because their new exchange name, TUlip, is too sissified.

Trying to satisfy everyone is close to terrible. When the Knights of Columbus wanted the special number of COlumbus 5-1492, Doughty acquiesced cheerfully.

However, the seemingly reasonable request of a Whitehall liquor dealer for WHitehall 4-7539 was denied. Doughty discovered, in time, that the combination spelled W-H-I-S-K-E-Y on the dial.

Sometimes real estate people give Doughty a hard time. TUdor would be a good exchange name, he explained, but it might be construed as advertising for Tudor City.

Three letters correspond with one number like A. B. and C in the same circle with the number 2. Therefore ACademy 2 becomes 222.

The elaborate telephone connections depend on the numerical series. Names are to assist the people for it was found names, not numbers, are more easily remembered by average telephone users.

Lifting the receiver calls a network of electronic equipment to attention. When you dial AC 2 (222) that exchange is alerted for the remainder of the numbers you are about to dial.

As happens quite often, certain letter combinations become "mathematically impossible." That means a whole new exchange must be established.

Besides the mathematical hurdle there's a matter of phonetics. Doughty explained that BYfleet would make a good exchange name, but all too many people would dial BIfleet for a wrong number.

Something like that has already happened in the Bronx where the CYpress exchange, is often dialed CIpress.

In Baltimore, for example, where they use a similar naming system, the downtown CAlvert exchange was abolished so the CA combination could be used in CAtonsville, a residential suburb recently included in the city listing.

Although Catonsville residents were pleased that their exchange was so familiar, small amounts of chaos prevailed until everyone was used to the switch.

Mrs. James B. Morrow, a housewife, was continually bothered by clients calling their insurance company's old number.

She informed the local telephone company who in turn prompted the insurance firm to notify its clients of the new number. Luckily that worked and a real disaster was averted.

Want To Be Beauty Queen? Better Start Training Now

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — The year 1952 probably saw more "Miss Somethings-or-Other" nominated than any preceding 12 months. Next year, the crown makers anticipate an even bumpier crop. You may take that any way you please.

Thousands of America's loveliest vie for the local, regional, national and international honors. The few winners enjoy a short-lived reign. However, the tiny tenure in office is worth it, they'll tell you.

If any gal has her eye on one of these coveted crowns of '53, she should start going into training now. I pass this advice along as it was given to me by a guy who should know. He's Max Factor.

Max not only does his best to make the average gal look gorgeous, but has officiated at more beauty contests than a major league umpire has World Series games.

First note of warning on Max's training table is: be aware that the trend is toward the ultra-feminine. "Girls are coming back," he says, "so be really feminine."

Start now to let your hair grow long for the 1953 title tilts. Long hair sex-appeals more than short. Contest judges are usually men. Don't forget if you grow too much hair, you can always cut some off.

Train down to slim "fighting" weight well in advance of title contest preliminaires. Last-minute lopping off of pounds can make you haggard and lifeless.

For the sake of contour firmness, exercise regularly for at least three months before your first beauty title bout. "Beauties who flab a little never get beyond the bush league," Factor finds.

Take a few drama lessons or at least study posture and how to walk gracefully. Watch the big-time fashion models and do as they do (in their work, that is), only look happier about it!

Better learn about make-up, Max winked, with emphasis on stage make-up and body make-up. Although this is usually done for title contestants, there is no harm in being wise enough to know whether you're being cosmetically done right by.

The preparations are frightening enough, but now, do you want to hear what happens if you win such a contest?

Before we talk about winning, consider what disappointments you might have to accept by losing, because there are many more in this category.

Well, let's assume you win. First of all, home life ceases for a "Miss" or "Mrs. Something-or-Other." She will be on a tedious tour, performing endless publicity. At first it's fun — but this soon ends. You are constantly guarded and cloistered and put on a schedule that makes an Army private seem like a king.

When you've dabbed mortar on several dozen local cornerstones you feel like you're against civic progress and you don't care if towns have to get along with their old city halls, termites and all.

Then of course comes the possibility of a movie contract. You are usually signed for $75 a week with a big splurge in the papers making everybody think you're the next Greta Garbo. The story reads "a $2,000 a week contract." Yeah, if you last to the seventh year option. Your first option is up in six months at which time you would jump to $150 weekly. One out of 10 national winners last beyond the second such option.

O. K., gals, the coach told you what you're up against. Now I want you to get in there and fight. Remember, no hair-pulling and no clinches with the boy friend for the duration.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Market Continues In Vein Of Past Week, Remains Dull

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Today's Stock Market was stamped with the same dullness that has characterized all of this week.

There seems to be a feeling in Wall Street that there are only two more trading days, until the presidential election, so why do anything.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchanged at $104.80. The industrial and railroad components also held unchanged while utilities added 10 cents.

Trans World Airlines gained 1¼ at 18¼ after directors declared a 10 per cent stock dividend and announced an offer to sell one additional share of capital stock for each 7 shares held.

General Motors, seventh most active issue, held steady up ⅛ at 59⅞ on its good earnings report issued late yesterday.

American Cyanamid was under a bit of pressure and lost 1⅜ at 51⅝. It reported nine months earnings equal to $2.02 a share as against $3.74.

Bethlehem Steel declared the usual dividend of $1. And reported earnings for nine months at $3.81 a share as compared with $6.50 the previous year. The stock closed up ⅛ at 48⅛.

R-K-O Pictures was the day's most active issue off ⅛ at 3⅝. It was followed by Packard Motor up ¼ at 4⅞, Intercontinental Rubber up ⅜ at 4⅛, Socony-Vacuum off ¼ at 34¼, and Gulf Oil off ⅝ at 48⅞.

Lower stocks included Paramount Pictures off ¼ at 22⅛, Eastman Kodak ⅝ at 42, Studebaker ¾ at 34¼, Goodrich ½ at 63½, and Boeing ¾ at 38.

Job Of Naming Phone Exchanges More Difficult Than It Appears

By BRUCE WINTERS
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK—John C. Doughty, traffic methods supervisor of the New York Telephone Company, is the man who names New York telephone exchanges.

The job is thornier than it appears. For example, in the Bronx, a group of citizens is up in arms because their new exchange name, TUlip, is too sissified.

Trying to satisfy everyone is close to terrible. When the Knights of Columbus wanted the special number of COlumbus 5-1492, Doughty acquiesced cheerfully.

However, the seemingly reasonable request of a Whitehall liquor dealer for WHitehall 4-7539 was denied. Doughty discovered, in time, that the combination spelled W-H-I-S-K-E-Y on the dial.

Sometimes real estate people give Doughty a hard time. TUdor would be a good exchange name, he explained, but it might be construed as advertising for Tudor City.

Three letters correspond with one number like A, B, and C in the same circle with the number 2. Therefore ACademy 2 becomes 222.

The elaborate telephone connections depend on the numerical series. Names are to assist the people for it was found names, not numbers, are more easily remembered by average telephone users.

Lifting the receiver calls a network of electronic equipment to attention. When you dial AC 2 (222) that exchange is alerted for the remainder of the numbers you are about to dial.

As happens quite often, certain letter combinations become "mathematically impossible." That means a whole new exchange must be established.

Besides the mathematical hurdle there's a matter of phonetics. Doughty explained that BYfleet would make a good exchange name, but all too many people would dial BIfleet for a wrong number.

Something like that has already happened in the Bronx where the CYpress exchange, is often dialed CIpress.

Doughty always tries to select local names of importance for his exchanges so they'll be easily remembered. The SPring exchange, named for the downtown street, is one of the oldest, established in 1881.

LUxembourg, for instance, is a Doughty original. When an 83 combination was needed, he supplied TEmpleton.

However, a lot of unforseen accidents can creep in to upset the most carefully laid plans.

In Baltimore, for example, where they use a similar naming system, the downtown CAlvert exchange was abolished so the CA combination could be used in CAtonsville, a residential suburb recently included in the city listing.

Although Catonsville residents were pleased that their exchange was so familiar, small amounts of chaos prevailed until everyone was used to the switch.

Mrs. James B. Morrow, a housewife, was continually bothered by clients calling their insurance company's old number.

She informed the local telephone company who in turn prompted the insurance firm to notify its clients of the new number. Luckily that worked and a real disaster was averted.

Want To Be Beauty Queen? Better Start Training Now

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — The year 1952 probably saw more "Miss Somethings-or-Other" nominated than any preceding 12 months. Next year, the crown makers anticipate an even bumpier crop. You may take that any way you please.

Thousands of America's loveliest vie for the local, regional, national and international honors. The few winners enjoy a short-lived reign. However, the tiny tenure in office is worth it, they'll tell you.

If any gal has her eye on one of these coveted crowns of '53, she should start going into training now. I pass this advice along as it was given to me by a guy who should know. He's Max Factor.

Max not only does his best to make the average gal look gorgeous, but has officiated at more beauty contests than a major league umpire has World Series games.

First note of warning on Max's training table is: be aware that the trend is toward the ultra-feminine. "Girls are coming back," he says, "so be really feminine."

Start now to let your hair grow long for the 1953 title tilts. Long hair sex-appeals more than short. Contest judges are usually men. Don't forget if you grow too much hair, you can always cut some off.

Train down to slim "fighting" weight well in advance of title contest preliminaires. Last-minute lopping off of pounds can make you haggard and lifeless.

For the sake of contour firmness, exercise regularly for at least three months before your first beauty title bout. "Beauties who flab a little never get beyond the bush league," Factor finds.

However, he cautions, don't exercise one place too much. Beauty detriments such as Gorgeous George-type neck and shoulders can result from over-concentration of exercise on one spot.

In addition to creating a curvaceous figure, you've got to learn how to toss it around. This is commonly called poise, or the proper methods of peddling pulchritude.

Take a few drama lessons or at least study posture and how to walk gracefully. Watch the big-time fashion models and do as they do (in their work, that is), only look happier about it!

Better learn about make-up, Max winked, with emphasis on stage make-up and body make-up. Although this is usually done for title contestants, there is no harm in being wise enough to know whether you're being cosmetically done right by.

The preparations are frightening enough, but now, do you want to hear what happens if you win such a contest?

Before we talk about winning, consider what disappointments you might have to accept by losing, because there are many more in this category.

Well, let's assume you win. First of all, home life ceases for a "Miss" or "Mrs. Something-or-Other." She will be on a tedious tour, performing endless publicity. At first it's fun — but this soon ends. You are constantly guarded and cloistered and put on a schedule that makes an Army private seem like a king.

When you've dabbed mortar on several dozen local cornerstones you feel like you're against civic progress and you don't care if towns have to get along with their old city halls, termites and all.

After a thousand or more poses in swim-suits you dream of the day when you can finally get one wet.

You can even become anti-kissable after being teamed for osculation with dozens of utter strangers who aren't at all your type — all this for publicity pictures.

Then of course comes the possibility of a movie contract. You are usually signed for $75 a week with a big splurge in the papers making everybody think you're the next Greta Garbo. The story reads "a $2,000 a week contract." Yeah, if you last to the seventh year option. Your first option is up in six months at which time you would jump to $150 weekly. One out of 10 national winners last beyond the second such option.

O. K., gals, the coach told you what you're up against. Now I want you to get in there and fight. Remember, no hair-pulling and no clinches with the boy friend for the duration.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
Is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Daylight Saving Time

Among the important questions the voters of Allegany County will be asked to decide in Tuesday's election is a referendum concerning the establishment of Daylight Saving Time on a county-wide basis.

This question has been publicized but little and more likely than not many voters will be surprised, when they go to the polls to cast their ballots, to find that one of the questions they will be asked to answer is that of Daylight Saving Time.

Last March, the voters of Cumberland were asked to decide if they wanted the advantage of an extra hour of daylight during the summer months, and they voted overwhelmingly in favor of it. The vote for Daylight Saving Time was 6,079; the vote against was 4,204.

Now, every citizen of the county is being asked for a decision that will be binding and one that cannot be altered from year to year.

This newspaper is in favor of Daylight Saving Time, but, while endorsing fast time, recognizes that there is some opposition to it, opposition that is well founded from the individual standpoint.

We refer particularly to employes of the two railroads serving Cumberland and the Cumberland area, and realize that it is a hardship for them to carry on their after-work living on a fast time schedule, when their working hours, because of regulations of their employer, must be governed by slow time. For them, during the summer months, it amounts to living on two schedules.

Many tavern keepers and amusement places likewise feel that Daylight Saving Time discriminates against them because it brings the midnight closing to them an hour earlier than it affects their out-of-town and out-of-state competitors. And there will be some farmers who raise objection to the Daylight Saving Time plan.

On the other hand, though, fast time provides many advantages for the greater part of all the people.

First, it is a considerable asset to recreation programs of various communities in the county and is a boon to youngsters who take part in evening baseball. Without Daylight Saving Time, these recreation activities doubtless would be curtailed to fit into the earlier hour of darkness.

The youngsters, of course, are not the only ones who would benefit; adults would reap the harvest of more daylight hours for motoring on delightful summer evenings, there would be more time for adult recreation in such activities as golf, tennis, swimming and other athletic undertakings. And it also would provide more daylight hours for gardening.

On top of all this, a decision in favor of Daylight Saving Time will keep Cumberland and Allegany County in step with other population centers of Maryland and with the metropolitan centers of the East.

A vote for Daylight Time, we believe, is a vote for a progressive step ahead, a forward move in which the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages.

Remember, when election day arrives, that the opponents to Daylight Saving Time will be out in force to mark their ballots. If you favor Daylight Saving Time, the only way to be assured of it is to go to the polls on Tuesday and vote FOR it.

City Spending Is On Schedule In 1st Quarter

Tax Collections Exceed $754,000

City spending was on schedule on September 30 as the first quarter of the 1952-53 fiscal year ended.

Collections, aided by sizable payments of state shared income, were almost a third of the expected total in spite of the fact that tax collections had just started.

Total collections on that date totaled $409,357.55 of the all-time high $1,322,730 budget.

The income included $198,980 of the $396,200 tax levy collected in the 10 days after city tax bills were received.

The tax collection was far different early this week. By Monday, the 30 day deadline to escape payment of interest, the tax office had collected about $754,000, about 90 per cent of the $829,000 billed to citizens and corporations.

Tax Payments Good

The total tax levy is $896,200, but this includes some corporation taxes which have not yet been billed, since certifications have not been received from the State Tax Office.

City Collector George E. Davis said tax collections are running ahead of last year.

During the first quarter of the year, the various departments of the city have spent $275,424 of the $1,085,030 operating appropriation.

Must Curb Spending

Hardest hit was the Contingent fund. During the first three months, the Mayor and Council spent $4,761.42 of the $8,050 contingent fund, leaving only $3,288.58 to meet unexpected needs arising during the succeeding nine months.

Only about half as much was set aside for contingencies in the current budget as last year.

Depletion of the fund, informed sources said, means that the city will have to put a sharp curb on its spending for non-operating items.

Congressional Candidates For 6th Maryland District

MRS. STELLA WERNER
Democrat

Mrs. Stella Biddison Werner, daughter of former State Senator John S. Biddison and a sister of Thomas N. Biddison, Baltimore's city solicitor, is running for the Congress in Maryland's 6th District.

The 50-year-old grandmother is a member of the Montgomery County Council, which corresponds to the board of commissioners in other counties. She was the only Democrat with Republican opposition to be elected.

Mrs. Werner was born in Baltimore County and was educated at Eastern High School and Goucher College in Baltimore. She worked for five years as personnel manager for one of Baltimore's largest department stores.

From 1942 to 1947, Mrs. Werner was executive director of the Montgomery County charter commission. She holds an honorary life membership in the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church in Boston.

DeWITT S. HYDE
Republican

DeWitt S. Hyde, a leader of the Montgomery County delegation in the General Assembly, seeks the congressional seat from Maryland's 6th District.

The 48-year-old legislator is one of a group of young Montgomery County Republican attorneys who took political control away from the Democrats in 1946. He served in the House of Delegates for four years and was elected to the State Senate in 1950.

Born in Washington, March 21, 1909, Hyde received his law degree from George Washington University in 1935. He is a member of the District of Columbia and Maryland bars.

He served as a lieutenant commander in the Navy during World War II and saw duty in the South Pacific. He is married and lives at 5304 Elm Street, Bethesda.

Hyde seeks the seat being vacated by J. Glenn Beall, who is running for the U. S. Senate. The five Western Maryland counties comprising the 6th District have been traditionally Republican.

County Voters Ballot Tuesday On Seven Issues

Only Three Votes Involve Candidates

When Allegany County's registered voters go to the 90 polling places around the county between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. Tuesday, they will have the opportunity of expressing themselves on seven questions.

Naturally, of major interest in the November 4 election will be the three contests involving personalities. But, in addition, voters here will cast ballots on two proposed constitutional amendments of statewide interest and two referendums referring specifically to Allegany County.

Presidential Contest

Heading the personality side of the ballot will be the contest for electors for President and Vice-President of the United States. With a single X the voter will ballot for one of three presidential-vice-presidential teams. These choices are Eisenhower and Nixon, Republican; Stevenson and Sparkman, Democratic, and Hallinan and Bass, Progressive.

Voters also will ballot for a United States Senator and for a member of the House of Representatives in the 83rd Congress from the Sixth Congressional District. In the senatorial race, the choice lies between J. Glenn Beall, Allegany County Republican, and George P. Mahoney, Baltimore County Democrat. Should Beall be elected he would be the first United States Senator from this county since 1903 and the second in history. The only other one was George L. Wellington, a Cumberland Republican, who served from March 4, 1897 until March 3, 1903.

Montgomery Countians

In the Congressional contest, Montgomery County is assured of its first representative in 54 years as both candidates are from that county. They are DeWitt S. Hyde, Republican, and Mrs. Stella B. Werner, Democrat. Last Congressman from Montgomery County was John McDonald, a Rockville farmer, who served from March 4, 1897 until March 3, 1899.

One of the two constitutional amendments on which Maryland voters will express themselves has aroused quite a furore in Anne Arundel County. This proposed amendment would open the way to further expansion and improvement of Baltimore's harbor facilities even when the sites are outside the boundaries of the city itself.

Three Anne Arundel County legislators have sent letters to the 152 members of the General Assembly asking them to oppose the proposed amendment, which would allow condemnation over a 42-mile area beyond Baltimore's city limits including part of Anne Arundel County.

Chambers Opposed

Also opposed are the Annapolis and Glen Burnie Chambers of Commerce, the Anne Arundel County Trade Council and the Anne Arundel County Board of Commissioners.

The other proposed amendment would authorize a program budget in Maryland if approved. Instead of the complex and cumbersome array of thousands of uncoordinated items which have confused and often misled Legislators and the public in the past, the new budget would show what the State plans to spend for each activity. It would enable a measurement of the State's spending in terms of the State's performance, according to those who advocate its ratification.

Both referendums pertaining specifically to Allegany County are easily understood. If approved they would provide for jury service by women in Allegany County and for Daylight Saving Time throughout Allegany County from 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in April to 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in September, for all public, legal and official proceedings.

Stevenson Breaks Off Whistle Stop Campaign

Sen. Fulbright To Be Stand-In

J. WM. FULBRIGHT

Gov. Adlai Stevenson dramatically broke of his presidential campaign and flew to Chester, Ill., last night in an attempt to end the four-day-old rebellion of 350 convicts at Menard State Prison. His train will continue the campaign tour with Sen. Fulbright filling speaking engagements.

The Democratic Presidential candidate said that he hoped he could rejoin the campaign today and added:

"My purpose is to confer on the spot with my associates who have been handling this dificult situation."

An aide said Stevenson would fly to St. Louis in a specially chartered plane and motor from there to Chester, arriving some time before dawn.

Part of Stevenson's speaking engagements in Maryland, West Virginia, Delaware and New York tomorrow were to be taken over by Sen. Fulbright, of Arkansas, who has been travelling with the campaign train. Aides also said they were trying to reach vice president Barkley to take a part in today's speaking dates.

As he left for the Pittsburgh airport from his downtown hotel Stevenson told reporters merely:

"I thought it was my responsibility."

The surprise decision came after a major address in Pittsburgh in which he charged that the Republican "great crusade" has become the "great masquerade" and again accused Gen. Eisenhower of changing his views to suit his audiences.

Allegany County Democrats held a rally at the Knights of Columbus building last night and set the stage for the arrival at 6:40 this morning of Stevenson's campaign special.

Mrs. Stella Werner, Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives from the Sixth District, headed last night's speaking program.

Others taking the platform at last night's rally were Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers of America; William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland; Lester B. McGill, president of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference; Ralph C. Beard, chairman of the PAC Committee of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union; William L. Wilson, Jr., and Michael F. Prendergast, co-chairmen of the county campaign committee, and Joseph Humbertson of Machinists Union.

Also last night the Young Democratic Club met in Democratic headquarters on Pershing and North Liberty streets before going to the all-out rally.

The United Democratic Women of Allegany County and the Young Democratic Club of Allegany County were also on hand last night to serve refreshments.

This morning's plans called for coffee and doughnuts to be served in the waiting room of the B & O Queen City Station by the United Democratic Women beginning at 6 a. m.

At the same time, the homes of Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, were available for persons waiting for the early train.

The Democratic Presidential candidate was to be welcomed to Cumberland by Mayor Roy W. Eves, and Campaign Chairman Wilson agreed to introduce Mrs. Werner.

Life Insurance Courses Planned

Two life underwriting training courses, sponsored by the Cumberland Association of Life Underwriters, will begin today at 2 p. m. at Central YMCA and will continue for 26 weeks, according to Leo Peterson, staff superintendent of the Baltimore Life Insurance Company and the association educational chairman.

The first course, which embodies the fundamental approach to professional life underwriting, will have as its instructor Robert Collins, manager of the People's Life Insurance Company.

The second course, which embraces the principle of advanced professional underwriting with emphasis on estate planning and business insurance, will have as its instructor George Martin, manager of the Prudential Life Insurance Company. The courses are organized and directed by the National Association of Life Underwriters.

Chamber Will Hear Banker

Robert C. Downie, president of the Peoples First National Bank and Trust Company and chief of the Pittsburgh Ordnance District, will be the principal speaker at the general membership meeting of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club at 6:15 p. m. Thursday, November 20.

Downie will give an inspiring message on how the community can grasp its opportunities to forge ahead.

The chamber members also will meet Albert H. Hargreaves, 37-year old Towson man, who has just been appointed director of industrial development by the Chamber of Commerce.

All chamber members, their ladies and guests are invited. Dinner music will be furnished by the Colomy Trio. Reservations will close November 15.

Auto Agency Moving

The Harold Kaiser-Frazer Sales Agency for Kaiser and Henry J. automobiles is moving from 210 South Mechanic Street to 118 South Mechanic Street directly opposite the Kelly Tire Store.

Allegany High Mock Election Slated Today

A mock election will be held today at Allegany High School.

Ballots have been prepared by the Commercal Department under the guidance of Miss Claire Livesay, and voting booths will be provided by William A. Wilson, chairman of the Board of Election Supervisors.

Two assemblies, directed by Miss Olive P. Simpson, democracy teacher, and Miss Mary A. Murray, citizenship instructor, were held today for junior and senior high classes. Speakers included:

Bernard Beerman for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, GOP candidate for president; Douglas Houck for Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential aspirant; June Laber and Janet Ridgely for Sen. Richard Nixon and Sen. John J. Sparkman, respectively, vice presidential candidates.

Betty Brewer for Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Republican candidate for Senate from the Sixth District; James Hoffman for Beall's opponent, George P. Mahoney; Ted Troxell for State Senator DeWitt S. Hyde, GOP aspirant to Congress from the Sixth District, and Peggy Dye for Mrs. Stella Werner, Hyde's opponent. Dean Hancox was master of ceremonies.

The rally, which included posters, parades, banners and campaign music, was planned by Miss Brewer, Republican chairman, and Hoffman, Democratic chairman. Music was directed by S. Lua Syckes.

Naval Reserve Seeks Recruits

A recruiting campaign is now underway in an effort to bring the local Naval Reserve Division up to authorized strength, Lt. Commander W. E. Woodson, Jr., inspector-instructor, announced yesterday.

As part of the drive, Chief Petty Officer Joseph J. Ziner, USN, will visit area high schools and familiarize boys with the reserve program.

"The benefits that can be received from the Naval Reserve cannot be over emphasized," Commander Woodson said, "since the experience offered can prepare a young man for a specialized field which he may enter in civilian life."

The local reserve training program includes schooling of young men in radio, electricity, electronics, machinery, office procedures and other fields.

Young men between the ages of 17 and 18 years are eligible for enlistment as well as veterans under the age of 39 years who are qualified to enlist with the rating formerly held.

The local division meets each Wednesday night and full day's pay is received for each two-hour drill.

Uniforms are furnished without cost to the individual when they enlist, Commander Woodson added. Interested persons are invited to visit the local training center on McKaig's Hill. Further information on the program may be obtained by calling 5273.

Warm weather came to Cumberland yesterday on the heels of a cold spell which showered the area with some snow and a misty rain. Temperatures jumped up to the 60s again and the Weather Bureau predicts more mild weather for today. Forecasters said today will be mostly fair and warmer. High temperature yesterday was 62 according to Constitution Park weather station; low was 34 and at 8:30 o'clock last night, mercury stood at 49 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 41 per cent.

37 Servicemen Vote Already

Servicemen home on leave are continuing to come to the office of the County Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement to cast early ballots for next Tuesday's general election.

Some 37 of these ballots had been cast up to yesterday afternoon, board employes said. State law allows any service man or woman home on leave within 50 days before a general election to go to the Board of Election Supervisors and vote.

In addition, some 500 absent voters ballots have been mailed out to service men and women who will not be home in order to vote in the November 4 election.

Meanwhile, William A. Wilson, chairman of the County Board of Election Supervisors issued a special appeal to married women. He requested that those who still are listed on the poll books under their maiden names to give their married names to the return judge in their polling place so that the board's records can be brought up to date.

Virginia Ave. Blaze Checked By Firemen

A fire at the apartment of a Mrs. Carroll, 605 Virginia Avenue, was checked by Central's aerial truck and pumper and the pumper of South End last night about 10:40 o'clock.

Little damage was reported caused when a dress hanging over the kitchen stove caught fire. Central answered the call when Box 65 was pulled and South End went to the scene following a telephone call, firemen said.

PTA Head Says Home Best Place To Teach Morals

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP)—The president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers said today the best place to teach moral and spiritual values to children is in the home.

Mrs. Newton P. Leonard of Providence, R. I., made the declaration in a keynote address to 400 delegates attending the 37th annual Maryland P-TA congress.

The delegates included representatives from local branches of the organization in Baltimore and Maryland's 23 counties.

Mrs. Leonard explained the national organization's platform for the next three years. Its general aim, she said, is better homes, better schools and better communities. The stress is on better moral and spiritual values for children.

Mrs. Leonard reported the national organization has 7 million members and still is growing.

This afternoon's sessions of the two-day convention program included a discussion of the state's responsibility for education.

Speakers included Dr. Paul E. Mort, professor of education at the Columbia University Teachers' College, and Arnold L. Wilkes, director of public service and education for the Hearst Corp.

New officers will be elected at a business session Friday morning. Joseph A. Hunter of Dundalk is the current Maryland president.

Appeal Made In Fund Drive

A final appeal was sent out last night by Charles F. Hill, chairman of the Frostburg Industrial Promotion Corporation, in an effort to obtain 30 shares needed to keep the Berkowitz Company.

Hill said $77,000 of the $80,000 needed to match a RFC government loan to build a new building for the pajama factory, has been collected, but another $3,000 must be pledged before Saturday.

The corporation is desperate, Hill said, and even appeals to those businessmen who have already pledged to increase their contribution if it is at all possible.

Solicitation in Cumberland this week netted the group only two new pledges, Hill added, and unless the goal is met by Saturday, Frostburg stands to lose its leading industry.

Solicitors are working night and day, Hill declared but in the last two weeks pledges have been coming in slowly. Only help outside of Frostburg can save the plant from moving to another location.

Associated Charities Need Toys For Christmas Giving

The Associated Charities will need a lot of help during the next six weeks if it is to provide toys for all of the needy children who might otherwise be disappointed on Christmas.

About 1,200 toys are on hand or awaiting repair but Miss Jeannette Bonig executive director, said that is only about a fourth as many as were distributed by the Associated Charities last Christmas.

She said the agency can't meet last year's total unless it gets a lot of help.

Open Toy Center

Traditionally, the Associated Charities sets up a storeroom where parents may come and select toys their children have asked Santa to bring.

Plans call for providing one or more large toys and several small playthings for each child.

The agency has already opened its toy headquarters at 119 North Centre Street, where the toys will be stored and repaired.

A great many of the toys already on hand have been made or repaired by the Wrecking Crew of Ali Ghan Shrine.

A number of organizations which each year make toys for the Associated Charities are expected to bring in their donations soon, Miss Bonig said.

Plan Collections

Special toy collections will be held by the Associated Charities on November 5 and 6. Those who have toys which are in good condition or which can be repaired are urged to phone 1838 so the toys can be collected.

Miss Bonig said every effort will be made to pick up available toys early enough so they can be repaired before Christmas.

A number of women's organizations are expected to aid in dressing the beds and dolls which are donated.

Hi-Dee Trustees Appeal Fine For Illegal Sale

Trustees of the Hi-Dee Club, Inc., 136 North Mechanic Street, were fined $500 and costs in Allegany County Circuit Court October 20 on a charge of selling beer to a minor, yesterday appealed to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

The fine was imposed by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris upon Edward L. Belfoure, Lena Belfoure and Robert S. Dicken after they had been convicted by a jury. Their appeal was filed by Attorney Edward J. Ryan.

In another case yesterday Judge Harris lightened the penalty imposed October 20 upon Harry Frost, former operator of the Century Athletic Club, 9 Mechanic Street, Frostburg, on a charge of sale and possession of alcoholic beverages without a license. At the time of the conviction, Judge Harris stipulated that Frost would be confined in the County Jail until his $500 fine is paid. Yesterday, Judge Harris allowed Frost's release from jail after payment of $300 of the fine. He stipulated that Frost must pay the other $200 within 90 days.

Associate Judge George Henderson also has passed sentence in another case in which an investigation had been ordered. Roy Franklin Haines, who pleaded guilty October 23 to two charges of larceny of tires and wheels, has been sentenced to two consecutive 18-month sentences in the Maryland House of Correction. He paroled Haines under supervision of his parole officer on condition that he return to his job in Boston and stay away from Cumberland unless authorized to return by the court or parole officer.

Other speakers last night at a gathering of some 375 Republican faithful were Earl E. Manges, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, and Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

Lonaconing Trial Magistrate Melvin S. Sloan presided at the meeting. He is chairman of the George's Creek Republican rallies committee. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the rally.

The group will accept speaking engagements before all local civic, fraternal or patriotic organizations. Speakers will discuss the Chest's position in the community.

Any group wishing to have a speaker may contact Condon by calling 1165-W or at the Amcelle plant where he is employed. He may also be reached by card or letter.

Clifton Van Roby and Michael Hurst will be in charge of radio publicity for the three local stations, and Winfield H. Adam will handle movie trailers during the campaign.

Distribution of folders containing information on the various participating agencies will be in charge of Ralph Lewis and Willis V. Smith.

Outdoor advertising will be handled by Thomas V. Litzenburg, and information on the Chest drive will be distributed to churches by Rev. C. Lloyd Voll.

Newspaper publicity will be handled by J. William Hunt, Larry Greco and Patrick Tierney.

Daylight Saving Time

Among the important questions the voters of Allegany County will be asked to decide in Tuesday's election is a referendum concerning the establishment of Daylight Saving Time on a county-wide basis.

This question has been publicized but little and more likely than not many voters will be surprised, when they go to the polls to cast their ballots, to find that one of the questions they will be asked to answer is that of Daylight Saving Time.

Last March, the voters of Cumberland were asked to decide if they wanted the advantage of an extra hour of daylight during the summer months, and they voted overwhelmingly in favor of it. The vote for Daylight Saving Time was 6,079; the vote against was 4,204.

Now, every citizen of the county is being asked for a decision that will be binding and one that cannot be altered from year to year.

This newspaper is in favor of Daylight Saving Time, but, while endorsing fast time, recognizes that there is some opposition to it, opposition that is well founded from the individual standpoint.

We refer particularly to employes of the two railroads serving Cumberland and the Cumberland area, and realize that it is a hardship for them to carry on their after-work living on a fast time schedule, when their working hours, because of regulations of their employer, must be governed by slow time. For them, during the summer months, it amounts to living on two schedules.

Many tavern keepers and amusement places likewise feel that Daylight Saving Time discriminates against them because it brings the midnight closing to them an hour earlier than it affects their out-of-town and out-of-state competitors. And there will be some farmers who raise objection to the Daylight Saving Time plan.

On the other hand, though, fast time provides many advantages for the greater part of all the people.

First, it is a considerable asset to recreation programs of various communities in the county and is a boon to youngsters who take part in evening baseball. Without Daylight Saving Time, these recreation activities doubtless would be curtailed to fit into the earlier hour of darkness.

The youngsters, of course, are not the only ones who would benefit; adults would reap the harvest of more daylight hours for motoring on delightful summer evenings, there would be more time for adult recreation in such activities as golf, tennis, swimming and other athletic undertakings. And it also would provide more daylight hours for gardening.

On top of all this, a decision in favor of Daylight Saving Time will keep Cumberland and Allegany County in step with other population centers of Maryland and with the metropolitan centers of the East.

A vote for Daylight Time, we believe, is a vote for a progressive step ahead, a forward move in which the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages.

Remember, when election day arrives, that the opponents to Daylight Saving Time will be out in force to mark their ballots. If you favor Daylight Saving Time, the only way to be assured of it is to go to the polls on Tuesday and vote FOR it.

Stevenson Breaks Off Whistle Stop Campaign

Sen. Fulbright To Be Stand-In

Gov. Adlai Stevenson dramatically broke of his presidential campaign and flew to Chester, Ill., last night in an attempt to end the four-day-old rebellion of 350 convicts at Menard State Prison. His train will continue the campaign tour with Sen. Fulbright filling speaking engagements.

The Democratic Presidential candidate said that he hoped he could rejoin the campaign today and added:

"My purpose is to confer on the spot with my associates who have been handling this dificult situation."

An aide said Stevenson would fly to St. Louis in a specially chartered plane and motor from there to Chester, arriving some time before dawn.

Part of Stevenson's speaking engagements in Maryland, West Virginia, Delaware and New York tomorrow were to be taken over by Sen. Fulbright, of Arkansas, who has been travelling with the campaign train. Aides also said they were trying to reach vice president Barkley to take a part in today's speaking dates.

As he left for the Pittsburgh airport from his downtown hotel Stevenson told reporters merely:

"I thought it was my responsibility."

The surprise decision came after a major address in Pittsburgh in which he charged that the Republican "great crusade" has become the "great masquerade" and again accused Gen. Eisenhower of changing his views to suit his audiences.

Allegany County Democrats held a rally at the Knights of Columbus building last night and set the stage for the arrival at 6:40 this morning of Stevenson's campaign special.

Mrs. Stella Werner, Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives from the Sixth District, headed last night's speaking program.

Others taking the platform at last night's rally were Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers of America; William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland; Lester B. McGill, president of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference; Ralph C. Beard, chairman of the PAC Committee of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union; William L. Wilson, Jr., and Michael F. Prendergast, co-chairmen of the county campaign committee, and Joseph Humbertson of Machinists Union.

Also last night the Young Democratic Club met in Democratic headquarters on Pershing and North Liberty streets before going to the all-out rally.

The United Democratic Women of Allegany County and the Young Democratic Club of Allegany County were also on hand last night to serve refreshments.

This morning's plans called for coffee and doughnuts to be served in the waiting room of the B & O Queen City Station by the United Democratic Women beginning at 6 a. m.

At the same time, the homes of Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, were available for persons waiting for the early train.

The Democratic Presidential candidate was to be welcomed to Cumberland by Mayor Roy W. Eves, and Campaign Chairman Wilson agreed to introduce Mrs. Werner.

City Spending Is On Schedule In 1st Quarter

Tax Collections Exceed $754,000

City spending was on schedule on September 30 as the first quarter of the 1952-53 fiscal year ended.

Collections, aided by sizable payments of state shared income, were almost a third of the expected total in spite of the fact that tax collections had just started.

Total collections on that date totaled $409,357.55 of the all-time high $1,322,730 budget.

The income included $198,980 of the $396,200 tax levy collected in the 10 days after city tax bills were received.

The tax collection was far different early this week. By Monday, the 30 day deadline to escape payment of interest, the tax office had collected about $754,000, about 90 per cent of the $829,000 billed to citizens and corporations.

Tax Payments Good

The total tax levy is $896,200, but this includes some corporation taxes which have not yet been billed, since certifications have not been received from the State Tax Office.

City Collector George E. Davis said tax collections are running ahead of last year.

During the first quarter of the year, the various departments of the city have spent $275,424 of the $1,085,030 operating appropriation.

Must Curb Spending

Hardest hit was the Contingent fund. During the first three months, the Mayor and Council spent $4,761.42 of the $8,050 contingent fund, leaving only $3,288.58 to meet unexpected needs arising during the succeeding nine months.

Only about half as much was set aside for contingencies in the current budget as last year.

Depletion of the fund, informed sources said, means that the city will have to put a sharp curb on its spending for non-operating items.

Allegany High Mock Election Slated Today

A mock election will be held today at Allegany High School.

Ballots have been prepared by the Commercal Department under the guidance of Miss Claire Livesay, and voting booths will be provided by William A. Wilson, chairman of the Board of Election Supervisors.

Two assemblies, directed by Miss Olive P. Simpson, democracy teacher, and Miss Mary A. Murray, citizenship instructor, were held today for junior and senior high classes. Speakers included:

Bernard Beerman for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, GOP candidate for president; Douglas Houck for Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential aspirant; June Laber and Janet Ridgely for Sen. Richard Nixon and Sen. John J. Sparkman, respectively, vice presidential candidates.

Betty Brewer for Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Republican candidate for Senate from the Sixth District; James Hoffman for Beall's opponent, George P. Mahoney; Ted Troxell for State Senator DeWitt S. Hyde, GOP aspirant to Congress from the Sixth District, and Peggy Dye for Mrs. Stella Werner, Hyde's opponent. Dean Hancox was master of ceremonies.

The rally, which included posters, parades, banners and campaign music, was planned by Miss Brewer, Republican chairman, and Hoffman, Democratic chairman. Music was directed by S. Lua Sykes.

Chairmen for the election today are Marshall Yankelevitz, Democrat, and Robert Hardman, Republican.

Naval Reserve Seeks Recruits

A recruiting campaign is now underway in an effort to bring the local Naval Reserve Division up to authorized strength, Lt. Commander W. E. Woodson, Jr., inspector-instructor, announced yesterday.

As part of the drive, Chief Petty Officer Joseph J. Ziner, USN, will visit area high schools and familiarize boys with the reserve program.

"The benefits that can be received from the Naval Reserve cannot be over emphasized," Commander Woodson said, "since the experience offered can prepare a young man for a specialized field which he may enter in civilian life."

The local reserve training program includes schooling of young men in radio, electricity, electronics, machinery, office procedures and other fields.

Young men between the ages of 17 and 18 years are eligible for enlistment as well as veterans under the age of 39 years who are qualified to enlist with the rating formerly held.

The local division meets each Wednesday night and full day's pay is received for each two-hour drill.

Uniforms are furnished without cost to the individual when they enlist, Commander Woodson added. Interested persons are invited to visit the local training center on McKaig's Hill. Further information on the program may be obtained by calling 5273.

37 Servicemen Vote Already

Servicemen home on leave are continuing to come to the office of the County Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement to cast early ballots for next Tuesday's general election.

Some 37 of these ballots had been cast up to yesterday afternoon, board employes said. State law allows any service man or woman home on leave within 50 days before a general election to go to the Board of Election Supervisors and vote.

In addition, some 500 absent voters ballots have been mailed out to service men and women who will not be home in order to vote in the November 4 election.

Meanwhile, William A. Wilson, chairman of the County Board of Election Supervisors issued a special appeal to married women. He requested that those who still are listed on the poll books under their maiden names to give their married names to the return judge in their polling place so that the board's records can be brought up to date.

PTA Head Says Home Best Place To Teach Morals

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30 (AP)—The president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers said today the best place to teach moral and spiritual values to children is in the home.

Mrs. Newton P. Leonard of Providence, R. I., made the declaration in a keynote address to 400 delegates attending the 37th annual Maryland P-TA congress.

The delegates included representatives from local branches of the organization in Baltimore and Maryland's 23 counties.

Mrs. Leonard explained the national organization's platform for the next three years. Its general aim, she said, is better homes, better schools and better communities. The stress is on better moral and spiritual values for children.

Mrs. Leonard reported the national organization has 7 million members and still is growing.

This afternoon's sessions of the two-day convention program included a discussion of the state's responsibility for education.

Speakers included Dr. Paul E. Mort, professor of education at the Columbia University Teachers' College, and Arnold L. Wilkes, director of public service and education for the Hearst Corp.

New officers will be elected at a business session Friday morning. Joseph A. Hunter of Dundalk is the current Maryland president.

Appeal Made In Fund Drive

A final appeal was sent out last night by Charles F. Hill, chairman of the Frostburg Industrial Promotion Corporation, in an effort to obtain 30 shares needed to keep the Berkowitz Company.

Hill said $77,000 of the $80,000 needed to match a RFC government loan to build a new building for the pajama factory, has been collected, but another $3,000 must be pledged before Saturday.

The corporation is desperate, Hill said, and even appeals to those businessmen who have already pledged to increase their contribution if it is at all possible.

Solicitation in Cumberland this week netted the group only two new pledges, Hill added, and unless the goal is met by Saturday, Frostburg stands to lose its leading industry.

Solicitors are working night and day, Hill declared but in the last two weeks pledges have been coming in slowly. Only help outside of Frostburg can save the plant from moving to another location.

Congressional Candidates For 6th Maryland District

MRS. STELLA WERNER
Democrat

Mrs. Stella Biddison Werner, daughter of former State Senator John S. Biddison and a sister of Thomas N. Biddison, Baltimore's city solicitor, is running for the Congress in Maryland's 6th District.

The 50-year-old grandmother is a member of the Montgomery County Council, which corresponds to the board of commissioners in other counties. She was the only Democrat with Republican opposition to be elected.

Mrs. Werner was born in Baltimore County and was educated at Eastern High School and Goucher College in Baltimore. She worked for five years as personnel manager for one of Baltimore's largest department stores.

From 1942 to 1947, Mrs. Werner was executive director of the Montgomery County charter commission. She holds an honorary life membership in the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church in Boston.

Mrs. Werner also works as a radio commentator and a newspaper columnist.

DeWITT S. HYDE
Republican

DeWitt S. Hyde, a leader of the Montgomery County delegation in the General Assembly, seeks the congressional seat from Maryland's 6th District.

The 48-year-old legislator is one of a group of young Montgomery County Republican attorneys who took political control away from the Democrats in 1946. He served in the House of Delegates for four years and was elected to the State Senate in 1950.

Hyde filed for the senate when Roy Tasco Davis, the Republican who had been put in office in the 1946 sweep, entered the gubernatorial race. Davis later withdrew.

Born in Washington, March 21, 1909, Hyde received his law degree from George Washington University in 1935. He is a member of the District of Columbia and Maryland bars.

He served as a lieutenant commander in the Navy during World War II and saw duty in the South Pacific. He is married and lives at 5304 Elm Street, Bethesda.

Hyde seeks the seat being vacated by J. Glenn Beall, who is running for the U. S. Senate. The five Western Maryland counties comprising the 6th District have been traditionally Republican.

Associated Charities Need Toys For Christmas Giving

The Associated Charities will need a lot of help during the next six weeks if it is to provide toys for all of the needy children who might otherwise be disappointed on Christmas.

About 1,200 toys are on hand or awaiting repair but Miss Jeannette Bonig executive director, said that is only about a fourth as many as were distributed by the Associated Charities last Christmas.

She said the agency can't meet last year's total unless it gets a lot of help.

Open Toy Center

Traditionally, the Associated Charities sets up a storeroom where parents may come and select toys their children have asked Santa to bring.

Plans call for providing one or more large toys and several small playthings for each child.

The agency has already opened its toy headquarters at 119 North Centre Street, where the toys will be stored and repaired.

Families aided by the Associated Charities will staff the toy center and make needed repairs.

A great many of the toys already on hand have been made or repaired by the Wrecking Crew of Ali Ghan Shrine.

A number of organizations which each year make toys for the Associated Charities are expected to bring in their donations soon, Miss Bonig said.

Members of the Naval Reserve here are planning to help with the toy repairs.

Plan Collections

Special toy collections will be held by the Associated Charities on November 5 and 6. Those who have toys which are in good condition or which can be repaired are urged to phone 1838 so the toys can be collected.

Miss Bonig said every effort will be made to pick up available toys early enough so they can be repaired before Christmas.

A number of women's organizations are expected to aid in dressing the beds and dolls which are donated.

Hi-Dee Trustees Appeal Fine For Illegal Sale

Trustees of the Hi-Dee Club, Inc., 136 North Mechanic Street, were fined $500 and costs in Allegany County Circuit Court October 20 on a charge of selling beer to a minor, yesterday appealed to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

The fine was imposed by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris upon Edward L. Belfoure, Lena Belfoure and Robert S. Dicken after they had been convicted by a jury. Their appeal was filed by Attorney Edward J. Ryan.

In another case yesterday Judge Harris lightened the penalty imposed October 20 upon Harry Frost, former operator of the Century Athletic Club, 9 Mechanic Street, Frostburg, on a charge of sale and possession of alcoholic beverages without a license. At the time of the conviction, Judge Harris stipulated that Frost would be confined in the County Jail until his $500 fine is paid. Yesterday, Judge Harris allowed Frost's release from jail after payment of $300 of the fine. He stipulated that Frost must pay the other $200 within 90 days.

Associate Judge George Henderson also has passed sentence in another case in which an investigation had been ordered. Roy Franklin Haines, who pleaded guilty October 23 to two charges of larceny of tires and wheels, has been sentenced to two consecutive 18-month sentences in the Maryland House of Correction. He paroled Haines under supervision of his parole officer on condition that he return to his job in Boston and stay away from Cumberland unless authorized to return by the court or parole officer.

Other speakers last night at a gathering of some 375 Republican faithful were Earl E. Manges, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, and Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

Lonaconing Trial Magistrate Melvin S. Sloan presided at the meeting. He is chairman of the George's Creek Republican rallies committee. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the rally.

County Voters Ballot Tuesday On Seven Issues

Only Three Votes Involve Candidates

When Allegany County's registered voters go to the 90 polling places around the county between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. Tuesday, they will have the opportunity of expressing themselves on seven questions.

Naturally, of major interest in the November 4 election will be the three contests involving personalities. But, in addition, voters here will cast ballots on two proposed constitutional amendments of statewide interest and two referendums referring specifically to Allegany County.

Presidential Contest

Heading the personality side of the ballot will be the contest for electors for President and Vice-President of the United States. With a single X the voter will ballot for one of three presidential-vice-presidential teams. These choices are Eisenhower and Nixon, Republican; Stevenson and Sparkman, Democratic, and Hallinan and Bass, Progressive.

Voters also will ballot for a United States Senator and for a member of the House of Representatives in the 83rd Congress from the Sixth Congressional District. In the senatorial race, the choice lies between J. Glenn Beall, Allegany County Republican, and George P. Mahoney, Baltimore County Democrat. Should Beall be elected he would be the first United States Senator from this county since 1903 and the second in history. The only other one was George L. Wellington, a Cumberland Republican, who served from March 4, 1897 until March 3, 1903.

Montgomery Countians

In the Congressional contest, Montgomery County is assured of its first representative in 54 years as both candidates are from that county. They are DeWitt S. Hyde, Republican, and Mrs. Stella B. Werner, Democrat. Last Congressman from Montgomery County was John McDonald, a Rockville farmer, who served from March 4, 1897 until March 3, 1899.

One of the two constitutional amendments on which Maryland voters will express themselves has aroused quite a furore in Anne Arundel County. This proposed amendment would open the way to further expansion and improvement of Baltimore's harbor facilities even when the sites are outside the boundaries of the city itself.

Three Anne Arundel County legislators have sent letters to the 152 members of the General Assembly asking them to oppose the proposed amendment, which would allow condemnation over a 42-mile area beyond Baltimore's city limits including part of Anne Arundel County.

Chambers Opposed

Also opposed are the Annapolis and Glen Burnie Chambers of Commerce, the Anne Arundel County Trade Council and the Anne Arundel County Board of Commissioners.

The other proposed amendment would authorize a program budget in Maryland if approved. Instead of the complex and cumbersome array of thousands of uncoordinated items which have confused and often misled Legislators and the public in the past, the new budget would show what the State plans to spend for each activity. It would enable a measurement of the State's spending in terms of the State's performance, according to those who advocate its ratification.

Both referendums pertaining specifically to Allegany County are easily understood. If approved they would provide for jury service by women in Allegany County and for Daylight Saving Time throughout Allegany County from 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in April to 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in September, for all public, legal and official proceedings.

Chest Announces Publicity Group

Charles S. Catherman, Jr., chairman of the publicity committee for the 1952 Cumberland Community Chest and USO fund campaign, yesterday announced the names of those who will assist him with the publicity phase of the drive.

The group will accept speaking engagements before all local civic, fraternal or patriotic organizations. Speakers will discuss the Chest's position in the community.

Any group wishing to have a speaker may contact Condon by calling 1165-W or at the Amcelle plant where he is employed. He may also be reached by card or letter.

Clifton Van Roby and Michael Hurst will be in charge of radio publicity for the three local stations, and Winfield H. Adam will handle movie trailers during the campaign.

Distribution of folders containing information on the various participating agencies will be in charge of Ralph Lewis and Willis V. Smith.

Outdoor advertising will be handled by Thomas V. Litzenburg, and information on the Chest drive will be distributed to churches by Rev. C. Lloyd Voll.

Newspaper publicity will be handled by J. William Hunt, Larry Greco and Patrick Tierney.
